INSULTS TO WILSON STIR O'SHAUGHNESSY

American Envoy Sends Moheno a Letter of Protest Against Scurrilous Editorials.

IN A GOVERNMENT ORGAN

Castillo Now Reported to Have Been Shot with Companions in a Fight with Rebel Detachment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Guericlo Moheno, the Foreign Minister, this morning received a note from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé d'Affaires, protesting against the "libelous and scurrilous attacks upon President Wilson," recently published editorially in El Imparcial. The note calls the attention of Señor Moheno to these attacks, adding that they are more serious when it is considered that El Imparcial is a Government organ. It further says that Mr. O'Shaughnessy assumes that the articles were published without the knowledge or consent of the Government, and expresses the hope that they may be discontinued.

These editorials have been extremely insulting in their references to President Wilson and calculated to incite anti-American sentiment here. It is expected that President Huerta will take action, as a result of Mr. O'Shaughnessy's note, although it is entirely possible that he will refuse to do so.

Mexicans regard the sending of the note as an indication of a marked change in Mr. O'Shaughnessy's attitude toward President Huerta, although it is admitted that it would be incompatible with his dignity to allow the attacks to continue without calling the attention of Señor Moheno to them.

CASTILLO REPORTED KILLED.

Courier Says Outlaw Chief and Six Companions Were Shot in Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

JUAREZ, Feb. 11.—Villa has been cheated of the privilege of executing Maximo Castillo in the public plaza here, if the rebel couriers from Chocolate Pass, Chihuahua, are bringing reliable information to their chief. After the report of Castillo's capture by Capt. Juan Samaniegos on Tuesday night, the courier brought the news that Castillo and six of his brigands had been killed in the famous Chocolate Pass, where the Federals first met defeat in the Madero revolution. Villa had given orders that Castillo and his men should be brought to Juarez for a public execution; but it is thought that they were shot while trying to escape across the border. No verification of the reported execution has yet been received.

It became known to-day that a French merchant named Emel and his family of four persons were killed in the Cumbre disaster. This is the second entire family known to have been wiped out by the tragedy. A body, later identified as that of H. F. Marders, the express messenger, was brought out of the tunnel to-day. The wrecking crews are at work on the south end of the tunnel; but the fire continues to burn so fiercely that one can enter that portal.

In preparation for the Torreon campaign, Gen. Villa is arranging his affairs so that the Chihuahua State Government may go on if he is killed. He has sent his steel-jacketed automobile to the front and will probably follow it to-morrow.

Gen. Carranza has not yet arrived from Sonora, as the Yaqui Indians are on the warpath again, and are committing outrages in the Yaqui River Valley. Gen. Obregon, with 3,000 men, is expected to come to Chihuahua to garrison the State while Villa's men fight before Torreon.

CARRANZA WANTS NO LOAN.

Azcona, His Agent in Europe, Repudiates Federal Contracts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Juan Sanchez Azcona, Gen. Carranza's delegate to Europe, in an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day, said he had not come to Europe to negotiate a loan, because Gen. Carranza did not want any, preferring to free Mexico without owing a cent to foreign countries.

The object of his European visit is to see friends of the Constitutionalist cause, and get information. From France he will go to Berlin and London.

Señor Azcona said that he had written to the management of the Creusct Works informing it that the Constitutionalists did not acknowledge their claim upon Mexico for harbor and terminus work done for Huerta, and that he had also notified the French Foreign Minister of the repudiation of the debts. He said the Mexican national debt would be honored, however, by the Constitutionalist Government.

He expressed satisfaction that Adolfo de la Lama, the Huerta Minister of Finance, was returning empty-handed. He denied the press reports that the Constitutionalists were negotiating for the purchase of cruisers from France.

Señor de la Lama sailed to-day on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie from Cherborg, as did Felix Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who with his wife and daughters motored from Paris. Señor de la Lama, when seen in the Gare St. Lazare, said that he intended to stay for some days in New York,

SPEEDED PASTOR'S WEDDING

Cowboys Made Up a Purse to Send Rector Here for His Bride.

When the Rev. Stephen McGinley was graduated at the General Theological Seminary here last July and went to Cody, Wyo., to take charge of Christ Church, he expected to return within a few months and marry Miss Virginia Gresham Meigs of 412 West Twentieth Street, but his work was so heavy that he could not get away, so he wrote telling Miss Meigs that he hoped she would wait for him.

A week ago the ranchers and cowboys heard of this disappointment. They immediately called a meeting of the leading members of the congregation and voted that the wedding must not be delayed on their account. Then they contributed $1,000 to the expenses of the pastor.

That was why the wedding took place last night in Calvary Episcopal Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Meigs She met Mr. McGinley while he was a student in the seminary, which is across from her home.

At the home of Mrs. Meigs, 412 West Twentieth Street, a telegram was received last night from a committee of the ranchers, cowboys, and miners announcing that they would meet the pastor and his wife when they return with an escort of 500 horsemen. They will start back to face the reception to-day. Mrs. William F. Cody and her daughter are members of the choir of the church, and Col. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," attends services there.

ARREST A GYPSY PRINCESS.

No Easy Matter, However, for Her Subjects Combatted the Police.

The gypsy colony in Brownsville was invaded yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Chrystie and Detective Isabella Goodwin. Mrs. Goodwin was to point out the woman who, according to her complaint, had told her fortune on the day before, and the policeman had the warrant to serve.

They sought out "Princess" Maria Marandi in the tenement at 145 Christopher Avenue, but when they tried to arrest her she fought, and the place soon was swarming with angry men and women, who attacked Chrystie and Mrs. Goodwin and tried to wrest their prisoner from them. Somehow, with Mrs. Goodwin still gripping the "Princess," the jostling crowd reached the street, and then other policemen came to the rescue. By that time, Chrystie was breathing hard and Mrs. Goodwin was much disheveled. The "Princess" was held for fortune telling and another woman was arrested for having interfered in the service of the warrant.

The gypsies come to Brownsville more than 400 strong in the cold days of December and January. They had disposed of their horses and wagons for the Winter in Philadelphia and rented quarters on the outskirts of Brooklyn until pleasanter days should bid them take to the road. Their leader is "Queen" Katherine Adams, reputed to be 105 years old.

POLICE SCENT SPY SQUAD.

McKay Wants Names of New Men with Army or Navy Training.

Among the old-timers of the Police Department there was a deal of worried speculation yesterday over an order from Commissioner McKay directing all commanding officers to send in the names and shield numbers of patrolmen who had been on the force less than one year and who had formerly been members of the army, navy, or marine corps.

Noncommittal enough, this order, which appeared in Tuesday's circular, agitated the force, for it immediately aroused the suspicion that the new administration was seeking to inaugurate a secret service within the department. The Curran committee recommended such a service and it is believed that the Mayor approves the idea. The police are haunted by the vision of a "gum-shoe" squad working in secret conference with the Commissioner and serving to keep him informed of many things within the department of which some of his predecessors have been quite oblivious.

It was argued yesterday in whispering groups that if Mr. McKay did want such a squad, it would be made up of just such men as those called for in this order—men experienced to some degree in the discipline of the army or navy and men so new to the service here as to be without too many acquaintances in the force and to be of greater presumptive freedom from the "system."

AWAITED RAINE'S SUICIDE.

Memphis Police Expected Bank Defaulter to End Life While Free.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 11.—It developed to-night that the arrest of C. Hunter Raine, President of the Mercantile Bank of Memphis, on a charge of defalcation of over a million dollars was first planned for Sunday night instead of Monday morning. That he was short in his accounts was admitted by him following a conference of the officers and Directors of the bank late on Sunday afternoon. A bench warrant could have been obtained that night if wanted. Instead Mr. Raine was allowed to remain in his home.

Notwithstanding that he had his liberty, it was learned that the police and reporters watched the house all Sunday night, as it was feared he would take his life. Bereft of family, except his brother, Gilbert Raine, owner of The Memphis News Scimitar, he is known to have stated that he had now little to live for. He is said to have made every preparation to commit suicide, but that his nerve failed him.

SEEK TO END FRISCO SUIT.

Yoakum and Other $14,000,000 Defendants Question Federal Jurisdiction.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11.—Dismissal of the suit of the receivers of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad to recover $14,000,000 from former officers and Directors of the road was asked by B. F. Yoakum of New York, in so far as the suit applied to him, in a petition filed in the Federal District Court here to-day. Mr. Yoakum, who was Chairman of the Directors, contended that the Federal District Court had no jurisdiction and that the facts set forth in the suit were insufficient as a basis of action.

Three other defendants later filed similar motions—James Campbell, Thomas H. West, and A. S. Greig, all of St. Louis.

WILSON PRIMARY HITS REPUBLICANS

Making State and District the Units Would Balk Efforts to Cut Southern Representation.

VOTING UNDER STATE LAWS

Presidential Nominees of All Parties to be Chosen Same Day—Conventions May Be Retained.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—If enacted into law, the Presidential Primary plan as now outlined by the Administration leaders will knock into worse than "a cocked hat" the recent action taken by the Republican National Committee looking toward cutting down Southern representation in choosing the Presidential nominee.

An hour's conference was held to-day at the White House between President Wilson and Representative W. W. Rucker of Missouri, Chairman of the House Committee on the Election of President, Vice President, and Representatives in Congress. At its conclusion Mr. Rucker said the President had merely discussed and given his views upon the subject in a most general way. He declined to divulge what the President's views were, but said the President had urged prompt action.

It was learned to-night, however, what the Administration's present programme contemplates, including the following provisions in the measure:

Primaries to be held throughout the entire nation on the same day to choose Presidential nominees of all parties.

Primaries to be under jurisdiction of the State laws and the election machinery of the various States.

Each State to prescribe the qualifications of the voters at the primary.

The bill to provide temporary machinery until the States can enact the necessary laws so that the next Presidential nominees may be chosen by primaries.

The State and the Congressional district to be the unit of primary action.

The President is said to have approved the view which Representative Rucker told him was generally held in Congress, that the States must retain the same relative power they now possess in nominating and electing a President. This will be the keystone provision of the forthcoming Administration bill. And it is this provision that, if adopted, will nullify the recent action of the Republican National Committee.

Under this plan the outcome of the voting in each Congressional district will be one unit for determining the general result; and the outcome of the Statewide vote will constitute the other unit. Each State would have the same representation in choosing the Presidential nominee as it has representation in Congress. Obviously, this would destroy at once the scheme devised by the Republicans to limit Southern representation.

It has not been decided whether the bill will provide for a convention. President Wilson and Representative Rucker were inclined to the opinion, however, that conventions following the primaries must be provided for. No decision has been reached as to whether the convention, if provided for, should be composed of delegates elected at the primaries or of the primary nominees for President, Vice President, Senators, and Representatives. Choice of these alternatives is yet to be made. Mr. Rucker indicated that the President does not object to party conventions to carry out the will of the people as expressed through the primary vote.

It is probable that the completed measure, therefore, will provide for the last-mentioned application of the present system. In that case the district vote would control the votes of the district delegate or delegates in the convention for President and Vice President and the State vote would similarly control the vote of the delegates at large.

Whatever plan is followed the convention's nominating function would be purely nominal. Its principal task would be the writing and promulgating of the party platform.

"I do not attempt to speak for the President," said Congressman Rucker to-night, "but he made it clear that he has not changed his attitude on the subject of primaries. I believe it is plain that the Administration, and pretty nearly every one in Congress, favors quick legislation."

One of the main difficulties in the writing of the bill has concerned the placing of some limitation on the number of candidates whose names shall be listed on the primary ballot. It was foreseen that the local sentiment, which has led to so many favorite son candidates in past national conventions, might possibly bring fifteen or twenty candidates into the field. Such a multiplicity of candidates would lead to confusion under a primary system. It also was pointed out that one "strong" candidate might be defeated in this manner by pitting "favorite" sons against him in every State in which he was likely to be strong.

A petition system is likely to be the outcome. This would require the filing of petitions containing a certain percentage of the total vote of a certain number of States. It would be stipulated as a qualification for a place upon the ballot, that these petitions shall have been circulated and the adequate number of signers obtained in at least one-third of the States. It may be that the bill will require that the petitions be circulated in a larger percentage of the States.

That phase of the bill has not been settled. The committee will discuss the petition plan thoroughly in the next two weeks before Mr. Rucker prepares a draft of the bill for introduction.

POTOMAC SAFE, CREW WELL.

Men Land at Bonne Bay—Ice-Bound Fishing Schooners All Right.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., Feb. 11.—The American naval tug Potomac is safe so far and all the thirty-six members of her crew are well. This is the news received here to-night from Bonne Bay, west coast of Newfoundland, off which the tug is enmeshed in the ice. The first officer of the vessel, with several members of the crew, reached Bonne Bay over the ice to-day to replenish the supply of food on board, and it is understood that the officer will await there orders from Washington.

While the tug has escaped the dangers of the ice up to the present, her plight is serious, for she is drifting northward with prevailing winds into a section of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, from which it is almost hopeless to attempt to extricate her, though all her crew probably could get to land any day by walking over the ice. This they will probably have to do very soon, as their food supply is small, and beyond Bonne Bay there are no settlements which carry any stores in Winter that would satisfy her requirements.

Competent marine authorities here believe there is little prospect of saving her, and consider the American Navy Department would do wisely in ordering her abandonment.

It is understood that her first officer, who landed at Bonne Bay to-day, will await orders there from Washington.

MONROE STEERED BY FAULTY COMPASS

Deviated as Much as 2 Degrees, Wrecked Old Dominion Liner's Captain Testifies.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—A dramatic narrative of the ramming and sinking of the Old Dominion Line steamship Monroe off the Virginia Capes late in January was related tearfully to-day by Capt. Edward E. Johnson, master of the sunken vessel.

For five hours he occupied the witness stand at the opening session of the Government's inquiry to fix the responsibility for the disaster, which cost the lives of forty-one persons, when Capt. Osmyn Berry of the Merchants and Miners' steamship Nantucket, which rammed the Monroe, was placed on trial on charge of neglect of duty. Later the two Captains met, clasped hands, and sobbed on each other's shoulders.

As in the Titanic disaster, it is expected that the inquiry will result in certain changes being made with relation to the navigation of vessels, at least in the coastwise trade. While primarily Capt. Berry is on trial, the Board of Inspectors has instructions from the Department of Commerce to make a thorough inquiry into every phase of the collision with the view of the enactment of Federal laws to assist in preventing a recurrence of similar disasters.

Capt. Berry, when confronted to-day by the charges brought by the Government steamboat Inspectors at Norfolk, pleaded not guilty. He is charged with failing to reduce the speed of his ship to avoid the collision, failing to ascertain whether the wireless operator was on duty, and with being careless in not ascertaining through the wireless operator whether any other vessels were close by in the fog.

One of the most important points brought out in the examination of Capt. Johnson, who was the first witness, was that he navigated the Monroe with a steering compass that deviated as much as two degrees from the standard magnet compass. He said the instrument was sufficiently true to run the ship, and that it was the custom of masters in the coastwise trade to use such compasses. His steering compass had never been adjusted in the one year he was master of the Monroe.

In telling the story of the disaster he said that the first knowledge he had that the Nantucket was near him in the fog was when he heard a whistle three points on the starboard bow. He was running at half speed at the time and stopped his engine to locate the other ship and blew his whistle twice to let the vessel know he was steering to port. He judged the whistle was about 375 feet away. Next he saw a faint light four points to starboard and about 340 feet away, he said. He believed the other vessel was going in the opposite direction to him on a parallel line, but a moment later the ship came out of the fog almost at right angles and struck the monroe on the starboat side aft of the pilot house. There was a lapse of only two minutes between the time he heard the Nantucket's first whistle and the collision, he declared.

Capt. Johnson detailed the duties of each member of the crew from the first officer down to the stewards. At the time of the collision he had had no sleep for nineteen hours. He admitted that he could have gone to sleep before the Monroe left Norfolk for New York, but said he did not think it necessary. A number of times he had remained in the pilot house all the way from Norfolk to New York.

Questioned as to what action he took to find out through the wireless operator the proximity of other vessels, Capt. Johnson said he had instructed the operator to ascertain the location of the steamer Hamilton, which he knew was coming down the coast. This vessel was located near the Delaware Capes. The Nantucket must have been between the Hamilton and Monroe, Capt. Johnson said, but the operator of the Nantucket did not make his presence known.

Asked by Capt. Redyard A. Sargent, presiding officer of the Local Board of United States Steamship Inspectors, for his views as to the efficiency of wireless in locating vessels in fogs, Capt. Johnson said it was a great help. He added, however, that operators did not bother about messages they heard unless directed to the ship, and some did not trouble to answer questions as to the course and situation of their vessels. This, he said, reduced the efficiency of the service to a minimum.

COMPASSES NOT INSPECTED.

Variation Is Universal, Asserts Steamboat Inspection Chief.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Commenting on the testimony of Capt. Johnson in the inquiry begun at Philadelphia today on the sinking of the Monroe, Inspector General George Uhler of the Steamboat Inspection Service said to-night:

"The testimony of Capt. Johnson looks straight and true. He says his compass was two degrees off and had not been corrected for a year he was on the ship. Well, that is nothing remarkable. There isn't a compass on any vessel engaged in coastwise trade that is true. They all vary, and the variation is determined and allowance is made for it always in navigating the ship.

"We inspect the compasses always, but we do not regulate them. That is not done by a Government official. It is done by private persons in New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, competent men who are qualified to do it. The process is too long a story, but they put the ship's head to the north star and compare the compass.

"I don't think it is at all peculiar that Capt. Johnson's compass had not been corrected in a year, as he said. But you may depend on shipowners and Captains looking after their compasses. They want to be able to navigate their vessels, and they must keep their compasses right to do that.

"As to the difficulty in getting positions of other ships from the wireless operators, that is something hard to reckon with. The new wireless law has only recently gone into effect, and it is hardly to be expected that it will do all that might be expected from it at once."

ALARM ON LINER CHICAGO.

Passengers Misunderstood an Order—Vessel at Halifax for Coal.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 11.—Steering her way into Halifax with her emergency gear, the big French liner Chicago, bound from Havre for Boston and New York, arrived in port to-day to renew her supply of coal, which had been exhausted in a twelve days' struggle against increasing head gales. At noon yesterday Capt. Mace decided that it would be hazardous to go further, and headed for the nearest port. He said on his arrival to-day that he had never experienced such tempestuous weather.

There was great excitement on board yesterday over a misunderstanding when the Captain issued orders for a change of course. Several thought that they had been ordered to take to the life boats. One woman fainted. The Chicago has 262 passengers.

EDISON, 67, FEELS LIKE A BOY, HE SAYS

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison was kidnapped from his library this evening by his son, Charles Edison, and Mrs. Edison, and taken to Glenmont, their home in Llewellyn Park, where a surprise in the way of a family dinner had been prepared for the noted inventor in honor of his sixty-seventh birthday.

Mr. Edison had planned to spend the night experimenting in his laboratory, but shortly after dusk Mrs. Edison and her son, in a large touring car, appeared at the workshop and asked Mr. Edison home to dinner. He at first refused. They coaxed him, but without result. Finally Charles told the father they wanted him at home for a little while at least, and took him by the arm and led him to the waiting automobile. Once home, he was a prisoner for the evening, and, although he protested he wanted to return to the shop, his family refused to permit it.

A special programme of the favorite musical selections of the noted scientist had been carefully arranged by his fourteen-year-old son Theodore. These were rendered on one of the new diamond disc phonographs ,and in this way the evening at home was spent.

Mr. Edison was deterred from going to the laboratory early this morning by his family, who wanted to keep him at home as much as possible, but at 9 o'clock he stole out of the kitchen door, and with an old overcoat about him and a pair of low shoes, he walked across lots in the snow to the laboratory. A pink carnation had been pinned on him by his daughter, Miss Madeline Edison, before he left the house.

The picture of health, several pounds heavier than he has weighed in a year, and looking better than he has since he was taken ill following his automobile trip through New England in the Summer, Mr. Edison was confronted with hundreds of congratulatory telegrams when he reached his library in the laboratory. They came from Europe, China, Siam, and Australia, and from nearly every State in the Union, all wishing him happiness and health and many years more of life. Wu Tingfang sent one telegram.

Everywhere the inventor looked he saw pasted on windows and doors throughout his factories the numerals 67 in honor of his birthday. More than 6,000 of the employes at the works wore blue buttons with the number 67 and the inventor's name underneath in gold. Resolutions of congratulation were adopted in the various departments and sent to him. When the reporters called Mr. Edison was working in the phonograph laboratory on the third floor of the main building. He was trying a new record, and he said his greatest work in the past year was the perfection of the diamond disc phonograph.

Questioned as to what he believed to be the greatest achievement for humanity in the past year the inventor said the obtaining of ammonia by the passing of hydrogen and nitrogen over red hot iron. This would insure the world an inexhaustible supply of fertilizer, which would be a great economic saving and permit intensive farming at little cost.

In answer to a question as to what was the greatest thing accomplished in the United States in the year Mr. Edison answered, "the Currency bill."

"President Wilson deserves a lot of credit," he said. "He has taken a step in the right direction. We must get rid of this terrible money evil. We don't want everything controlled by a few in this country, and although this new law may have its defects, under the guidance of Woodrow Wilson you may be assured they will be remedied."

Commenting on the Mexican situation, Mr. Edison said:

"I'm a patriotic American, I believe, but some of this patriotism is false pride. I think we could stand a little humiliation and the expense of remaining away from war. We don't want it, and President Wilson has shown himself a diplomat by avoiding it by every possible means."

When reminded of the alleged Dr. Osler statement that a man ought to be chloroformed after he is 45 for all the good he does in the world, Mr. Edison chuckled and said:

"I'm better fit mentally and physically for my work to-day than ever before. I expect to do my greatest work in years to come. I'm just in the stage of learning, and my accomplishments will come later. Gladstone, Bismarck, and other notables of history became world famed because of work done after they passed 60.

"I'm 67 years old to-day. I feel like a boy. My health is good, and my mind is keen, and my appetite for work and accomplishment is keener. I expect a long term of years in my laboratory yet, working out problems of science that I hope may help humanity in its struggles to exist peacefully, happily, and quietly, with as little expenditure of energy as possible."

When asked what advice he would give to the young man to succeed in life, Mr. Edison answered:

"The advice above all that will do most good must begin at his mother's knee when he is a child. I still remember the advice and training given me by my good mother. Almost daily I apply it some way or other."

Mr. Edison said he would leave on Feb. 21 for his Winter home at Fort Meyer, Fla., with his family.

"I will be joined there by Henry Ford and John Burroughs, and we will go down to the Everglades and revert back to nature," he said. "We will get away from fictitious civilization, and we expect to be happy and learn much. If I get an idea I will leave my companions temporarily and go to my laboratory and work it out, in its infant stage at least, and then return to what I hope will be an ideal six weeks."

SEEK TO JAIL OLDER.

Officials Accuse Him of Running a Lottery in His Paper.

STOCKTON, Cal., Feb. 11.—Complaints asking for the arrest of Fremont Older, editor of The San Francisco Bulletin, who took a leading part in the prosecution of Abe Ruef, the former San Francisco boss, now in San Quentin Prison, and R. A. Crothers, publisher of The Bulletin, were issued to-day by the District Attorney, charging them with conducting a lottery through the columns of the newspaper.

Under the Penal Code the charge is a misdemeanor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—At the office of The Bulletin, edited by Fremont Older, it was stated that he was in Washington. R. A. Crothers, also named in the complaint, was uncommunicative.

Several newspapers here have published the prize-winning numbers weekly announced by lotteries. Efforts have been made to exclude all copies containing these lists from the mails.

BERLIN BY WIRELESS GREETS THE MAYOR

First Message Received Here Is Sent to Mr. Mitchel Through The New York Times.

FROM THE BURGOMASTER

New York Newspapers Send a Message to the Kaiser and to the Several Papers in Berlin.

The first thorough test of wireless communication between New York and Berlin was made last night, when newspapers of New York sent out messages from the Telefunken system tower of the Atlantic Communication Company reared near the ocean shore, a short distance from the village of Sayville, L. I. At 12:30 o'clock this morning the answers began to come in from Berlin, 4,000 miles away.

The first answer was to THE NEW YORK TIMES, and bore a greeting to Mayor Mitchel. This is the message:

> New York Times, New York:
> Berlin, Feb. 12.
> To the Honorable, the Mayor of New York, Mr. John Purroy Mitchel, New York:
> The first wireless message conveyed by wireless telefunken system. Greetings and shake hands between the two great cities of the Old and New World. WERMUTH,
> First Burgomaster of Berlin.

This message was completed at 12:35 A. M., five minutes after the first word was caught on the Sayville tower. At 1:20 A. M. this message from Ambassador James W. Gerard to THE TIMES was received:

> Berlin, Feb. 12.
> TIMES, New York:
> Best wishes to THE TIMES, which does so much to further good feeling between Germany and our country. Nothing helps friendship between nations more than an exchange of ideas. I wish THE TIMES would promote excursions of American business men to Germany next Summer, so that they may learn something of the splendid German method of work and education. JAMES W. GERARD.

The New York American received this message from James W. Gerard. It was taken by Jack Binns, the Republic hero, listening on a pair of attached receivers:

> Berlin, Feb. 12.
> The more Germany and America know each other, the greater will be their friendship.
> This great achievement will immeasurably help promote knowledge and friendship between the two countries. This message is for The American, a splendid American newspaper, always progressive in whatever is political.
> This achievement should encourage inventive genius. JAMES W. GERARD.

THE TIMES message from Mr. Gerard came first, followed by one for The Sun. Ambassador Gerard's message to The American came next.

All the newspapers here joined in one message to the German Emperor. Here it is:

> The newspapers of New York send greetings to his Majesty by the new wireless, which has brought ever closer the great German nation and the United States.

A message was sent to The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin by THE TIMES and read:

> New York, Feb. 11.
> Vossische Zeitung, Berlin.
> We congratulate you on the first exchange of press messages by wireless between Germany and the United States.
> NEW YORK TIMES.

This was the first message sent to Berlin:

> The Sun of New York sends cordial greetings to the Lokal Anzeiger in this first message from an American newspaper to one in Germany by wireless direct. The Sun hopes that the extension of the newest mode of communication will increase the friendship and intercourse between the two nations.

The Herald sent the third message.

> Good wishes from The New York Herald to The Berliner Tageblatt on the inauguration of direct wirelsss by the Atlantic Communication Company. What does The Tageblatt think of the possible fusion of interests of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd lines as a substitute for the present system of dividing traffic into quotas?

The World sent this message:

> Greetings to our German contemporaries. What is happening in Berlin at this moment?

The American sent this word to its Berlin correspondent:

> Please repeat by wireless message sent to Gerard.

And to Ambassador Gerard this greeting went by The Tribune:

> Glad to feel you are now closer to us. Best wishes from your friends at home.

The Tribune also sent this one:

> Greetings to Taegliche Rundschau, Berlin. We now greet you as a neighbor.

These messages were directed from the lonely tower on the coast at Sayville to the company's station at Eiviesen, near Berlin, in Germany. Their transmission was directed by R. H. Armstrong, general agent for the United States, by Paul Pichon, chief engineer in Berlin and by H. O. Boehme, chief Inspector in charge of stations and ships in the United States.

The transmission of the first international press communication directly between the United States and Germany was watched with much interest by Lieut. Alfredo T. Plate of the Argentine Naval Commission, who is assigned to duty on the Argentine battleship Rivadavia, now off the coast of Massachusetts, to test her powerful wireless apparatus installed by the Telefunken Company. The Rivadavia was in touch all day with the station at Sayville.

BESIEGE MRS. PANKHURST.

Police Watch House—Mutiny in Sylvia's East End "Army."

LONDON, Feb. 11.—A force of police is keeping close watch on the house in Kensington where Mrs. Pankhurst took up her residence on her arrival from Switzerland. Large quantities of provisions were laid in there recently, and this is believed to indicate that the militant leader is prepared for a long siege.

Mutiny has broken out already in the so-called "People's Army," formed from the lowest classes of the East End of London by Sylvia Pankhurst after her secession from the Women's Social and Political Union. Some of the men started smoking pungent coarse shag tobacco in clay pipes at a meeting of the "army" to-day. When told to desist the men retorted, "If we're not allowed to smoke we'll not come here again," and quiet the meeting.

Seven militant suffragettes were sentenced by the Magistrate at Bow Street Police Court to-day to four days' imprisonment on their refusal to find sureties that they would keep the peace for six months after they had been charged with obstruction and assault in connection with last night's demonstration near Downing Street.

Another batch of suffragettes was brought up at the West London Police Court on charges of assaulting the police during the attempt to arrest Mrs. Pankhurst. Some of the women were sent to prison for a week on their refusal to pay small fines, while others were discharged or remanded pending inquiries.

ZERO WEATHER HERE.

Temperature Was 2 Degrees Above at Midnight.

The temperature at 7 o'clock last night was 10 degree above zero, and at midnight it had fallen to 2 degrees above.

The cold weather was due to the low-pressure storm that centred off Hatteras on Tuesday. This went out to sea instead of moving up along the coast, the forecaster said.

The cold was very severe yesterday in other parts of the continent of North America, Mr. Scarr, the forecaster, said. In White River, Ontario, it was 56 degrees below zero, and in Duluth it was 28 below and 30 degrees below in Moorhead, Minn.

BULGAR KING MAY VISIT US.

Ferdinand Tells Panama Commission He Hopes to Come in Spring.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 12.—The Sofia correspondent of The Times says that, according to the Ministerial press, King Ferdinand, in the course of an audience with the American Minister and the members of the San Francisco Exposition deputation, expressed his intention of spending one or two months in America in the Spring of this year.

KAISER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Motor Truck Wrecks His Pilot Automobile, but He Is Unhurt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—The Kaiser had a narrow escape from injury in an automobile accident this afternoon while on his way to Potsdam.

He had his usual escort of two cars, one carrying two Adjutants, and the other his private bodyguard. The car in which the Kaiser was riding had just turned a sharp corner in Wannsee, midway on the road to Potsdam, when a heavy motor truck suddenly shot across the road and struck the Adjutants' car, wrecking it. Both the Adjutants were thrown out, but were uninjured. The detective who was driving, however, was badly hurt.

The Kaiser later visited the scene of the wreck, and also drove to the hospital and went to the detective's bedside to inquire as to his condition.

MIRAGE AFTER EARTHQUAKE

Jersey Folk Are Puzzled by Optical and Seismic Phenomena.

A brilliant mirage attracted the attention of wayfarers along the shores of Raritan Bay yesterday afternoon, when the Atlantic Highlands assumed almost Alpine proportions, and Sandy Hook and its fortifications and Coney Island, which are generally invisible to most of the region, rose into plain view, while between them a tug towing three scows in from the sea could be distinguished, seemingly aviating forty or fifty feet in the air.

The spectacle attracted much attention on Jersey Central Train 310, the afternoon flyer from North Jersey Coast towns to New York, which passes this section of the road just after 3 o'clock.

The passengers, many of whom had been discussing Tuesday's earthquake, dropped their newspapers and enjoyed the fleeting glance of the spectacle, while some wondered if there could be any connection between the two.

Mirages are not uncommon about the harbor, but the oldest traveler could not recall one so pronounced at this time of year.

PLACE FOR MRS. BREMNER.

Widow of the Congressman May Be Postmistress of Passaic.

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 11.—It was said this afternoon that Mrs. Edith Bremner, widow of Congressman Robert G. Bremner, would be appointed Postmistress of this city on March 1, when the term of the present Postmaster expires. Candidates for the office had been under consideration by Bremner for some time, and it was understood here that Joseph Spitz would be named. It was said that on the day before he died Congressman Bremner wrote a note asking for the place for his wife.

At the Bremner home this evening Leith Bremner, brother of the Congressman, and Mrs. Bremner, the widow, declined to discuss the report.

The will of the late Congressman was read to-day. In it he bequeathes the sum of $10,000 to his mother, Mrs. Alexander Bremner, who lives at Camilla, Canada, and the rest of the estate is to be divided between his widow and his brother Leith, who is at present managing The Passaic Herald, the paper owned by the Congressman. The value of the estate was not given.

TANGOED IN HIS FREEZER.

Butcher, Locked In, Also Tried Jigs, His Yells Furnishing the Music.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Penn., Feb. 11.—Locked in his own meat freezer for three hours, William Melago, a butcher, declares that he owes his life to the tango, which he danced continuously to keep from freezing.

When Melago stepped into his freezer this morning he forgot to turn off the check on the automatic lock. The door clicked into place and he was a prisoner. His cries and poundings failed to attract attention, and realizing that he would freeze to death unless he indulged in some exercise, Melago, who can dance, began to double shuffle to the accompaniment of his yells for help. It grew colder, and he varied his exercise by an Irish jig. But this was fatiguing, and he slowed into the tango, paying special attention to the dip.

According to his story he kept on the move for nearly three hours, when his wife finally heard the noise and released him.

EVELYN THAW ARRESTED.

Mayor Causes Action, and Judge, Condemning It, Frees Her.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 11.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was arrested here to-day. Mayor Ainslee, at the request of the Ministerial Union and others, had forbidden her to appear at a theatre.

At a court hearing later Judge John Crutchfield commented severely on the action of the authorities, and ordered the release of the actress.

TRY TO GET WHITMAN AS GRAFT HUNTER

Ex-Senator Hinman Alternative Choice of Assembly Committee—J. L. Sullivan Is Chairman.

CONSALUS ROAD UNDER FIRE

Osborne Alleges $6,000 Theft and Will Appeal to Grand Jury—State's Oil Loss in 1912 $200,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—Speaker Sweet to-day announced the membership of the committee of eight to conduct the Assembly graft hunt. As forecast in THE NEW YORK TIMES's Albany dispatches of yesterday, John Leo Sullivan of Chautauqua, a Progressive Republican, was made Chairman by the committee. Here are the rest of the members:

Republicans—William J. Maier, Seneca; Franklin W. Cristman, Herkimer; Alvah W. Burlingame, Jr., Kings; Samuel A. Jones, Chenango.
Democrats—Alfred E. Smith, New York; Charles A. Brewster, Steuben.
Progressive—Michael Schaap, New York.

Mr. Burlingame, a regular Republican, was selected Vice Chairman.

The next meeting will be held here Monday night. In the meantime Messrs. Sullivan and Burlingame will visit New York in an effort to retain District Attorney Whitman as chief counsel. Failing in this, Mr. Sullivan favors ex-Senator Harvey D. Hinman of Binghamton.

Mr. Hinman has been active in the anti-Barnes movement up-State. While in the Senate he was regarded as the spokesman of Gov. Hughes. Excepting Mr. Burlingame, all the Republican members of the committee are regarded as anti-Barnes men.

Chairman Sullivan said to-night that counsel undoubtedly would be selected at the meeting Monday. Besides Whitman and Hinman, Frank Moss of New York, Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga, and John K. Clark, assistant to Mr. Whitman, are being considered.

The investigation will begin with the State Highway Department, and the first hearing is scheduled for Thursday of next week. Prior to that date, it is understood, a formal request will be made of John A. Hennessy to furnish the committee many proofs of fraud in his possession, and to assist the committee in any other way he may see fit.

Mr. Sullivan said that the committee undoubtedly would continue throughout the year, and that only a partial report would be made at the present session of the Legislature.

Oil Waste $200,000 in 1912.

That the State in 1912 paid at least $200,000 more than was necessary for oil for road repairs was the conclusion reached by James W. Osborne, who resumed his graft hearing to-day. Mr. Osborne estimated that the State lost 4 cents a gallon in the rate allowed for manipulation on 5,000,000 gallons.

While Carl C. Ahlus, a highway engineer, was on the witness stand this afternoon it was brought out that Charles F. Foley, First Deputy Superintendent under C. Gordon Reel in the Dix-Murphy commission of 1912, held that the price of manipulative oil was too low, and that at his request it was fixed at 30 cents a square yard. This, Mr. Ahlus said, was about 15 cents more than what would be rated as a fair figure now.

Mr. Osborne announced that he would submit the testimony concerning the Staatsburg-Woodbury road to the District Attorney of Ulster County, and request a thorough investigation.

"The testimony shows," said Mr. Osborne, "that at least $6,000 was stolen by some one on this road."

The State paid approximately $21,000 for the road. The loss came in paying a high price for local stone and asphalt, it was testified.

The contract for repairing this road was awarded to David Schoentag, a Superintendent in the employ of John H. Consalus of Albany, one of the collectors of campaign contributions. The contract afterward was transferred to Consalus. Joseph Curren, one of the Hennessy investigators who examined the road, estimated that the State had lost about $6,000 on the contract.

Mr. Osborne said he had evidence that there was a brokerage in repair contracts. He said that certain bidders who got contracts sold them for as high as $2,500. The successful bidders, Mr. Osborne said, were men who had contributed liberally to campaign funds.

$101,000 Road a Failure.

The Staatsburg-Woodbury Road was constructed in 1903 under State Engineer Bond at a cost of $50,000. This road was less than three miles long.

"Since then," Mr. Osborne said, "it had cost the State more than $50,000 to repair it, large sums being spent every year from 1907 to 1912. The total cost has been $101,000, and yet the State has not a good road at present, even though the Democrats in 1912 spent $27,000 to resurface it.

"The resurfacing contract called for a three-inch stone surface, but a specimen I have shows that only one and three-fourths inches were laid. Screenings and dust were used with the stone, which tended to fill up the voids in the stone and to prevent the oil from penetrating and performing its function as a binder. The contract price for the stone was $6.25 a square yard, indicating that an imported stone was expected. Local stone, worth only $4 a yard, was laid:

"It is the same stone that New York City called for to use on the forty-mile road around the aqueduct," Mr. Consalus interrupted.

"That does'nt say the stone is good," Mr. Osborne retorted.

Mr. Consalus was then recalled, and Mr. Osborne asked him why he had given to District Attorney Whitman more names of contractors who had contributed to campaign funds than he had given to Mr. Osborne.

"I don't remember what names I gave to Mr. Whitman," Consalus said, "but I don't think I gave him any more than I gave you."

"Well," Mr. Osborne remarked, "the Democratic State Committee officially reported only one of the contractors who had given a contribution. Even your own contribution of $1,500 in 1912 was not reported."

Charles Miller of Miller Brothers, contractors of Rotterdam, Schenectady County, said that he had done road repair work in 1909 and 1912. He said that, although he was a Democrat, he was informed at the Highway Department in 1912 that the contracts were to go only to Democrats. He was believed to be a Republican, he said, because he had done work under the Republican commission. Mr. Miller said he wrote a letter stating that he always had been a Democrat, and this was signed by District Committeeman Van Vranken. He then received four contracts, amounting to more than $4,000. Later in 1912 he gave a check for $100 to Gerardus Smith, Democratic State Committeeman, leaving out the name of the person to whom it was to be paid. The name was to be filled in he said.

C. Gordon Reel, Superintendent of Highways, failed to appear before Mr. Osborne to-day. He declined yesterday to sign a waiver of immunity and asked for time to consider doing so.

The hearing was adjourned until 11 A. M.

PLAN TO CALL ALLAN A. RYAN.

Compass Variation, in Fact, Universal in the Coastwise Trade.

Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, is to be called as a witness in District Attorney Whitman's John Doe graft investigation. He also may be asked to testify before the Grand Jury. His testimony, it is understood, will relate to the $10,000 campaign contribution which he gave to William Sulzer in 1912.

In the trial of Sulzer, Ryan, called to the stand, acknowleged that he gave the money in the name of his father. When Sulzer took the stump in his Assembly campaign last Fall he asserted that Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, had induced him to ask Ryan for the contribution. Sulzer also asserted that the contribution was in cash and that the money was sent to Murphy through John H. Delaney.

Sulzer in his campaign speeches said that Murphy had acknowledged the receipt of this money, but he never had accounted for it. Murphy, he said, had referred to the $10,000 as "only a drop in the bucket." According to Sulzer, young Ryan had told him that Thomas F. Ryan was the only man who could control Murphy. Allan A. Ryan denied the truth of Sulzer's charges.

Ryan acknowledged that he did not know what had become of the $10,000 contribution. In an effort to trace the $10,000 the District Attorney, it is understood, wants to question Ryan.

No date has been set for calling Ryan and it is likely that Sulzer first will be recalled to give his version of the $10,000 contribution. Sulzer and Ryan may take the stand on the same day.

Information has reached the District Attorney that the Ryan family gave two contributions, each for $10,000, in 1912. One was a check for $10,000 from Thomas F. Ryan. The Secretary of State has a record of this contribution. The other, it is understood, was the cash contribution which Allan A. Ryan sent to Sulzer by his father's secretary, I. V. McGlone.

The John Doe investigation will be resumed on Monday and the Grand Jury will resume its investigation on Tuesday.

STATE CALL FOR RADIUM.

Dr. Roswell Park Urges the Purchase of Enough for Experiments.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—The third annual report of the State Institution for the Treatment of Cancer and Other Malignant Diseases, signed by Dr. Roswell Park, President of the Board of Trustees, and handed to the Senate to-day, contained this statement about the use of radium in the treatment of cancer:

"Popular interest, apparently almost to a degree of popular excitement, has obtained of late regarding the properties and the efficacy of radium in the treatment of just those diseases which come especially under observation in the institute. This is hardly the place to enter upon a discussion regarding its curative value. In fact, it is exactly this value the Trustees feel it our province to estimate and decide, and it is for this reason that it is of greatest importance to procure enough of this most expensive substance with which to carry on accurate and reliable investigations. Small amounts, such as may be possessed by private individuals, are quite insufficient for this purpose.

"The State institute should be, in our judgment, the possessor of at least one gram of the preparation. At present prices this would probably cost $100,000. We therefore commend the desirability, the important demand, for this substance in this work, and urge upon the Legislature in the strongest possible terms the wisdom of enacting such legislation."

A bill appropriating $100,000 for the purchase of radium for the institution at Buffalo is before the Legislature. The report acknowledges the receipt from Mrs. Ansley Wilcox of $6,000, with which the institute hopes to purchase fifty milligrams of radium for experiments.

Sexton Re-elected State Regent.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—Pliny T. Sexton of Palmyra was elected by the Legislature to-day to succeed himself as regent of the State University for a term of twelve years from April 1. Mr. Sexton received 100 votes as the Republican nominee, with some Democratic support, to 66 for Clarence Willis of Bath, the Democratic nominee, and 12 for Prof. George Mather Forbes of Rochester, the nominee of the Progressives.

OPPOSE SINGLE TAX BILL.

Broadway Association Says It Menaces Property Owners.

The Broadway Association protested yesterday against the Single Tax bill, which is now before the Legislature. At a meeting held in the new quarters of the association in the Hotel Martinique, Allan Robinson of the Allied Real Estate Interests analyzed the bill, and showed what he called the danger in it to property owners. It was said that twenty-four of the Republican Assemblymen were in favor of the measure, and it was decided to send to Albany a delegation against the bill.

Jefferson De Mont Thompson presided at the meeting, and among those present were C. H. Fuller and Edwin Forrest of the Harlem Board of Commerce, State Tax Commissioner J. S. Schwab, R. S. Copeland, P. H. Zagat, R. B. Cowing, Jr., W. D. Washington, Ernest Abe-Hagen, John David, W. S. Gilson, C. L. Taylor of the Hotel Martinique, M. W. Brown, consulting engineer of the Central Park Taxpayers' Association, J. F. Garrety of the Grand Hotel, C. H. Mannes, R. L. Hatch, and August Janssen.

The Columbus Circle Branch of the association will meet next Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Martinique, and will take up the question of the establishment of an express station at Columbus Circle on the present Subway. A committee will be named to appear before the Board of Estimate to urge the adoption of this change.

GORE TRIAL BEGINS TO-DAY.

Jury Is Chosen and Will Hear First Witness in $50,000 Assault Case.

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11.—The first witness in the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Minnie E. Bond, who charges United States Senator T. P. Gore with attempted assault in a Washington hotel, will be called to-morrow morning. The case is being tried in the District Court here. The jury was selected today, and attorneys for both sides made their opening statements.

Mrs. Bond charges that Senator Gore called upon her in her room at the hotel in Washington under pretense of talking to her about the candidacy of Mrs. Bond's husband for a Federal post for which Gore's indorsement was sought. Mrs. Bond alleges that while he was in the room the Senator made the attack upon her. In his opening statement her attorney said that Senator Gore's attempt was witnessed from another room by T. E. Robertson, James Jacobs, and Kirby Fitzpatrick, all of Oklahoma.

Judge C. B. Cruce, a brother of Gov. Lee Cruce, outlined Senator Gore's case by declaring that the blind Senator was a victim of a "frame-up" hatched by a number of politicians disappointed at not being indorsed for Federal offices. He said that when Mrs. Bond laid her complaint before the District Attorney in Washington, that official said to her: "You are a gang of blackmailers, and if anyone is arrested it will be you people."

Most of the questions put to the jurymen pertained to politics. Five of them are Democrats, six are Republicans, and one is a Socialist.

SAY INCORPORATION WILL HURT 'CHANGES

New Yorkers Tell Senators It Will Weaken Disciplinary Power Over Members.

HITCHCOCK AGAINST BILL

Measure Likely to be Sidetracked or Reported Only After Drastic Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Heavy attacks on the Pujo bill incorporating Stock Exchanges and barring from interstate commerce all quotations of stocks listed on unincorporated or unlawful exchanges were made to-day before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency. The witnesses were Horace White, Chairman of the Hughes Commission of New York; Edward B. Page, a member of the Hughes Commission and of the Merchants' Association of New York; Prof. Henry C. Emery of Yale University, and John G. Milburn, counsel for the New York Stock Exchange.

All the witnesses assailed the pending bill, though they seemed to approve some sort of Government regulation of the issue of stocks and other securities.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the Democratic member of the committee ranking next to the Chairman, announced that he was opposed to the bill as a whole. Mr. Hitchcock's announcement, taken with the general tenor of the questions asked by other Senators, indicates that the bill will fall in committee or will be favorably reported only after drastic amendment.

President Wilson has let it be known unmistakably that he is not pushing the bill to enactment at this session.

Like the supporters of the bill, Mr. Hitchcock would like to see the issue of corporate securities regulated by law, but he thought the administration of the law could be directed better by the proposed Trades Commission than by conferring on the Postmaster General powers of censorship. Several Senators seemed to agree with Mr. Milburn's final argument that incorporation of exchanges would weaken the exchanges' disciplinary power over their own members.

Horace White opposed the incorporation of Stock Exchanges because he thought incorporation would restrict an exchange's discipline to inadequate legal remedies. The remedy provided by the pending bill for Stock Exchange abuses, he thought, was ridiculous.

"Has there been any improvement in the methods of the Stock Exchange as a result of the Hughes Commission's work?" asked Senator Hitchcock.

Reforms Already Adopted.

Mr. White said that the commission had recommended twelve changes, eight of which were adopted in full and one in part.

The commission's recommendation for the fixing of a penalty against corporations making false statements as to their securities had been only partially adopted. Mr. White said the exchange did not adopt the commission's recommendations for the preservation of clearing sheets for six years because the books showing the same transactions were kept. The Exchange had also failed to adopt any rule for fixing the price of "cornered" stocks, and for the regulation of the curb.

Mr. Untermyer attempted to question Mr. White as to the percentage of speculative transactions.

"I move, Mr. Chairman," quickly interrupted Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, a conservative Republican, "that no outsider be allowed to question witnesses."

Senator Owen, who is largely guided by suggestions from Mr. Untermyer, then asked him to take a seat near the head of the table, so that he could consult Mr. Untermyer as the testimony proceeded.

"Is there any sentiment in New York among intelligent people," asked Senator Hitchcock, "for the regulation of the New York Stock Exchange by the State Legislature?"

"I don't think there is any such sentiment," replied Mr. White.

Mr. White told the committee he thought the manipulation of stocks, as that was ordinarily understood, was very rare. He referred to the case of the Columbus and Hocking Valley Coal and Iron pool as a deal undertaken in good faith. The brokers thought they had discovered a bonanza, he said, and bought the securities, thinking they represented enormous supplies of coal and iron. The expected values, however, did not materialize, and the bottom dropped out of prices.

An After-Dinner Plunge.

Mr. White created a commotion with his second instance. That was the boom in Rock Island shares, which, however, as Mr. White described it, was not the result of premeditated manipulation, but of the drunkenness of a great New York financier.

"One of the richest men in New York," said Mr. White, mentioning his name and afterward withdrawing it, "went to a banquet one night and got drunk and ordered his brokers to buy 40,000 shares of Rock Island. The stock went up fifty points, and then fell back. The man furnished the money himself without borrowing a cent and he still has the stock."

"That was an expensive banquet," remarked Senator Hitchcock.

"It was generally so considered," said Mr. White.

Edward B. Page, who acted as Chairman of the Hughes Commission's subcommittee on scope and plan, testified about work of the commission, not published at the time of the commission's report.

The commission's interrogation of members of the Produce Exchange, he said, led them to cease listing mining stocks. Other exchanges, he said, quietly amended their rules so as to forbid "fake business." He explained that the Metal Exchange, the Mercantile Exchange and some others had had the habit of listing quotations not based on real transactions. They changed their practice, he said, rather than face publicity.

Defends Watered Stocks.

Mr. Page surprised the committee by warmly defending issues of watered stock. He said that as the laws of most States stood, so-called watered stock was the only device by which the brains invested in a corporation could receive a return comparable with the returns in cold cash. The New York law, he said, had somewhat obviated the necessity for watered stock by a provision for the issue of common stock without any par value.

"You amaze me," said Senator Nelson, conservative Republican from Minnesota. "Don't you realize that the hostility of the country to railroads is due to the volume of watered stock issued to the people? That hostility will never be overcome until the water is dried up. I think," he added laughing, "that what you need is a little moral education."

Mr. Page joined heartily in the laughter.

"To show that watered stock is not responsible for all financial disaster," said Senator Weeks, "I will say that the New Haven stock was all issued on values fixed by the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission."

"Then the commission stole some, then," laughed Senator Nelson.

Mr. Page told the Senators that his recollection of the recommendations of the Hughes commission was that sixteen recommendations were made to the Stock Exchange and one to the Legislature.

"We found two well-defined parties on the Stock Exchange," said Mr. Page. "There were those who opposed all changes and who thought that the old methods were sufficient to put Exchange dealings on a moral plane. In the other party were young men, perhaps less influential, who thought the time had come to adopt new rules. We felt that in our recommendations we were giving our moral support to the younger element. As it happened, the moral standard we set up has become the established law of the Exchange, while in some instances the Exchange has gone further than we recommended."

Sees Harm in Incorporation.

Mr. Page told the committee that serious results would follow the enactment of the bill requiring incorporation as a prerequisite to the interstate transmission of quotations. If the Exchange refused to incorporate, he said, the business now done economically on the Exchange would be done wastefully and at great expense to the consuming public in private markets.

Transactions on the Exchange, he said, cost the individual only one-eighth of 1 per cent. Private buying and selling would cost anywhere from half of 1 per cent. to 5 per cent. He had opposed a similar bill, he said, before the New York State Legislature as a member of the Merchants' Association, and he opposed this bill because he thought it oppressive.

"The provision requiring a minimum margin of 20 per cent.," he said, "in my respectful opinion, is not only unworkable, but, in some sense, is immoral. It would make impossible the extension of credit on the basis of character and ability. It would mean that a poor man with character and ability could not buy securities unless he also had the one asset of the unscrupulous rich.

"In New York," he continued, "we are practically free from the traditional speculations of young men employed in banks. Over a period of fifteen years I know of scarcely a single man employed in a bank other than as President who has lost anything as a speculator. Those employes are trustees, and should be forbidden the risks permitted to those of us in private station."

Senator Weeks suggested that in ordinary transactions a margin of 20 per cent. was required, even when the purchaser was a man of undisputed credit, simply because the banks needed that much cash to float the transaction. Mr. Page admitted this, but said the bill's hardship would lie in the fact that a man certain to receive money in a few days would not be permitted to buy at once on credit in a favorable market.

Mr. Page said he thought that the rule already in practice in New York City by which bank employes were forbidden to speculate might be extended to officers of the bank. Some brokers have already adopted such a rule, and the Exchange might make such a rule general.

For Rein on New Enterprises.

"There is one subject you can regulate," said Mr. Page, "and that is the promotion of new enterprises. The trouble with these stocks does not come on the Stock Exchange, but before they reach the Exchanges. The frauds are committed against the poor people, not by members of the Stock Exchange, but by persons representing themselves as financiers."

A rule by which the Stock Exchange could fix the prices of "cornered stocks," said Mr. Page, was not a crying need, as corners were extremely rare.

Mr. Page cited the case of the Rumely stock, which, he said, was issued on a "statement that was a lie." The lie, he said, had been exposed, though the Stock Exchange had never stricken the stocks from the list. Such a course, he added, would merely increase the losses of persons already swindled in their first purchases. He himself, he said, had fifty shares, and knew what he was talking about.

"Congress," Mr. Page continued, "should take up the question of regulating the issuance of securities. A State cannot do it because the State undertaking it alone would drive new enterprises away."

Mr. Milburn told the committee that Samuel Untermyer was the only man he had ever met outside of Washington who favored judicial review, such as would follow incorporation, of orders of an Exchange disciplining a member. An aggrieved member, he said, would by appeal to the courts retain his seat on 'Change for years after the Board of Governors voted his expulsion.

Mr. Milburn said the proposed law would be unconstitutional because it sought to regulate by subterfuge something that could not otherwise be regulated. He objected to the incorporation requirement, saying if the Stock Exchange were incorporated instead of being merely an association, it could not so rigidly control the actions of members.

PROUTY ON ROAD APPRAISAL

Tells Chamber of Commerce It Will Be Big Aid to Business.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—With delegates present representing more than 500 commercial and industrial organizations, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States began its annual convention at the New Willard Hotel to-day. This convention is of unusual interest because its main purpose is to express the sentiments of business men throughout the country in regard to the anti-trust bills now pending in Congress with the backing of the Wilson Administration.

President Wilson recently expressed the hope that business men generally would give him the benefit of their opinion of the proposed legislation, and the United States Chamber of Commerce has accepted the invitation. All the sessions to-morrow will be devoted to a discussion of the trust measures.

To-day's proceedings were devoted mainly to the presentation of reports and delivery of addresses. The most significant address was that of Charles A. Prouty, who resigned the office of Interstate Commerce Commissioner recently in order to take charge of the work of making an inventory of the railroads which the commission was instructed to do by Congressional enactment. In his address Mr. Prouty explained the purpose of the undertaking and discussed the problems confronting those who were to do the work.

Mr. Prouty told the convention that it had been decided that an inventory of railway valuation could not be obtained without sending a survey party over every mile of railroad in the country. The cost, he said, was problematical. But basing his estimate upon the experience of State commissions he thought $15 a mile would be sufficient to cover the engineering part of the work and $10 a mile the accounting and other features. This would amount to between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 for the entire 250,000 miles of railroads in the United States.

The Commissioner cleared up a popular misconception as to the nature of the undertaking, resulting from the use of the term "physical valuation." He explained that the commission was to determine just what each carrier was worth, taking into consideration what it cost to produce the property and to build up the service; what it would cost to reproduce it to-day, and what the line or company would sell for, with its acquired privileges and its patronage.

He said the work had not progressed far enough for details to be either intelligently or profitably discussed.

ATLANTIC ICE PATROL ON.

The Seneca Cruising in Iceberg Region to Warn Ships by Wireless.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—First results of the recent International Safety at Sea Conference at London took form to-day when, upon authority of President Wilson, Commandant Bertholf of the Revenue Cutter Service ordered the big cutter Seneca out from New York for the Atlantic ice patrol.

The Seneca will cruise in the iceberg region until June, observing dangers to navigation and warning ships by wireless. Another cutter probably will relieve her. The cost will be borne by nations having ships on the North Atlantic lanes.

Organize for Sociability.

A new organization, meant to bring dwellers in Washington Heights apartments in closer social relations, was formed at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Schwarz, in the Andrew Jackson apartment house at 149th Street and Riverside Drive, last night. About fifty residents of the Heights attended, and after a few minutes spent in organization they spent the remainder of the evening dancing. H. S. Weil was elected President and I. E. Sanger Vice President. It is proposed to have meetings at short intervals devoted to dancing and other forms of social entertainment.

WILSON SAYS FEW NEED TRUST CURB

Tells Senators 90 Per Cent. of Business Methods Are Sound —Only a Minority Offend.

DISCUSS CHANGES TO BILLS

One Is to Exclude Trade Secrets from Publicity—Progressives Criticise Bills Before Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—President Wilson told Senators of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce today that 90 per cent. of the business of the country needed no Governmental attention. He expressed the belief that general business methods were sound, but that legislation was needed to prevent particular abuses by a minority of the business community. The President listened with keen interest to suggestions from Senators for avoiding unnecessary hardships to unoffending corporations by any laws that might be enacted for the regulation of questionable concerns.

The Senate committee visited the White House and discussed the whole subject of trust legislation with the President. The discussion hinged particularly on various amendments extending the scope of the bills known as the "Five Brothers." No definite decisions were reached, and another conference at the White House is expected to be held some time after the committee's regular meeting on Friday.

"The tentative amendments which had been presented in full committee," said Senator Newlands after the conference, "were discussed, and especial consideration was given to the provisions regarding the powers of investigation of the proposed Trade Commission and the reference by a court to a commission of any question of fact. These provisions were considered in connection with the constitutional restrictions of search and seizure."

The discussion, which was entirely informal, dealt with a proposed amendment to the Trade Commission bill, excluding trade secrets from publicity and increasing the powers of the Commission, an amendment to the trade's relations bill regulating holding companies and preventing them from restricting competition; and various amendments in the bill forbidding interlocking directorates.

The President and Mr. Newlands were gratified at the attendance at the conference, which included two Republicans of the committee—Senator Oliver and Senator Lippitt. Senator Cummins and Senator Clapp, two radical Republicans, who walked out of the committee meeting last Friday because they found the sessions entirely directed by the Democratic Senators, stayed away.

Senator Saulsbury and Senator Lewis made detailed arguments in favor of limiting to constitutional bounds the proposed trades commission's right of seizure and search into the affairs of a corporation. They pointed out that some formality of notice should be served on corporations before even an investigation into the affairs was begun, so as to avoid doing the corporation an injustice by arousing public suspicion. The two Senators will report on this subject in more detail to the full committee when it meets on Friday.

At to-day's hearings on the Administration trust bills the principal witnesses were Progressives, who told the Interstate Commerce Committee of the House that the Clayton bill for the creation of an Interstate Trade Commission fell short in its effect of what they thought should be done. They preferred the Murdock trust bills, known as the "Trust Triplets," which represent the policies the Progressive Party leaders in the House are advocating.

The witnesses were Herbert Knox Smith, former Commissioner of Corporations; Prof. William Draper Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania, and Daniel R. Richberg, a lawyer of Chicago and New York.

Mr. Smith sharply criticised the Administration's agreement with the New Haven Railway system for a friendly dissolution of its merger. Prof. Lewis characterized the results that folllowed the Standard Oil dissolution as "curious and farcical," and said it "did not enforce competition." Mr. Richberg criticised many features of the Clayton Trade Commission bill, and told the House committee the commission provided would be "armless" and powerless to protect the consumer and small business man.

BRYAN FOR PEACE FUND.

Better Spend It Celebrating Than Preparing for War, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Secretary Bryan gave a blanket indorsement of expenditures for peace and said: "We have spent the maximum in preparation for wars that ought never to come." He made the statement to the House Committeeo n Foreign Affairs to-day.

Mr. Bryan was discussing various appropriations for certain international boundary commissions when Representative Smith of New York asked him if he favored the $150,000 appropriation for a celebration of the centennial anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent.

"I am not only in favor of celebrating the event," responded Mr. Bryan, "but I am in favor of celebrating it very liberally."

"Do you think," asked Representative Flood of Virginia, "that $150,000 is necessary for the mere preliminary preparation for that celebration?"

"But," answered Mr. Bryan, "that does not mean that you should spend the $150,000. That is the maximum that can be spent. I would not like to fix the maximum lower than that—but let us have the understanding that only so much of it will be used as is necessary. I think that we have spent the minimum in celebration of things that make for peace, the maximum in preparation for wars that ought never to come.

"Anything we can do to make more certain the continuation of peace and to promote the idea of peace between other countries I think is worth doing."

COMPETITION CUTS BIDS.

Government Saves 44 Per Cent. on Steel Forgings for Torpedoes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Increased competition, as shown by bids opened to-day at the Navy Department, for steel forgings for the central or air chamber of navy torpedoes, has reduced the price 44 per cent. The bids were for flasks and heads for torpedoes.

Bids for these forgings last November were: Bethlehem Steel Company, $1,233; Midvale Steel Company, $1,150, and the National Tube Company, $703. To-day the bids were, Bethlehem Steel Company, $696.71; Midvale Steel Company, $643.65; National Tube Company, $705.50, and the Erie Forge Company, $582.46.

Torpedo flasks have heretofore been made of forged steel, but the Bureau of Ordnance considered that drawn steel flasks could be used to advantage, and this assumption proved correct. Under the former conditions these hundred flasks required would have cost the Government $115,075. They will now be purchased from the Erie Forge Company for $58,246, giving a net reduction and saving to the Government amounting to $57,536.

Small Fire at City Hall.

Just as Fire Commissioner Adamson was having a conference with Mayor Mitchel at the City Hall shortly before noon yesterday smoke began to come up from the basement. A small blaze was found in the waste paper room directly underneath the Mayor's office. Lieut. William Kennel sent in a still alarm and Patrick Paul, a clerk in the Marriage License Bureau, and William J. Collins turned on the water from a standpipe in the basement. The fire was extinguished in a few minutes and before the fire apparatus arrived.

NO SALUTE TO ZARAGOZA.

Huerta's Gunboat Fires 21 Guns at New Orleans Without Reply.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—The Mexican Federal gunboat Zaragoza, which arrived here to-day, fired a salute of twenty-one guns when she passed up the Mississippi River past Jackson Barracks, but the greeting was not returned by the United States troops. The Zaragoza's band also played Mexican airs.

Officers at the barracks said they had telegraphed to Washington for instructions as to what action they should take on the question of a warship of an unrecognized power being in this port. No answer was received up to the time the Zaragoza passed the barracks at 5 o'clock this morning.

Immigration authorities had not expected to inspect the Zaragoza, but it was reported from Quarantine that three aliens were aboard. Commissioner Redfern then gave instructions for an inspector to meet the Zaragoza when she docked and to ascertain if any attempt was being made to bring aliens into this country unlawfully.

The three passengers aboard, according to the immigration authorities, were Aureliano Melgarejo, Mexican Minister to Colombia; Louis Roumagnac, a French banker, and Antonio Magui, an Italian merchant.

They told the immigration officers that they had been permitted by the Mexican Government to make the trip from Vera Cruz on board the warship. They departed to-night for New York.

Carranza Summons Dr. Tupper.

Dr. Henry Allen Tupper, Special Peace Commissioner of the International Peace Forum, with offices in the Cameron Building, at Thirty-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, left New York last night for Mexico in response to a telegram received from Gen. Venustiano Carranza, in which the rebel leader expressed a desire to confer with Dr. Tupper. The telegram was sent from Culiacan, Mexico, and was dated Feb. 6.

REBELS TAKE OVER BANKS.

Those in Chihuahua Which Closed to be Run by Carranza Government.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, Feb. 11.—Local banks which discontinued business several months ago as a result of the chaotic conditions in Mexico, are taken over by the State Government in a decree issued by Gov. Chao to-day. The decree is in accordance with the ultimatum of Gen. Venustiano Carranza, head of the rebel Government, who named Feb. 10 as the limit of the period in which the banks might reopen as private institutions.

It is probable that the banks will be consolidated into one receivership and operated by the receivers. The banks named in the decree are Banco Minero, Branch of the Banco Nacional de Mexico, Banco de Sonra, and the Banco Commercial y Refrancionario.

Early in the revolution the banks here were embarrassed by forced loans, but these were a trivial burden compared to the decree which declined to recognize Mexican money in rebel territory. The banks had no option but to close, and much suffering was the result.

It is assumed that when the banks are reorganized under the receivership they will be used to circulate the new rebel money, some of it in coin having been minted here, and several millions having been engraved in the United States.

BACKS UP DETECTIVE SUED FOR ARREST

McKay Will Let Department Pay $1,115 Judgment Against McConville.

HE GOT THE WRONG MAN

Was Acting Under Orders and Will Not Lose Money, Though Suit Went Against Him.

Commissioner McKay announced last night that the Police Department would pay the judgment and costs in a suit for false arrest brought successfully against Detective Bernard McConville. This means a matter of $1,115 to McConville, but it means a great deal more to every man on the force, and Mr. McKay did not establish this precedent without much deliberation and due conference with the Corporation Counsel.

This arrest was made in the Fall of 1908, and was a mistake. It was made on a warrant from Wilkes-Barre, and as the charge was a misdemeanor the warrant was not operative in this State, and, in addition to this, McConville got the wrong man. But he thought he had the right man, and he had been told to serve the warrant. He was acting under the direction of a deputy in District Attorney Jerome's office.

The man sued. McConville was represented by Justice Collins of Special Sessions, then an Assistant Corporation Counsel. The fact that McConville had acted under orders did not weigh with the jury, which brought in a verdict of $1,000 against the detective. This was affirmed in the Appellate Division and also in the Court of Appeals. McConville then appealed to McKay.

The Commissioner looked favorably upon the suggestion that the burden of the cost be lifted from McConville's shoulder, but he was not sure he could do it. He consulted with Assistant Corporation Counsel Hahlo and from him received an opinion that, considering the peculiar conditions surrounding this arrest, it would be within his powers to have the department pay the bill. Mr. McKay has dipped into the contingency fund for this purpose and the $1,115 bill will be paid.

While the announcement, as made at Headquarters last night was bare of detail and interpretation, is is understood that this action was taken with a view to stiffening the policemen in their business of serving warrants and making arrests generally and in their confidence that obedience to orders will never get them into trouble.

Suits for false arrest are not infrequent, and the garnishee law has been invoked at the Controller's office following many a judgment. It is predicted on the fringe of Headquarters that this action by Mr. McKay will serve measurably to strengthen his position with the men of the force.

FLUNG BOY INTO PARK LAKE.

McCarthy Goes to Jail for Attack on Young Jack Dayton.

Dennis McCarthy, 51 years old, a waiter of 307 West Thirteenth Street, was sentenced yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions to imprisonment for ten days in the Tombs. McCarthy who is also known as Dennis Moriarity, was accused by Inspector General Edward Winthrop Dayton of the National Guard, of having wilfully thrown his son, Jack Dayton, 9 years old, into the upper lake in Central Park on Jan. 26 last.

McCarthy was found guilty last week and was remanded for sentence. Probation Officer Smith, who was ordered to make an investigation, reported yesterday that McCarthy had had an excellent record, and at the time he was in the Park, was on his way to get work with a contractor.

Ex-Surrogate Killed by Train Had $50,000 in Accident Insurance.

WHITE PLAINS, Feb. 11.—The will of Frank V. Millard, ex-Surrogate of Westchester County, was filed in the Surrogate's Court this morning. It leaves all of his property to his wife, Grace R. Millard, of Tarrytown. The estate is valued at $300,000, and, in addition, it is said that Millard had $100,000 in life insurance, of which $50,000 was accident insurance.

Mrs. Millard is the executrix. The other heirs are the three daughters, Grace R., Florence, and Emily Millard. Millard was killed at the grade crossing of the New York Central Railroad in Tarrytown on Feb. 4.

SAYS MINERS BOUGHT GUNS.

Repudiated Colorado Sheriff's Protection, Strike Leader Testifies.

DENVER, Feb. 11.—"I told Sheriff Grisham of Las Animas County that we did not want any of his kind of protection; that we'd protect ourselves. And we did."

This was the statement of John R. Lawson, leader of the Colorado miners in their strike, lato to-day before the House Investigating Commitee. He had told of instances in which he had asked the Sheriff for protection for the strikers' tent colonies, but, he declared, in vain.

Lawson admitted that "some guns were bought to protect lives and property." Then he appealed to the committee.

"A Grand ury is now in session in Las Animas County," he said. "This Grand Jury seems very desirous of indicting us. For this reason, unless the committee insists, I'd rather not go very far into this gun business. I will say that there were some guns bought, but not until after the operators had imported machine guns."

Chairman Foster was not ready to drop the inquiry into the purchase of arms, but learned little further from the witness.

The rock of conflict between Federal and State authorities loomed large ahead when C. H. Newell, a Denver newspaper editor, was called to the stand by the miners. The very first question made it clear that he was ready to testify regarding conversations he had had with Gov. Ammons, with a view to showing the Governor's alleged attitude toward Mother Jones. Counsel for the operators immediately entered a protest against the testimony in the absence of the Governor, and the hearing of Newell was postponed until Mr. Ammons could be present.

HANCOCK, Mich., Feb. 11.—Sixteen striking copper mine workers testified to-day before the Congressional investigators that they were compelled to toil under dangerous and insanitary conditions for wages that barely enabled them to exist. The contract system of pay was generaly condemned.

The committee has decided to go to Calumet to investigate the Italian hall disaster on Christmas Eve as relating to the deportation of Charles H. Moyer, President of the Western Federation of Miners, two nights later.

SAY FIRM SECRETED ASSETS

A. M. PRICE ARRAIGNED.

Brooklyn Lawyer Indicted for Forgery and Grand Larceny.

Augustus M. Price, a lawyer, reputed to have a profitable practice in Brooklyn, and who two years ago was a candidate for District Attorney in Suffolk County, was arraigned before County Judge Dike in Brooklyn yesterday on three indictments charging forgery and grand larceny. He was held in $15,000 bail.

The charges against Price have grown out of a real estate transaction. The complaining witness is Kate Moore, a former client. She said that Price converted to his own use property worth $11,700 and that he forged several satisfaction pieces to mortgages.

The first indictment sets forth that on Feb. 15, 1910, the lawyer forged the name of Kate Moore to the satisfaction of a mortgage on property owned by Julia S. Affleck, and that afterward, taking advantage of his position as a Notary Public, he attested the forged signature. The second charge involves the same acts, and says that they were committed on Dec. 19, 1912, the owner of the property in this case being John Zimmer.

The lawyer pleaded not guilty to each of the indictments. He has lived in Riverhead for many years and has been active in Democratic politics.

WEDDED IN QUARANTINE.

Bride, Bridegroom, Rabbi, and Witnesses Wrapped in Antiseptics.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 11.—With the bride, bridegroom, the rabbi, and the witnesses swathed in antiseptic wrappings, Miss Theresa Peyser and Milton Newman were married at the home of a friend of the couple on Sunday. The add details of the wedding were not mae public until to-day. The young woman is a hospital nurse.

The weding date had been set for last Sunday. Last week Miss Peyser became ill with scarlet fever and was quarantined. Newman insisted that the wedding be carried out as planned and the Board of Health gave the necessary consent.

A health officer and a nurse were the only witnesses. Rabbi Julian Morgenstern, the bride, and bridegroom were wrapped from head to foot in the antiseptic bandages and immediately after the ceremony the bride was taken to a hospital. To-day she was said to be well on the road to recovery.

GOVERNMENT WINS IN HOME RULE VOTE

Liberals Get a Majority of 78 in Division, but Unionists Cheer the Result.

REDMOND IS CONCILIATORY

Says He Will Do Nothing to Make the Situation More Dangerous, but Ridicules Talk of Civil War.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Home rule for Ireland was again the subject of paramount interest in the House of Commons to-day.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader; David Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer; Sir John Simon, the Attorney General; John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, and Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, all made fervent speeches.

At the conclusion of the debate, the amendment to the reply to the speech from the throne, moved yesterday by Walter Hume Long, "that it would be disastrous for the House to proceed further with the Government for Ireland bill until the measure has been submitted to the judgment of the country," was defeated by a vote of 333 to 255.

The announcement of the figures was received with loud Opposition cheers and shouts of "Resign!"

Sir John Simon was the first speaker. He declared that the real purpose of the amendment moved by Mr. Long was to tear up the Parliament act. Even in the event of a general election returning the Liberals to power, Sir John pointed out, it would be a new Parliament, and the House of Lords would be free to block the Home Rule bill for another three sessions.

The Attorney General was followed by Sir Edward Carson. He said that never before in a speech from the throne had a statement of such unparalleled gravity been made in reference to the domestic relations of the fellow citizens of Ireland as was made by the King yesterday.

The words put into the King's mouth by the Ministers were, the Ulster leader said, a condemnation of the Home Rule bill and a confession that it had utterly failed to furnish a solution of the Irish question. There was small wonder, in view of this confession, that the Government shirked the idea of leaving the decision to the voice of the people.

Sir Edward declared that if Premier Asquith's promised "suggestions" attempted to draw Ulster within the grip of the Dublin Parliament he would, regardless of all consequences, stand with the people of Ulster in their policy of resistance. He went on to say that he inferred from Mr. Asquith's statement that the exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the Home Rule bill would not conflict with the fundamental principles of the bill.

If the exclusion of the Province of Ulster should be proposed, Sir Edward said, it would be his duty to go to Ulster and take counsel with the people there. Only two ways existed of dealing with Ulster. These were to coerce her or to win her. It was useless to talk about concessions which merely meant reducing the proposed wrongs to Ulster to a minimum. Mr. Redmond, he said, had never tried to win Ulster. He wanted only her taxes.

In conclusion Sir Edward declined to pledge himself as to what he would do as the result of a general election, but he said after the election the whole position would have to be reconsidered in the light of a new mandate from the country.

Mr. Redmond's Speech.

Mr. Redmond followed with a warm repudiation of Sir Edward Carson's charge that he wanted Ulster's taxes. He declared that the plea for an amicable settlement of the Home Rule question had found a ready response on the part of the Irish Nationalists, but, he said, the proposals must be consistent with the main principle of the bill. He accepted the new situation arising from Mr. Asquith's promise to initiate suggestions for a settlement, although he thought the Government had gone further than was necessary. He, however, would do nothing to make the situation more difficult or dangerous.

Candidly, Mr. Redmond continued, the Irish Nationalists did not share the tragic view as to the possibilities of a civil war, and he thought the House of Commons ought to resent such threats as an affront.

The exclusion of the Province of Ulster, Mr. Redmond declared, never could be the solution of the Irish question.

The Irish Nationalist leader concluded a speech regarded as conciliatory by saying that he was deeply anxious to remove all fears. He would meet the proposals in the broadest and most friendly spirit, in the earnest hope that the aspirations of the royal speech might be realized and a peaceful settlement reached of the great problem on which the well-being of Ireland and the unity and the strength of the Empire depended.

Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, at the start of his remarks paid Sir Edward Carson a marked compliment by telling him his speech had been marvelously forceful and had proved that however much he hated home rule he loved his country more.

The Chief Secretary said that only on that high plane could they approximate to peace. He pleaded for recognition of the fact that there was a case for the rest of Ireland as well as for Ulster, and also for the cessation of the abuse of the respective sections as well as of himself.

Mr. Birrell humorously illustrated the personal side of the controversy by saying that he had received to-day from Ulster a letter abusing him for putting his two daughters into a convent. "I am sorry," said Mr. Birrell, "that I have no daughters. If I had I should be far better pleased to see them happily married than in a convent."

Lloyd George's Promise.

Mr. Lloyd George, referring to the question asked by the Opposition as to why the Government did not lay its proposals before the House at once, said it was because the Government was convinced that to do so at this stage would not promote the desired peaceful settlement, but hinder its attainment. When the proposals were submitted the Opposition would receive ample opportunity to consider them. In the course of the next six weeks there might be a complete change in the situation. When Parliament was sitting and men were meeting face to face, instead of firing at long range, something might well issue which would make a settlement much easier than at the present moment.

Mr. Bonar Law, winding up the debate for the Opposition, said that upon the shoulders of the Prime Minister was a responsibility as great as ever was borne by any statesman. The time for hesitation had gone. It was the clear duty of the Premier to tell the House without further delay what the Government proposed to do. Mr. Asquith had admitted that the loyalists in Ulster were in a position which entitled them to special treatment; therefore to impose upon them by force a system of government which they opposed was to treat them as slaves. To make any offer of "home rule within Home Rule," of which much had been heard recently, would do great harm. If the offer were made it would be for the purpose, not of obtaining its acceptance, but its rejection, with the single object of improving the Government's political or strategical position.

If ever any people in the history of the world had the right to resist by force the imposition of a form of government they detested, said the Opposition leader, the men of Ulster had that right. The moment Home Rule passed it would be the signal for the outbreak of civil strife, the result of which no one could foretell. In two ways could the danger of civil war be averted—by leaving Ulster out of the Home Rule bill, or by submitting the bill to the judgment of the people.

Lord Charles Beresford, addressing the Ulster Association of London to-night, said:

"If the imperial forces are ordered to fire on the Ulster men, they must obey. But I decline to believe that the Government will go to that extreme to force home rule on Ireland. If the Government does this, it will be the first step toward the demoralization of the army and navy and will lead to the break-up of the Empire."

The strength of the parties in the House of Commons is now: Government, (Liberals, Laborites, Irish Nationalists, and Independent Nationalists,) 386; Opposition, 284.

These figures account for the Unionist cheering on the announcement of last night's vote.

GLADSTONE TO QUIT IN JUNE.

Coming Changes in British Cabinet Officially Announced.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Lewis Harcourt, Secretary for the Colonies, to-day formally notified the House of Commons that Viscount Gladstone would cease to be Governor General of the Union of South Africa in June. He added that the reason for Lord Gladstone's resignation was purely domestic, and had no connection with the events arising out of the recent general strike in South Africa and the deportation of the strike leaders.

The appointment of Sydney Buxton, now President of the Board of Trade, as Governor General of the Union of South Africa, in succession to Lord Gladstone was officially announced to-day. This appointment will cause several changes in the Cabinet, official announcement of which was made to-night.

John Burns becomes President of the Board of Trade, Herbert Samuel leaves the Postmaster Generalship to become President of the Local Government Board, Charles E. Hobhouse becomes Postmaster General, and Charles F. Masterman will be Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

FIND IN A SUSSEX CHURCH.

"Holy Family," by Camillo Procaccini, Discovered at Twincham.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—It has just been discovered that Twicham Church, Sussex, possesses what art experts believe to be an original "Holy Family" by Camillo Procaccini, who died at Milan in 1609.

A resident of Twicham years ago purchased the picture for $150. It was nearly black with age and exposure.

The purchaser's son presented the picture to the church, and the recently appointed rector was the first to recognize its value.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN CRIME.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 12.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Kieff, Russia, says:

"Great excitement prevails here over another alleged 'ritual' murder. At the small town of Fastoff, 40 miles from Kieff, a Christian orphan boy living in a Jewish family was murdered about two months ago, and after the usual perfunctory inquest was buried.

"Owing to sinister rumors, the remains were exhumed, and examination, it is stated, showed thirteen wounds on the body.

"The city is in a ferment and the case is expected to create even more widespread interest than did the Beiliss affair."

'PRINCESS' THURN ALLEGES BLACKMAIL

Former New York Show Girl Has a Resident of the West End of London Arrested.

HER 'TABLE D'HOTE' WEDDING

Previous Alliance of the Soi-Disant Princess of Thurn and Taxis Not Recognized by the Courts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Westminster Police Court was the scene to-day of the preliminary hearing of a remarkable case of alleged blackmail, in which the prosecutrix, who was stated by counsel to be "Josephine, Princess of Thurn and Taxis," was described by some of the London evening papers as the wife of Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis.

Inquiries made by a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent show that the prosecutrix is not Princess Victor, but the so-called Princess of Thurn and Taxis whose claim to the title is based on a midnight marriage ceremony at Rector's, New York.

James Henry Maur, residing in fashionable chambers in Oxford Street, was arrested on a charge of demanding money with threats from the so-called Princess. Counsel for the prosecution stated that Maur met the Princess at a New Year supper party in a restaurant and began to pay attentions to her, taking her to the theatre and to dinner. The Princess, said counsel, once called at the prisoner's flat when he was going to escort her to a theatre, and as he sent word that he was not quite ready she entered the flat and waited a short while for him. They went to the theatre together and afterward the prisoner accompanied the Princess to her flat in Victoria Street and partook of light refreshment, departing in ten minutes.

Counsel went on to tell how threatening letters signed "Ernest Everitt" were received by the Princess and placed in the hands of the police, who obtained evidence indicating the Everitt was an alias employed by Maur.

Maur in the dock protested emphatically against the charge and declared that he was in a nursing home recovering from an operation on the date of the most incriminating letter.

Maur's counsel stated that his client was a gentleman. The police admitted that they had made no inquiries about him, and the Magistrate admitted him to bail in $1,000.

The "Princess Josephine de la Tour et Taxis," as she called herself here, and her troubles first became known through announcements of that department of the theatrical firm that employed her which keeps the public posted on matters of interest or supposed interest concerning its artists. In 1907 the Princess was appearing as a show girl in "The Gay White Way," and, sending for reporters, revealed the story of her life.

She was born, it appeared, in Jacksonville, Fla., and her parents were wealthy planters. But they died when she was only 3 years old, and she was educated in a convent. When she was 15 her guardian took her to Chicago and placed her at clerical work in the office of a publishing house. It was in the intervals of her daily toil that she met William W. A. Pike, whom she described as the "son of one of Chicago's richest men."

"He fell in love with me," the Princess said, "and one night, as we were sitting at a restaurant table, we clasped hands across the board, pledged ourselves, and thus were married. The newspapers called it a 'table d'hôte wedding,' but Mr. Pike's parents refused to recognize it, and on their threat to disinherit him he left me."

She sued for a separate maintenance, but the courts had never heard of this brand of marriage, and so she came to New York to find work. Here she met "Prince Victor de la Tour et Taxis," and, she said, she was married to him. Then came disillusionment, and the Princess told a sad tale of idleness on the part of the Prince and the gradual pawning of her jewels, the gifts of her friends. The Prince left her and went back to Europe, and the Princess followed him. She was going to appeal to the Austrian Emperor, she said, but she found that the Prince's family, one of the oldest in Europe, would not acknowledge her.

Meanwhile Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis has married an American woman. According to the Almanach de Gotha, the marriage took place at Uniontown, Penn., on Nov. 2, 1911, and was not to an "equal in birth and did not conform to the laws of the princely house." The woman in question was Mrs. Lida Eleanor Fitzgerald, who was a Miss Nicolls. The Almanach is not certain whether at the time of her marriage she was a widow or a divorcée, but she was once the wife of Gen. Fitzgerald, from whom she obtained a divorce in 1906. She is the niece of Josiah V. Thompson, the Pittsburgh banker and coke operator, and is said to possess $1,000,000 in her own right. When she left this country after the ceremony she announced that she would never again return to it.

ECUADOREAN REBELS LOSE.

Government Forces Bombard and Take Esmeraldas.

GUAYAQUIL, Feb. 11.—Esmeraldas, the capital of the province of the same name, which has been in the hands of the revolutionists since Dec. 15, was bombarded yesterday by Government gunboats and heavy artillery, and, according to the latest advices, was recaptured by the Government forces.

The bombardment began late in the afternoon, the attacking Federals numbering 3,000 men. Five small gunboats were in the harbor and opened on the city simultaneously with the field artillery. Shells set fire to the town in several sections, and at one time it was in danger of being totally destroyed.

Before the attack began Gen. Carlos Concha, the rebel leader, was notified of the Government's intention to bombard, but he declined to agree to the fixing of a neutral zone, where non-combatants might be reasonably safe, or to permit foreigners to embark on the steamers in the harbor.

While details are lacking, it is known that the city was subjected to an extremely heavy fire, and considerable fear is felt for the safety of foreign residents and other non-combatants.

PANAMA, Feb. 11.—Col. Goethals said to-night that in case it was necessary to protect Americans or other foreign residents at Esmeraldas, a small warship could be passed through the canal. He added that he would prefer not, and would recommend against the passage of a warship, as it might seriously interfere with the work at Cucaracha Slide; but it would be possible to send one through.

ENDING STEAMSHIP WAR.

German Lines to Arrange New 'Community of Interests' Without Delay.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—Peace is assured between the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd Lines. Both companies have decided to bury their differences on a "community of interests" plan.

The North German Lloyd is to retain the lion's share of the passenger traffic, and the Hamburg-American will remain dominant in the freight trade. Detailed negotiations to that end will immediately be begun in the hope of concluding them by the end of the present month, when the modus vivendi, whereby the pool was recently prolonged, will expire.

If it proves impossible for technical reasons to effect a new "community of interests" by March 1 the international pool may nevertheless be prolonged for five years. This arrangement will be practicable, inasmuch as the German lines under the new scheme will be represented in the pool by a common passenger quota, the division of which is a matter to be decided between themselves.

If it is impossible to renew the pool on a five-year basis, an attempt will be made to effect another provisional prolongation.

Telegrams from Vienna, where Herren Ballin and Heineken have been negotiating with the Austrian and Hungarian authorities, state that the "community of interests" plan may even eventually be extended so as to provide a joint operating management for both lines.

ALL SWEDEN AROUSED.

Sven Hedin the Principal Leader in the Patriotic Agitation.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 11.—The political crisis has practically divided the whole Swedish people into two parties—those for and those against the immediate increase of armaments and a new efficient navy.

The people have awakened from their hundred years' slumber since the loss of Finland. Enthusiastic demonstrations for the King's programme alternate with Socialistic parades in favor of the abdicated Ministry.

Everybody, even women and children, has been seized with political fervor. The whole land is in a state of fermentation. In the restaurants only national songs and war music are played. Persons who fail to rise when the oft-repeated national anthem is played are bombarded with projectiles or thrown out.

Numerous voluntary money collections have been started for the purpose of strengthening Stockholm's fortifications and buying machine-guns. This patriotic feeling is almost unparalleled in Swedish history.

The dissolution of the Riksdag and new elections are imminent. The chief agitator behind the patriotic movement is the explorer Sven Hedin, whose publication entitled "Warning Words" and numerous speeches all over the country paved the way for it. Dr. Hedin will lecture at Christiania in a few days on the invitation of the students there to encourage the common political interests of Sweden and Norway.

FLIES IN 2 1-2 HOURS OVER MONT BLANC

Swiss Airman Parmelin Describes His Experience—Suffered Much from Cold.

TO RETURN OVER SIMPLON

Reached a Height of 17,684 Feet at the Summit—Was in Peril from Cross-Wind Currents.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Feb. 11.—The Swiss airman Parmelin left Geneva at 1:39 P. M. to-day in sunny weather and flew over Mont Blanc at a height of 5,300 meters, landing safely at Aosta, Italy, at 3 P. M.

Owing to fog Parmelin was unable to complete his plan to reach Turin to-day, but intends to fly thither to-morrow. He purposes to return over the Simplon.

Parmelin, who is 30 years old, is the chief pilot at the Duperdussin school at Rheims. He used the military type of Duperdussin machine, fitted with an 80 horse power motor. He carried 100 litres of petrol and a supply of oxygen. He wore cold-proof garments.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Feb. 11.—The Aosta correspondent of the Secolo sends the following statement by Parmelin:

"After circling the air once or twice to test the machine and get my direction, I flew straight toward Mont Blanc, which stood, a huge white giant, against the deep blue of the sky a few miles in front of me.

"For the first few minutes I was in some fear that I might have to return, as the engine was working badly. I had to work hard to get it right, but after I had been flying about a mile it began to work smoothly.

"I gradually climbed to a height of 9,000 feet. All this time I was fighting with a terrific wind, which now and then almost put me off my course. Happily I was able to keep control of the machine, and soon found myself flying over the top of Mont Blanc. I was then at a height of 17,684 feet, the highest I attained, and the cold was intense.

"Through the mist which enveloped the summit of the mountain I could clearly distinguish the plain far below on which I hoped to land. It seemed hopelessly far away.

"There were several cros-wind currents on the summit and I tosed about, and more than once was carried out of my course. The cold made my shoulders ache. I managed to fight against it, however, and flew in the direction of the Dôme du Gouter. I planed from the Dôme, and, skirting Mont Chétiff, found myself in a direct line with the valley of Aosta.

"I dropped to 12,000 feet after leaving Mont Blanc behind me, and at once saw it was useles to think of continuing as far as Turin, the mist being far too dense. When I saw Aosta below I cut off the engine and planed down."

BALLOON DISTANCE RECORD

German Aeronauts Are Believed to Have Accomplished It.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—Reports received here from Perm, Russia, say that three foreign balloonists landed to-day near Krasno-Ufimsk, a town 110 miles south-east of Perm.

The balloonists are probably Dr. Korn and his two companions of Berlin, who ascended at Bitterfeld, Prussian Saxony, at the beginning of this week with the intention of establishing a distance and duration record for spherical balloons.

Dr. Korn apparently succeeded in going some miles further than did Herr Kevlen, who, with two passengers, in the German balloon Duisberg, made a flight in December from Bitterfeld to Perm, a distance of 1,738 miles. Herr Kevlen took four days to accomplish the journey. It developed later that the balloon had made an intermediate landing.

The previous world's distance record for spherical balloons was held by René Rumpelmayer, who in March, 1913, traveled from Paris to a point near Kharkoff, European Russia, a distance of 1,492 miles.

UNDONE BY SLIT SKIRTS.

Austrian Officer Who Banned Them Loses His Command.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Feb. 11.—The question whether it becomes the wives and daughters of Austro-Hungarian officers to wear slit skirts has led to the retirement of the commander of the Budapest garrison, Gen. Fekete.

He issued an anti-slit-skirt order because he noticed that the slit skirts worn at a recent concert by the wives and daughters of officers displeased the commander of the army corps. The Budapest press attacked both Generals, and apparently this pained the corps commander so much that he found fault with Gen. Fekete's prohibition.

Consequently Gen. Fekete asked for leave from which he will not return.

DYING ACT PROVED STEDMAN A SUICIDE

While Surgeons Worked Over Him Broker Tried to Drive the Knife Deeper Into His Brain.

VERDICT, SELF-DESTRUCTION

Doctors Agree with Coroner, but Call It Most Astounding Case of Self-Inflicted Injury.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 11.—Coroner Phelan of Bridgeport, at the end of an inquest that lasted all afternoon and into the night, rendered a decision to-night that William A. Stedman of the cotton broking firm of Stephen M. Weld & Co. of New York committed suicide in the cellar of his home here, last Saturday morning. The Coroner found that the man had killed himself by driving the hammer head of a hatchet into his skull, and then, to make death doubly certain, had taken from his pocket a penknife, opened it, and with his left hand had driven the blade of it through the membranes covering the brain, thereby inflicting a wound from which recovery was absolutely impossible.

Four of the leading physicians in this part of Connecticut, all of whom had been present at Mr. Stedman's death, swore that all the evidence indicated suicide—one that Dr. J. A. Clarke said was the most remarkable case of self inflicted injury he ever had read or heard of. If he had been informed that a man could have inflicted such an injury upon himself, Dr. Clarke frankly said, he would not have believed the story. Yet the facts in the case, he added, all pointed to the conclusion that Stedman had accomplished this seemingly impossible thing.

The inquest was held in the parlor of the old colonial home of the Meades one of the landmarks of Eastern Connecticut, a beautiful relict of colonial days that Mr. Stedman had leased a few weeks before his death. Mrs. Stedman, the widow, was too lill to appear in the room where the witnesses were examined, and was questioned by Coroner Phelan in her room. No persons beyond the witnesses and four newspaper men were present at the hearing. These witnesses were Dr. Alvin Gates, resident physician of the Greenwich Hospital; Dr. Clarke, Dr. William L. Griswold, Dr. A. W. Klein, the family physician: Miss Grace Tuller, a nurse; Louis A. Stedman, a brother of Mr. Stedman; John Chapman, the Stedmans' negro butler, and Chapman's wife, Martha.

Phelan Inspects House.

Prior to the examination of the physicians and the lay witnesses, Coroner Phelan made a thorough inspection of the house and the cellar. The movements of the servants were traced before and after the crime, and every foot of the cellar floor, where Mr. Stedman was found, was examined. The imprints of the man's hands were still to be seen on one of the white posts in the cellar, near the corner of the coal bin, where John Chapman, the butler, found his dying master.

Dr. Gates was the first witness. As resident physician of the Greenwich Hospital he was present when Mr. Stedman died on the operating table in that institution last Saturday afternoon. He stood beside Dr. Griswold as Dr. Griswold removed the fragments of bone from the brain and saw Dr. Griswold remove the open penknife from the brain. Dr. Gates described the wound made by the hatchet as one two inches wide and about three inches deep.

"It was a great jagged hole in the top of his head," said Dr. Gates.

"Would a blow from the hammerhead of a hatchet have made such a wound?" asked Coroner Phelan.

"Yes, I think if delivered with sufficient strength," Dr. Gates replied.

Reveals the Penknife.

"While Dr. Griswold was removing the bone fragments from the wound," continued Dr. Gates, "he discovered the penknife in the wound and removed it. I cannot say whether the blow was delivered straight down or obliquely, as the bone was crushed in all directions right down into the wound."

Dr. Griswold, the surgeon who performed the operation during which Mr. Stedman died, was the next witness. He had never seen Mr. Stedman until he was called in by Dr. Klein to perform the operation, he said.

"It was about noon," said Dr. Griswold, "when I was called on the telephone and asked to hurry to the Stedman home. Dr. Klein was the person who summoned me. He said a man had attempted suicide, and when I asked him if it was one of Mr. Stedman's employes, he replied that it was Mr. Stedman himself. I hurried to the house in my machine and in the corner of the coal bin I found Mr. Stedman. Miss Tuller, the nurse who had been attending Mrs. Stedman, was seated beside him holding his left hand.

"I took Mr. Stedman's hand from Miss Tuller," added Dr. Griswold, "and it was while I was holding it that he made a movement that I cannot help but believe was a conscious movement. I must have relaxed my hold, for in the interval between my arrival at the house and the arrival of the ambulance Mr. Stedman got his hand free—it was the left hand—and reaching up clutched at the wound and drew from it the gauze with which it was dressed. It was apparently a conscious effort, and it would seem that he was trying to accomplish something to make more certain the death he sought."

"Did he say anything while you were with him in the cellar?" asked the Coroner.

"Not a word."

"Do you think he was conscious?"

"I believe that when he lifted his hand to the wound it was a conscious act, despite the fact that it was contrary to all the ordinary beliefs in such cases."

"When he was on the operating table in the hospital did Mr. Stedman say anything?" Coroner Phelan asked.

"Yes; just before he died he began to count. He counted one, two, three and on up to somewhere in the thirties. I do not recollect now how far he counted."

Powerful Blow Necessary.

Dr. Griswold gave a description of the wound, and commented on the peculiar fact that the fragments of bone driven into the brain pointed in all directions instead of in one general direction.

"How deep was the wound?" asked the Coroner.

"To the membranes covering the brain."

Dr. Griswold said that Mr. Stedman's skull was the skull of the ordinary man, and of the average toughness. He said that a powerful blow was necessary to inflict such a wound.

"Could a man inflict such a wound upon himself?" asked Coroner Phelan.

"I do not see how a normal man could."

"How about the penknife; could he have driven that into the wound himself?"

"In this case I must say I think so. His actions in lifting his left hand to the wound appeared to be for the purpose of driving the knife further into the brain. I say this despite the fact that all my teaching and all my experience lead me to believe that such a thing could not be done."

Dr. Griswold said the knife was found beneath the level of the skull, and when the Coroner asked him how he reached the conclusion that Mr. Stedman, in his wounded condition and weakness, could have placed the knife there, he said that such appeared to be the case, and that the evidence indicated that the man had jabbed the knife into the wound and pushed the blade down into the brain.

Dr. Griswold then said he believed Mr. Stedman had broken his skull with a hatchet and then, while still conscious, had driven the knife through the wound into the membrane covering the brain. Mr. Stedman's action in trying to remove the bandages from the wound, Dr. Griswold added, tended to convince him that the act was a volitional and not an unconscious one.

In Mental Distress.

Dr. Klein testified that Mr. Stedman had been ill and mentally depressed for many weeks, and that his nervous condition had been very bad for nearly a year. He told of being called to the Stedman home last Saturday and of his having administered first aid treatment.

"Do you think it was possible after he had so terribly injured himself with the hatchet that he could then have opened that knife and pushed it into the wound in his head?"

"Yes, in this case I think so," Dr. Klein answered, "for this was to my mind the act of an insane individual. In the case of a sane man it would have been different. This was perhaps a case of manic depressive insanity."

Dr. Clarke, the next witness, did not go to the Stedman house the day of Mr. Stedman's death. He was present, however, at the hospital, and witnessed the operation by Dr. Griswold.

"I saw the operation," said Dr. Clarke, "and heard the dying man count. He counted regularly, one, two, three, four, and up to thirty-eight. At thirty-eight he stopped; and that was almost the instant that death occurred. Once during the operation he opened his eyes and looked about him. But the eyes were not those of a conscious man. He must have been insane, for I am sure that no sane man could have injured himself as did Mr. Stedman."

Louis A. Stedman, the brother, agreed with the doctors that all the evidence pointed to suicide, and he said that in his opinion his brother had killed himself in a moment of temporary insanity.

Miss Tuller, the nurse, who was the first person to reach Mr. Stedman after the fatal wound was inflicted, said he acted in a conscious way during the first few minutes after she reached his side. She asked him if he wished to be removed, and she said he shook his head, indicating that he did not, and when she asked him if he wanted a glass of water he seemed to nod his head in assent.

The Butler's Testimony.

John Chapman, the butler, said he was in the upper part of the house at the time of the suicide. His wife, who was in the kitchen, told him when he came down that Mr. Stedman had gone into the cellar to fix the furnace. He went down, but did not see Mr. Stedman the first time. The second time, which was within a minute or two afterward, he saw a large pool of blood, and without waiting to find out what had happened to Mr. Stedman he rushed up to the kitchen and tried to tell his wife his fears. A minute later he and Miss Tuller went into the cellar, and this time they found Mr. Stedman.

The butler's wife corroborated his testimony in every detail, as did Mrs. Stedman, the widow, and Miss Tuller, the nurse.

"This ends the case, and the evidence points to but one conclusion, and that is that Mr. Stedman was a suicide," said Coroner Phelan when he came out of Mrs. Stedman's room, where the widow, who was the last witness, was examined.

MURPHY SAYS HE'S FOR PARTY UPLIFT

Acquiesces in Every Reorganization Plan Suggested by Gov. Glynn.

MALONE PRODS HIM AGAIN

Collector Says He Knows President Wilson Will Never Recognize Murphy's Leadership.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, is going to lend his influence to reform the Democratic Party in the State. Mr. Murphy said so himself yesterday, only he used the word "uplift." Mr. Murphy was in high good humor over the reports that the Wilson and Glynn administrations intended to keep hands off the Tammany organization in the city and confine their influence to reorganizing the party in the State. Murphy was at Tammany Hall for the first time in a week, and he looked as if he had enjoyed his vacation at Good Ground.

"What is your position on the proposed reorganization of the party in the State?" the Tammany leader was asked.

"I shall be very glad to aid in any effort to uplift the party—if that's the word," replied Mr. Murphy without cracking a smile.

"Would you agree to the reorganizing of the State Committee and making William Church Osborn Chairman instead of George M. Palmer?" was the next question.

"I don't object to Osborn," replied Murphy, "if Palmer wants to resign."

"Have you any information that Mr. Palmer intends to get out?"

"No, I haven't heard so."

"Do you know that Gov. Glynn has said that a meeting of the State Committee is to be called next week to arrange for the change in the Chairmanship?"

"No, I don't know it."

"Are you in favor of such a meeting being called?"

"I will not oppose such a plan. If Mr. Palmer wants to resign I don't see why any one should oppose Osborn."

When the subject of the letter from Richard Croker to the late John Fox, in which Croker said that Tammany would never win with Murphy as leader, came up, Mr. Murphy became reticent.

"That's all past," was his only comment.

Mr. Murphy was asked if he had decided to return to the Croker policy, confining his leadership to the city and not interfering in up-State politics, and he retorted:

"I didn't know that was his policy."

"Mr. Croker seems to think that you can help the party best by stepping down and out," some one suggested, but Murphy only smiled in reply.

"What do you think of Gov. Glynn's statement that there must be a new State leader?"

"I haven't been State leader."

"Who has been State leader?"

"Oh, there've been two or three."

Mr. Murphy explained that he meant that William J. Conners, Gov. Dix, Gov. Sulzer, and Gov. Glynn had succeeded each other as State leaders during the last few years.

"Then you recognize Gov. Glynn as the State leader?"

"Yes."

"Is there an understanding between you and Gov. Glynn that you are to keep your hands off the State and he is to let you alone in the city?"

"I know of no such understanding."

"Would you support Gov. Glynn for renomination?"

"I don't know whether he is a candidate. He says he's not."

"Would you support him if it was admitted that he made a good Governor?"

"That's in the future."

"Have you seen Gov. Glynn lately?"

"I haven't see him since he has been Governor."

"Would you support William F. McCombs for United States Senator?"

"I didn't know he wanted it."

"Have you any one in mind for Senator?"

"No, I haven't heard any one talked of."

Thomas F. Foley was in the room during the interview, and as the reporters turned away some one asked him what he thought of the Croker letter.

"The old fellow's getting crazy," replied the former Sheriff. "He's getting just old enough to be an old fool."

Collector Malone, who represents President Wilson in the distribution of patronage in the city, said yesterday that there would be no let-up in the fight to oust Murphy. He said:

"Murphy is not the leader of the Democratic Party or of the majority of Democrats in New York County or in New York City. That fact was established last November when Murphy and his leadership were repudiated by 121,000 majority, and if you subtract the tens of thousands of Republican votes that were cast for Judge McCall throughout New York, and if you observe the difference of 50,000 or more votes between the Democratic enrolment in Kings County and the vote cast for Murphy's ticket, you will see that Murphy and his leadership were utterly repudiated by the Democrats of New York County and New York City and by a vast majority of all the citizens of the greater city.

"I had a long conference with the President at the White House three weeks ago last Sunday on the New York State situation. I believe I am as well acquainted with the political views, opinions, and ideals of Woodrow Wilson as any man, and I know that the President has never given his approval to any plan which contemplates the recognition of Murphy or his type of leadership. I fought through the twenty-one counties of New Jersey with the President in two campaigns against Jim Smith and Jim Nugent, and the man who bravely dethroned Smith and Nugent in New Jersey has given his approval to no plan of reorganization which contemplates the recognition of Charles F. Murphy."

TO CALL STATE COMMITTEE.

Meeting Within Three Weeks—Osborn, Peabody, and Van Namee on Slate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—A meeting of the Democratic State Committee to elect William Church Osborn Chairman will be called within the next three weeks, in accordance with the programme arranged at the recent conference between President Wilson and Gov. Glynn. So far as can be learned here, Charles F. Murphy will place no obstacles in the way of the proposed reorganization.

It is likely that the meeting will be held at the Ten Eyck Hotel here. A particular effort is being made to muster the up-State strength at the meeting. The plans have been talked over thoroughly with Democratic leaders from rural sections by Gov. Glynn, who has summoned them to Albany one or two at a time.

The reorganizers are beginning to look about for men to fill the places of Secretary and Treasurer of the State Committee. It has been determined to make a clean sweep of the present officials. Arthur A. McLean of Newburg, for many years Treasurer of the Committee, who recently was indicted and pleaded guilty to a violation of the election law in accepting a campaign contribution from a corporation doing contract work on the State highways, will be asked to step out, unless he should hand in his resignation before the meeting.

The Treasurership will be offered to George Foster Peabody, long active as an Independent Democrat. It is thought that George R. Van Namee of Watertown, the present head of the Bill Drafting Commission, will be made Secretary in place of John A. Mason. Mr. Van Namee has been Assistant Secretary of the State Committee for three years.

Gov. Glynn to-day made it clear that an effort would be made to restore the autonomy of the Democratic organization in Kings County, in recent years an annex to Tammany Hall. This would mean the retirement of John H. McCooey, the present leader. Whether Gov. Glynn intended to begin an aggressive campaign against Murphy himself could not be learned to-day. Tammany is strongly intrenched at the Capitol.

ELECTION PLEASED WILSON.

President Had Made a Personal Plea in Behalf of Vollmer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The selection of Henry Vollmer, Democrat, for Congress in the Second Iowa District, caused Democratic rejoicing here to-day. The result was particularly gratifying to President Wilson, who had made a personal appeal to have the Administration sustained.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Feb. 11.—Complete returns from the Second District show that Vollmer, Democrat, was elected Gongressman with 12,285 votes, a plurality of 1,850 votes over Harry E. Hull, Republican, who received 10,435 votes. Charles P. Hanley, Progressive, ran third, with 3,672 votes.

Nebraska Moose Won't Fuse.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 11.—That amalgamation with the Republican Party would not be considered by Nebraska Progressives, who met here to-day, was decided after brief talks by Medill McCormick, National Progressive Committeeman from Illinois; Ex-Senator A. J. Beveridge, and W. E. Cadmus of Illinois, National Organizer for the party. Plans for complete State organization were outlined by F. P. Corrick, Chairman of the Nebraska State Central Committee.

St. John Talks for Prohibitionists.

John Pierce St. John, who was Governor of Kansas from 1879 to 1883, and was a candidate for President on the Prohibition ticket in 1884, made an address on prohibition last night to members of the Prohibition Party, who gathered at the Century Lyceum. Earlier in the evening ex-Gov. St. John was entertained at dinner at Drake's Restaurant, 111 West Forty-second Street, by representatives of the Prohibition Party, including John McKee, John Mc Tammany, Richard G. Green, Thomas G. Sayre, Dr. D. L. Colvin, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hillard, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron R. Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Packer.

Motor-Driven Freighter Launched.

The agents of the Atlantic Transport Line announced yesterday that a cable dispatch had been received from Belfast yesterday saying that the motor-driven freighter Mississippi had been launched successfully. She is the last of three oil-burning motor vessels of 6,000 tons measurement which will run between Baltimore and London.

MULLEN APPOINTED TAX COMMISSIONER

Mayor Names Former Partner for the Bronx—T. W. Whittle a Park Commissioner.

TAX REFORM TO BE STUDIED

Mitchel Will Direct the Board to Compare the Actual and Assessed Values of Real Estate.

Mayor Mitchel announced yesterday the appointment of his former law partner, George V. Mullan, to be Tax Commissioner of the Bronx, and Thomas W. Whittle to be aPrk Commissioner of that borough, to succeed Thomas J. Higgins. Mr. Mullan takes the place on the Tax Board made vacant by the election of Charles J. McCormack as Borough President of Richmond. Mr. Mullan was a candidate for Corporation Counsel, but gave way to Frank L. Polk.

Mr. Whittle served four years as Commissioner of Public Works of the Bronx under Borough President Cyrus C. Miller and was reappointed by President Mathewson. He was born in New York City forty-six years ago, and lives at 2,332 University Avenue, the Bronx. He is a builder by occupation.

Mr. Mullan was born in New York City, and has always lived here. He is forty-one years old. For the past eight years he has resided in University Heights, the Bronx. He was educated in private schools and at St. Francis Xavier College, and studied law at New York University. He was admitted to the Bar in 1896, and was associated with the law firm of Philbin, Beekman & Menken from 1907 to 1901, at the end of which year he went into private pratice with Mr. Mitchel. In announcing his appointment the Mayor said:

"I am glad to be able to announce that Mr. Mullan has accepted appointment as a member of the Board of Tases and Assessments. I expect that board to take a leading part in the important work of considering and reporting upon the various new taxation schemes and devices that have been suggested for the city, some of which are now before the State Legislature, and I have been anxious to obtain the benefit of Mr. Mullan's study of these questions.

"I may add that through Mr. Mullan's appointment the Bronx, which has long needed representation on the Tax Board, secures a representative who has lived for some years in that borough and is familiar with its condition and needs.

"In pursuance of the programme laid out by me during the recent election campaign, I am about to direct the Board of Taxes and Assessments to make an immediate study of the relation of the true to the assessed value of the real estate in this city. I expect also shortly to appoint a commission of tax, realty and economic experts to study local conditions and suggest plans for the improvement of the taxing service, the work of the committeee to be comprehensive and to include theory, yolicy, expediency, justice, legality and administration. This commission will be expected to enlist the aid of the Federal Government in procuring reports from United States Consuls upon the tax laws, land policies, model tenements and transportation of European and other foreign cities."

Mr. Mullan is a Democrat and Mr. Whittle is a Republican.

MAY USE SCHOOLS AS VOTING PLACES

Board of Education Puts Itself on Record as Favoring It.

POLK WILL DRAFT A LAW

Dr. Maxwell Says Election Officers Must Not Be Permitted to Smoke.

Approval of the use of public schools for registration and voting, tabling of a resolution to rescind the promotion of holders of Licenses 1 and 2 to higher classes in the elementary schools, decision to take immediate action with regard to the teachers' retirement fund, and consideration of a proposal to charge societies and associations for light, heat, and janitor's services for rooms occupied by them in the public schools were the chief features of yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education.

Francis P. Cunnion, Chairman of the Committee on Care of Buildings, read a letter from Corporation Counsel Polk requesting the board to inform him of its attitude with regard to the use of the schools for election purposes so that he might draft an appropriate bill to be submitted to the Legislature as soon as possible.

Dr. Ira S. Wile moved that the board approve of such use of the schools. Alrick H. Man offered an amendment that schools should be so used subject to such regulations as the board should deem necessary to make. There was a tie vote, 17 to 17, on Dr. Wile's resolution. Arthur S. Somers explained that he had voted against it, because he did not approve of using the schools for that purpose. City Superintendent Maxwell said that registration and election officers smoked a great deal, and that it would be necessary to insist on prohibition of smoking if elections were held in the schools.

William E. Willcox moved that the board favor this use of the buildings provided that it did not conflict with the work and interests of the schools. The motion was carried by a vote of 24 to 11.

Former President Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., moved that the board rescind the resolution adopted by it on June 12, 1912, directing City Superintendent Maxwell and the Board of Examiners to conform to the opinion of the Corporation Counsel that those teachers eligible under Licenses 1 and 2, as held in said opinion, be placed on the appropriate eligible list. Mr. Winthrop said that subsequent to the passing of the resolution of June 12 proceedings were instituted in the Supreme Court in Kings County in which Herman Bergoffen and Homer L. Bretsch were relators for the purpose of obtaining a peremption writ of mandamus directing the City Superintendent to place their names on the eligible list of those qualified to teach a graduating class. The cases, Mr. Winthrop said, were tried together before Justice Kapper, who rendered a decision in the Bergoffen case, denying the issuance of the writ of mandamus on the ground that holders of License 1 were not entitled to teach in the graduating class. Orders were entered in conformity with this decision. Appeals were taken from it to the Appellate Division, which, in the Bertsch case, unanimously affirmed the order entered by Justice Kapper, and thereafter Bergoffen ithdrew his appeal.

Mr. Winthrop read from Justice Kapper's opinion and maintained that as this legal question had been decided, the board should now rescind its resolution of June 12. Mr. Willcox said that the 3,000 holders of the licenses against whom the court had decided had now no vested claim to promotion. He spoke of the number of other teachers whose advancement had been prevented by the action of the board. He also referred to the action of City Supt. Maxwell in appealing to the State Commissioner of Education from the resolution of the board on June 12.

George J. Gillespie, Chairman of the Committee on By-Laws and Legislation, said he wished to look at the question in a fair and judicial way. It was very complicated. The appeal taken from City Supt. Maxwell's action in declining to obey the directions of the board in this matter and carrying it before the State Commissioner of Education would be argued before the Court of Appeals, Mr. Gillespie said, in a few weeks. He added that many holders of the licenses in question were now teaching in upper classes and doing satisfactory work, despite Mr. Willcox's disparaging estimate of them. Justice Kapper, Mr. Gillespie insisted, had simply decided not to grant Bergoffen's specific right. The Appellate Division had not approved of his decision as a matter of law. The question, Mr. Gillespie said, might still be brought before the courts, but it was not his place to advise any teacher how to do this.

Until 1910 or 1911 these licenses had been regarded as entitling the holders to teach any class. Some of the holders had expressed a willingness to undergo another examination, but had been assured that it was unnecessary. Up to Jan. 1, 1914, Mr. Gillespie said, 540 teachers had been appointed to these high classes during a period of three years, and of that number 472 were holders of licenses and the rest were holders of promotion licenses.

Morton Stein said that the board should await the decision of the Court of Appeals before disregarding the rights of the 3,000 license holders whom John Martin had characterized as "lame ducks."

The motion to lay on the table was then made. It was carried by a vote of 23 to 12.

The Committee on Finance in its report on the teachers' retirement fund said that the Controller found a balance on Dec. 31, 1913, of $938,191.63, whereas the Auditor of the Board of Education found a balance of $1,013,671.05—a difference of $75,479.42. President Churchill said that he had written to Mayor Mitchel and the City Chamberlain, asking that prompt relief be afforded to the fund, which was in a desperate state. On motion of John Martin, President Churchill was authorized to appoint a special committee to confer on the matter with the city authorities. It was also decided that while this conference was pending, the Committee on Finance should have charge of any remedial legislative measures for the benefit of the fund. It was said that $200,000 would have to be borrowed from the excise funds this year.

Mr. Cunnion offered a new set of rules governing the use of school buildings by societies and others. It calls for charges in each case covering cost of light, heat, and janitor service. The pay of the janitor in each case is highest, and the repetition of this name afforded some amusement. For the use of the Washington Irving High School the proposed cost is $15 for light, $5 for heat, and $30 for janitorial service. Mr. Cunnion explained that the janitor did not get this sum. He paid it to the person or persons he employed to do the janitorial work outside of school hours. It was decided to allow temporary enforcement of the new rules pending consideration and further action by the board.

BOMB SCARES 20 FAMILIES.

Blackhanders Had Demanded $500 from Ground-Floor Tenant.

A bomb was exploded early yesterday morning on the ground floor of 430 West Thirty-ninth Street. There are 20 families in this six-story tenement house and nearly 100 persons fled down the fire escapes. One Italian ran through the street, yelling: "Remember Messina," which caused many to flee panic stricken toward Broadway in the belief that a more severe earthquake than that of Wednesday had visited New York.

The bomb, which was made of dynamite, tore off the plaster from the walls of all the flats in the house and caused such a choking dust that many of the tenants thought the building was on fire. Some threw their valuables into the courtyard in the rear and when the scare was over had considerable difficulty in finding their property.

The explosion occurred immediately outside the apartment occupied by Antonio Caltbellota, who lives on the first floor with his wife and mother. It was heard by Policeman Woods of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station, who tried to quiet the frenzied Italians. Caltbellota told Woods that he had received five letters from the Camorra demanding $500. One of the letters instructed him to take the West Shore ferry to New Jersey, where he would meet a man with a red bandanna handkerchief around his neck who would ask him for "fish."

Two detectives disguised as laborers accompanied Caltbellota across the ferry, but there was no one to meet him at the appointed place. After these letters were received a close watch was kept for two weeks on the tenement where Caltbellota lives. As soon as the surveillance was discontinued the bomb was set off.

The business of Blum Brothers, Inc., was established in Philadelphia eleven years ago, essentially as an exclusive Apparel Store. It won a wide clientele and later developed into a complete department store of high standing.

Last August, however, circumstances forced this business into a friendly Receivership, the Court giving the Receivers power to continue purchasing fresh stocks and keep them at their very best. The result was a store full of exceptionally fine and winsome merchandise, even up to the last day on which it was open for business.

The Receivers ended their work a week ago by selling the entire stock to GIMBELS.

The share of this stock which comes to GIMBELS, New York, is of such a desirable character that, despite the quantity, we regret that we could not get more, and we are candid in telling you that

AERO CLUB HOLDS UP AIR RACE SANCTION

Wants Exposition Authorities to Give More Details of Around-the-World Project.

PRIZES MUST BE BONDED

Branch of International Society Here Won't Assume Responsibility Unless All Conditions Are Fulfilled.

After a rather spirited debate lasting for more than three hours yesterday afternoon the members of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America decided that the petition of the Panama-Pacific Exposition for sanction for an aeroplane race around the world did not go sufficiently into details as to the conditions to be imposed upon contestants.

As a result sanction for the race was temporarily withheld, and a communication was sent by Alan R. Hawley, President of the Aero Club, to Guy T. Slaughter, President of the Pacific Aero Club, which forwarded the Panama-Pacific Exposition's request for a sanction, suggesting that the exposition authorities read over carefully a book of rules of the International Aeronautic Federation. A copy of the book was forwarded with Mr. Hawley's letter.

While no official announcement was made of the exact reason for withholding the sanction at present, it can be stated on good authority that the Panama-Pacific Exposition's backers will have to furnish a substantial bond to guarantee the large sum of prize money offered before any sanction will be given for the race.

The amount of prize money suggested "tentatively" ranges from a minimum of $150,000 to a maximum of $1,000,000, of which $300,000 is said to be already assured in the form of auxiliary prizes to be added to the official prize of $150,000.

When the matter of sanctioning the around-the-world race came up, it is understood that a number of those present at the meeting of the Aero Club's Board of Governors held that for the Aero Club to sanction the race would mean that the Aero Club would practically guarantee the full amount of the prize money, as the club's guarantee would carry with it the assurances of co-operation of all of the clubs affiliated with the Aero Club of America in the International Aeronautic Federation.

President Alan R. Hawley was asked about this feature of the case after the meeting of the Governor had adjourned.

"It is perfectly true," he said, "that the Aero Club's sanction would make us morally responsible at least for the prize money. The rules of the International Federation do not require that we forward the application for a sanction. The Federation gives to our club the power to grant a sanction in its name.

"Once we grant this sanction the International Federation accepts responsibility for it. It is futile for anyone to attempt a race without sanction for all European fliers entering it would have their licenses taken away from them. Recently one European flier had his license taken away for ten years for disobeying the rules.

"'We did not hestitate to grant this sanction on the ground that the race is impracticable. The race is not to be run until next year. Who can say that anything is impracticable in aviation when the strides being made each day are so great?

"We expect of course to work out unofficially a set of rules for such a race, and to forward the rules as suggestions so as to help the California people all we can."

This is President Hawley's letter:

Feb. 11, 1914.

Mr. Guy T. Slaughter, President Pacific Aero Club, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir: We beg to acknowledge your letter of Feb. 4 regarding the matter of the proposed round-the-world flight for prizes, to be offered by the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, and have taken it under advisement.

We inclose herewith as a preliminary the rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, which should be closely followed in the organization of the race.

We are considering the matter as a whole and will shortly send you our suggestions as to details in arrangements, as requested in your letter.

We beg to reiterate our expressions of hearty co-operation in making the contest a success, Yours very truly,
A. R. HAWLEY, President.

This letter from President Charles C. Moore of the Panama-Pacific Exposition asking for a sanction for the race by the Pacific Aero Club was given out by President Hawley of the Aero Club:

Office of the President.
The Panama-Pacific Exposition,
San Francisco, Jan. 30, 1914.

G. T. Slaughter, Esq., President Pacific Aero Club, 804 Mills Building, San Francisco, Cal.:

Dear Sir: The Panama-Pacific International Exposition has decided to organize a race between motor-driven aircraft, piloted by certified aeronatus of any race, to start on the Panama-Pacific International Exposition grounds at San Francisco, and to extend around the world in an easterly direction until the contestants again reach the Panama-Pacific International Exposition grounds at San Francisco. The race around the world is to begin during May, 1915, exact day of the month not yet fixed, and the contestants will be allowed ninety days from the day of starting in which to finish. A definite route which is to be fixed must be followed. Machines may be repaired ad libitum, but the pilot of record must finish the flight in the same machine with which he starts. Stops must be made at such points as will be designated by the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, the points for such stops to be determined later.

The definite rules for the conduct of the race are to be adopted after deliberation and consultation on the part of constituted authorities.

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition offers $150,000 to be distributed to the winners of the contest; $100,000 is to be paid to the contestant finishing first, $30,000 to the contestant finishing second, $20,000 to the contestant finishing third.

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition likewise will systematically organize the course of the race with Governmental co-operation, and will use every effort to swell the prize fund to a total of not less than $300,000. The auxiliary prize moneys are to be obtained from cities and individuals. To the extent of bringing the prize fund to a total of $250,000 the auxiliary prizes are already practically assured.

We desire to hold the race and any other contests that may be held, under the rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. We therefore file herewith our application for a sanction of the race around the world, addressing this application to your organization as the affiliated club of the Aero Club of America, which is a constituent of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. Yours very truly,
CHARLES C. MOORE, President.

A resolution passed by the Pacific Aero Club indorsing the letter from President Moore of the Panama-Pacific Exposition accompanied the documents which were passed upon by the officials of the Aero Club of America. It is expected that the rules for the race will be ready to submit to the Aero Club by March 11, so that the matter of granting the sanction can be taken up again at that time.

SEND WANAMAKER OFFER.

Royal Aero Club Notified—Wright Distrusts Engines.

Official notification that Rodman Wanamaker was planning to enter the contest for the Lord Northcliffe prize of $50,000 for the first aeroplane to cross the Atlantic Ocean was sent by cable to the Royal Aero Club of the United Kingdom yesterday.

The notification was not accompanied by a check for $500 as required by the rules, for the reason that the rules also require that the pilots for the aeroplane be named with the application. The message said:

Royal Aero Club of the United Kingdom:

Rodman Wanamaker building transatlantic aeroplane. Will make flight during Summer, and wants to make entry for Daily Mail Prize. Pilot not yet selected. Can you accept entry now, name of pilot to be given later? If you can will immediately make formal entry and cable £100.
AERO CLUB.

Glenn H. Curtiss said yesterday that the 200-horse power motor upon which the Rodman Wanamaker expedition will depend for success in reaching Europe was now practically completed in the Hammondsport factory.

"We expect to begin testing the engine in a very few days now," said Mr. Curtiss, "and to keep up the tests until we are sure that the engine will run for a full thirty hours without stopping."

Mr. Curtiss was greatly interested in a dispatch received from Cincinnati, Ohio, giving Orville Wright's views of the practicability of a transatlantic trip. In this dispatch Orville Wright was quoted as saying:

"It would be foolhardy for an aviator to try this trip with the engine now used in aeroplanes.

"I will not attempt a transatlantic trip until greater perfection and more stability are secured for the flying machine.

"The machines as they are now constituted have not the staying powers required for a voyage of this length and, under no circumstances, will the engines hold out under the continuous strain of such a journey.

"The engines are not heavy enough to withstand the constant shock and vibration without a rest. I do not doubt that the trip could be made with ease if one or two resting places were provided on the way. But, of course, this is not the plan, and I cannot believe that an aviator who knows the game well would risk his life in an undertaking of this kind. Efforts have been made to cover the same distance on land and have failed, and, while necessity may force many things, it will not bolster up a weak engine when once the let-down comes."

After studying the dispatch with some care, Mr. Curtiss wrote out this comment upon it:

"I do not agree with Mr. Wright regarding the inability of present motors to withstand the strain of transatlantic flight. On the contrary, we know absolutely that present motors could be relied upon. We are devoting months to the development of a special motor, because we want more power to carry more weight than can be carried with the present motors."

Mr. Curtiss said that while abroad he had talked to four different aviators who had expressed their intention to come to this country to attempt a flight across the Atlantic to Europe.

"But I do not think any of them will actually go to the heavy expense of making the attempt," Mr. Curtiss added, "for European motors are great consumers of oil and gasoline. A standard European motor, for instance, would use up 1,200 pounds of castor oil in a flight across the Atlantic. If we succeed in getting our new motor up to the efficiency we hope to, it will consume only 180 pounds of oil for a distance equal to that across the ocean."

HEARST ENJOINS ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seeks to Prevent Action Against His San Francisco Examiner for Exceeding Rights.

OAKLAND PAPER PROTESTED

Charged That Heading of an Oakland Edition Was Misleading and Was Read "Oakland Examiner."

Counsel for William R. Hearst served yesterday on the Board of Directors of The Associated Press a court order restraining the association from suspending its service to The San Francisco Examiner or in any way disciplining or punishing Mr. Hearst for his refusal to comply with the respondents' direction to change the title of a certain edition of The San Francisco Examiner. The injunction was issued on the application of Mr. Hearst by Justice Leonard A. Giegerich of the New York Supreme Court. The writ is returnable on Feb. 13 for argument.

According to a statement made yesterday at the offices of The Associated Press in this city, Mr. Hearst some time ago began to issue an edition of The San Francisco Examiner designed for circulation in the adjacent city of Oakland, and the title of this edition was so arranged as to make it appear "Oakland Examiner," the words "Edition of San Francisco," which were interposed between "Oakland" and "Examiner" in the title line, being in small type.

Oakland is a municipal corporation, separated from San Francisco by a strip of bay. Although the two cities constitute a single metropolitan district, they are in different counties of California, and are independent political entities.

The Oakland Tribune, which is the only newspaper in Oakland which holds membership in The Associated Press, complained that Mr. Hearst's action was a violation of the by-laws of the association, under which the right of Mr. Hearst was limited to the publication of Associated Press news in The San Francisco Examiner. The title of the San Francisco Examiner's Oakland edition, it was contended, was misleading, because at a short distance it appeared to be "Oakland Examiner," and it was only when brought nearer to the eye that the smaller type became legible, containing the explanation that the paper was not the "Oakland Examiner," as it appeared to be, but the "Oakland edition of The San Francisco Examiner." Mr. Hearst was asked by the Board of Directors in December last to make answer to a charge of violating the by-laws of the association. The matter was continued until the meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday, and just prior to the meeting the injunction was issued.

It was explained at the offices of The Associated Press here yesterday that the article of the by-laws of that association under which Mr. Hearst was cited in this case said:

> Article VII., Section 5. A member shall publish the news of The Associated Press only in the newspaper, the language, and the place specified in his certificate of membership, and he shall not permit any other use to be made of the news furnished by the corporation to him or to the newspaper which he represents.

It was further pointed out that Article II., Section 5, of the by-laws of the association had a direct and important bearing on the case. This section reads:

> Whenever the name of any newspaper mentioned in any membership certificate shall be changed in any respect, the member holding such certificate shall thereupon give written notice of the change to the Secretary, and shall return his certificate of membership to be canceled, whereupon a new certificate in like terms shall be issued, designating the newspaper by its new name.

The purpose of the foregoing by-law, it was explained, was to prevent fictitious titles or uses of the membership privilege not contemplated when the member was admitted. Complaint was recently made against The San Francisco Chronicle on similar grounds, but when the attention of the publisher of The Chronicle was called to the matter, the misleading title was promptly abandoned.

CONFESSES GUILT ON STAND

Co-respondent's Shifting Eyes Court Rules, It Can't Control.

The trial of a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Marguerite Ebling Anderson, granddaughter and principal heir of William Ebling, the founder of the Ebling Brewing Company, against John A. Anderson of the electrical contracting firm of Potts & Anderson of 25 West Forty-second Street was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Whitaker and a jury. When they were married on Jan. 31, 1912, at St. Gabriel's Chapel in New Rochelle the bride was a pupil in a boarding school and Anderson had just passed his majority. After eight months of married life Mrs. Anderson filed suit for divorce, naming as co-respondent Lorraine Parker, a model and former chorus girl.

After the foundation of the case had been laid, Ira L. Bamberger, attorney for Mrs. Anderson, called Lorraine Parker to the stand. With little hesitation the co-respondent acknowledged all that the plaintiff charged. Her acquaintance with Anderson, she said, followed a flirtation in a restaurant when they occupied adjoining tables.

Under the attacks of the attorney for the defense Miss Parker acknowledged that her testimony was, as she called it, "peaching." Under cross-examination she did not meet the lawyer's gaze. Finally, provoked beyond endurance, he asked Justice Whitaker to order the witness to look him in the eye. After deliberation Justice Whitaker said:

"This court can control the voice and answers of the witness and her conduct in the courtroom, but it is not within our jurisdiction to control the eyes of a lady."

What the defense of the husband will be, beyond a general denial of the allegations, was not disclosed by his attorneys. In a suit for $50,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections, begun against her mother two months ago, he accused the mother of endeavoring to gain a divorce for her daughter in order that she might marry a French Count. This suit is pending.

F. J. SHEPARD IN COLLISION.

He Has Curve at Which He Struck Trolley Made Safer.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, Feb. 11.—It became known to-day that Finley J. Shepard had a narrow escape recently, when his automobile hit a trolley car on Glenville curve. The wooded land on his wife's estate prevented his seeing the car until he was almost on it. He jammed on the brake and so did the motorman. The fender on his car prevented a smash, and neither he nor his chauffeur was hurt. Mr. Shepard was at the wheel.

Mr. Shepard gave orders to have the trees cut down so that the danger at the curve might be eliminated. A year ago a man was killed at this curve, and Mr. Shepard intends to make it safer in the future.

ASK BIG DAMAGES FOR LOSING SHOP

Appellate Division Will Decide Who Shall Occupy 5th Avenue Corner at 34th Street.

EJECTMENT LAST SUMMER

Since Assigning Lease, Fox, Stiefel & Co. Have Been Trying to Get Back in Possession.

A legal battle over the possession of the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street reached an acute stage yesterday when Fox, Stiefel & Co. filed a suit for about $120,000 damages against the Fifth Avenue Shop, Inc., a millinery concern, operated by Miss Therese Serposs.

Fox, Stiefel & Co., up to Aug. 16 last, occupied the premises as a motor supply place, having on their books the Astors, Vanderbilts, and other leading families of New York as customers. On that date, which was a Saturday, when the courts closed at noon, a City Marshal appeared with a gang of men and threw the Fox, Stiefel & Co. stock, estimated to be worth $53,000, on the sidewalk.

The City Marshal acted on a summary dispossess issued by Municipal Court Justice John Hoyer, then sitting in the Ninth District. This dispossess was overruled by the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court late in December, and the Fifth Avenue Shop got an injunction pendente lite from Supreme Court Justice Seabury, by which it has remained in possession since. An appeal from this order, which has prevented Fox, Stiefel & Co. from retaking possession of the premises, was filed with the Appellate Division yesterday.

Adam K. Stricker of 30 Broad Street has represented Fox, Stiefel & Co. throughout the proceedings, while Jacoby, Scharps & Raffel of 74 Broadway have appeared for the Fifth Avenue Shop.

The tangle between the two parties arose over the fact that Fox, Stiefel & Co. assigned their lease at $25,000 a year to the Fifth Avenue Shop, and revoked the assignment later on learning, they say, that they had no right to make the assignment without getting the consent of the real landlord, the Riker-Hegeman Company.

The complaint of Fox, Stiefel & Co. served yesterday contained allegations, not only of the valuable character of the company's business and stock, "at the most valuable place in the City of New York" for transacting a business of dealing in "motoring apparel of all kinds," but also alleged that the summary dispossess proceedings had been begun by deceiving the municipal court into believing that the Fifth Avenue Shop, Inc., was the landlord of the premises in question, and the corporation of Fox, Stiefel & Co. was a hold-over tenant.

According to the complaint, the stock was thrown out upon Fifth Avenue, forcing Fox, Stiefel & Co. to put it into storage. Marshal Cohen threatened also to rip out the fixtures of the store, so that Fox, Stiefel & Co., to protect them from injury, had to hire men to remove them with due care.

As a result of the dispossess, Fox, Stiefel & Co. also alleged that they had to sell their stock at a loss of $82,000 to R. H. Macy & Co. They also claim $10,000 loss for the interruption of their business. Total losses of $117,915 are alleged in the complaint. The Fifth Avenue Shop relies on the judgment of Supreme Court Justice Seabury to sustain its position. It asserts that the assignment of the lease gave it a landlord's rights, despite the ruling of the Appellate Term.

Practically all of the questions at issue between the parties will be decided in the injunction proceedings now pending, but the Fox, Stiefel & Co. interests said yesterday that they were anxious to recover possession of the premises immediately under the Appellate Term order. It was said that a decision from the Appellate Division could not be expected within a month.

Coffee vs. Postum

Any analytical chemist can prove by analysis, that coffee contains two harmful drugs—

Caffeine—an alkaloid that irritates the heart, liver and kidneys, and upsets the nerves.

Tannin—a drug which produces an astringent action upon the tissues of the stomach and bowels.

But the greatest test of all is made in thousands of homes where it is daily proven by personal experience that headaches, biliousness, indigestion, heart irritation and nervousness are very often caused by coffee drinking.

An ordinary cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine, and 2 2-5 grains of tannin.

Some coffee concerns have tried in various ways—without much success—to rid coffee of its caffeine, because they know its harmful effects. Now they are agitated because people are objecting to the presence of tannin in coffee—the same element (but obtained from bark) that is used to tan leather.

The simple, easy way out of coffee troubles is to quit this harmful beverage and use the pure food-drink

POSTUM

It is absolutely free from these drugs or any harmful substance. Made only from prime wheat (roasted) and a small percent of molasses, Postum contains the rich, nutritious values of the grain—is a genuine food-drink.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder. A teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water, with cream and sugar, makes a delightful beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Mr. Dooley
COLONEL GOETHALS
THE NEW YORK POLICE

Mr. Dooley says that when he helped to dig a canal in "Illinye" the only reward he got "f'r me injyneerin' feats was a we-won't-want-ye-tomorrah fr'm th' boss; but look, will ye, what they've done f'r that fellow that chopped the continents in two. He's a hero, I grant ye, because I can't pronounce his name."

This story complete as it will appear in THE NEW YORK TIMES next Sunday is "Mr. Dooley" at his best. He discusses with "Hinnissy" the appointment of Colonel "Gitells or Gertulls," as he calls him, to "th' loftiest in all human rewards, the chief of New York's polis foorce, or such part iv it as is still at large."

Mr. Dooley says that the Colonel must "get rid iv th' idee that he can come up here an' run th' enlightened people iv this impeeryal city th' way he wud a lot iv Jamaica naygurs wurrkin' on a steam hoist." He says that a certain amount "iv hoop-la is nicissary f'r a methropolis." The story sparkles with "Mr. Dooley's" wit and brims over with his entertaining philosophy. Nothing better from the pen of Mr. Finley Peter Dunne has appeared in a long time.

THE IRISH CRISIS.

The most significant feature of the situation in Ireland, and in the United Kingdom with reference to Ireland, is that the Government is treating it with great seriousness. The language of the King's speech is, of course, that of his Ministers, but the intense feeling with which it was uttered, the plain desire on the part of the King that it should be impressive, was evidently due to his own realization of the grave issues involved. In the debate that followed, members of the House, on the one side and on the other, did not hesitate to use the words "civil war," some as a threat, others as an accusation. And the words of the speech, while avoiding this explicit phrase, very plainly implied it.

The ultimate question is the coercion of the larger part of Ulster. This is brought on by the conduct and the utterances of the men of Ulster and the English Unionists. They have declared that they will resist the sway of a Dublin Parliament by force, They have made much preparation to do so. If the home rule measure is to be passed, the Government will either have to persuade the Ulster men, by concessions, to yield at any rate for a time, or they will be compelled to overcome forcible resistance by the use of the army. Mr. Asquith and his associates are evidently striving earnestly to devise concessions that Ulster will accept. So far the effort has failed. The Government is not prepared to grant exclusion; Ulster has shown no sign of accepting anything short of exclusion. Meanwhile the Unionists present as a practical alternative a dissolution of Parliament and a general election.

The alternative is on the surface logical enough, and would be adequate were it possible to hold a general election on the single well-defined issue of the inclusion or exclusion of Ulster, but that is not practicable. Other issues would be brought into the canvass, the radical social measures of the present Government, the heavy increase in taxation, the aims of the Labor Party, the land scheme of Mr. Lloyd George, the increase of the navy, and, before the canvass was over, the question of protection. With such confused and contentious matters before the electorate, the bearing on the Irish question of either party would be far from conclusive. Neither party could be said to have a clear mandate on that question, which would be left very much in the condition it is now in. Nor must it be forgotten, whatever their professions, that the leaders of each party are powerfully influenced by the desire for office. That does not mean simply office for themselves, as to which the chiefs are fairly disinterested, but office, emolument, honors for their lieutenants and followers. In an election all the devices, even the tricks, of practical politicians would come into use to evade or sophisticate the main issue. Mr. Asquith is quite within bounds in saying that an election would not be decisive.

Judging by some chapters in English history, we are justified in predicting that the present crisis, serious and anxious as it undoubtedly is, will be settled by some form of compromise. It is not easy to see along what lines compromise can be reached, but it is inconceivable that civil conflict will be allowed to occur. It is obviously on the horizon, and, logically, it seems to draw nearer. Yet we cannot but believe that before it actually takes place, before blood is shed, a path to peace will be opened.

THE PIED PIPER'S COUNT.

There were 3,569,347 children between 14 and 16 in this country in 1910; 14,984,252 over 6 and under 14 years, and 12,666,762 under 6, and of these 2,217,342 were less than a year old. These are the children with whose lives and health the staff of the Children's Bureau, under Chief Julia C. Lathrop, has to deal. Its purpose, according to Miss Lathrop's report just published, is to "serve all children"—not as the Pied Piper of Hamelin served them, by leading them into the earth as a measure of retribution to their parents, but by bringing them up in the world of useful citizenship.

The Pied Piper counted last year 300,000 infants for a cold earth burial, Miss Lathrop says, of whom "at "least half would now be living had "we, as individuals and communities, "applied those measures of hygiene "and sanitation which are known "and available." It is the limping and handicapped children to whom the bureau will give its first studies, as a means of preparing for its best services to all children, and its staff has begun with the problem of the preventable deaths of infants. Miss Lathrop's report quotes the words of Sir Arthur Newsholme:

> Infant mortality is the most sensitive index we possess of social welfare. If babies were well born and well cared for, their mortality would be neglible. The infant death rate measures the intelligence, health, and right living of fathers and mothers, the standards of morals and sanitation of communities and governments, the efficiency of physicians, nurses, health officers, and educators.

The studies of the bureau will deal with a series of typical communities of small size, beginning with the city of Johnstown, Penn. Instead of studying infant mortality from the death records, the inquiry starts with the births and follows each child through the first year of his life and thereafter. The report of the first field inquiry will give a picture of the social, civic, and industrial conditions of 1,551 families of Johnstown, with the careful history of the nurture of every infant. The questions asked in Johnstown have been intimate and difficult, but with the aid of the health authorities, the press, and the women's clubs, the visitors in the homes of this community were abundantly and willingly informed.

The small cities and rural communities have especial need of this work of inquiry. The great philanthropic societies and health boards of the larger cities have already considerably reduced the infant death rate in them. It is in the rural districts especially that young children die, and the mothers will not be comforted. It is the task of the Children's Bureau to point out the preventable conditions under which these youngest lives of the small communities are lost.

THE CHURCH PEACE UNION.

The ingenious and eager mind of Mr. Carnegie has invented another mode of using a considerable sum from his large fortune to promote the welfare of the race. In his earnest war on war he has called in the clergy and has provided a fund of $2,000,000, the interest of which is to be expended by trustees to forward the cause of peace. The Church Peace Union, which is the title of his new organization, is mainly in the hands of clergymen, with the aid and counsel of some able laymen. The clergy are selected from among all the churches, and it may well be suggested that their co-operation in a cause so noble and so permanent will tend to produce a closer union among the churches themselves.

Mr. Carnegie's optimism is invincible. In this plan he feels sure of a triumph that will render its immediate purpose obsolete, and he cheerfully provides for that contingency. When the leading nations have done away with war, when differences between nations are settled by adjudication, as are differences between the citizens of each civilized nation, then the trustees of the fund are authorized to use its revenue in such manner as to them may seem most promising of advantage for the good of their fellow-men. It is quite characteristic of Mr. Carnegie that he should look so far into the future, and also that he should leave to the trustees of the munificent fund he has provided entire discretion as to the final use they, or their successors, shall make of it.

UNFIT TO BE VOTED ON.

A few years ago we had an election to decide whether 50 cents worth of silver should pay 100 cents worth of debt. It was a hard campaign, but the honesty of the common people led them to a sensible decision. That campaign did not spring from the people, and it resulted in the repudiation of the leadership which misled them. It may be hoped that such will be the result of the similar campaign now being organized in this city. The Society to Lower Rents and Reduce Taxes on Homes, alias the Single Taxers, is proposing that the people shall be asked to vote upon the society's measure for picking the pockets of landlords for the benefit of tenants. Nobody loves a landlord, or at least not so many love landlords that there would be much doubt upon a referendum whether rents should be lowered either in a general or a particular manner. Tenants would be unanimous for lower rents, or for making any experiment with lower rents as an objective.

The movement to seduce the electorate by promise of something to special advantage from a law misrepresented as general in its nature is both active and insidious. The single taxers were active in support of the Mayor, and it would be nothing more than natural if the Mayor should be disposed to return the compliment. In fact certain public expressions by others of the city administration warrant the fear that if official indorsement of the single tax measure should be asked for it would be forthcoming. The campaign in favor of this covert form of bribery of voters is in excellent hands, judging by their activity and success. Besides the Society for Lower Taxes there is the New York Single Tax League, the Fels Fund Commission, and several single tax organizations. It is a State-wide movement, and it has pledged many lawmakers to the support of the New York City bill, which is the entering wedge.

That lends interest to the movement "up-State." How will the farmers like it when all taxes are put on their acres, and their buildings enjoy an exemption so pitiful in comparison with the reduced tax on the palaces of the city? In the city the question is different. Here the question is where the city can get its taxes at all, rather than how they can get them from a reduced basis of taxation. If the proposal were to ask the people to vote for the removal of all taxes it would be seen how absurd the idea is. When the proposal is to make the taxes lower only on certain forms of property the absurdity is less, but the injustice is glaring. No man who pays his taxes can endure that another man should be excused from payment on anything. Equality in taxes is something not to be sacrificed in favor of conjectural benefits. Everybody is for lower taxes on everything, but lower taxes are not to be reached by the road of exemption. The road to lower taxes is either along the path of lower expenses, or for larger results from the same expenditures.

Already the mere promise of benefits has operated like a threat. The argument for building homes is the hope of an appreciation in land values. The proposal to take the land values in taxes has already stopped construction in the outer districts, and has laid a palsying hand upon the movement to the suburbs. Who will build when this doctrine is abroad in the land and apparently gaining headway?

> From this truth there can be no escape, that there is and can be no just title to an exclusive possession of the soil, and that private property in land is a bold, bare, enormous wrong, like that of chattel slavery.

That being the platform it is for the Society for the Reduction of Taxes on Homes to explain who will buy land and build for the sake of the reduced taxes on buildings. The loss on the land is an immediate capital loss. The reduction on the taxes is a small amount. If the grafters and wasters were driven from their jobs reduction of taxes would be the result, and it would be a benefit without an offset.

AMERICA'S SPA.

Cable dispatches to The Times reported yesterday the proposal made by Dr. Heinrich Kisch of Marienbad that the spas of Europe be neutralized by the Powers in case of international war. They are the places of healing for the nations. They should be kept sacredly inviolate, as the hospitals of the Red Cross are held sacred.

The European Governments need be anxious for their spas only in time of war, for they are well equipped for use in peace. This State has not yet made the medicinal springs at Saratoga, accounted by Dr. Paul Haertl of the Royal Bavarian Government the best in the world, available to the people of the nation in time of peace.

The State is pledged to the principle of conserving the springs; it has spent nearly $1,000,000 to acquire the properties. They are of priceless value. They will net the State a handsome money profit, but first of all the reservation at Saratoga must be equipped. An added appropriation of $335,000 to be secured by a sale of bonds, and $100,000 more to cover the cost of maintenance and improvement of the properties, have been asked to put the entire plant on a paying basis. If Europe would guard its spas in time of war, shall not this State develop in peace its unique resource of healing?

A PHASE OF THE TRUST QUESTION.

The figures prepared by Judge Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, and submitted by Mr. Lindabury on Tuesday at the hearing in the Government suit to dissolve the corporation, are of public interest. It is known that the shares of the Steel Corporation are very widely distributed. The figures show that in the first quarter of the year 1913 there were 39,679 holders of the common stock and 74,626 of the preferred. This makes a total of nearly 115,000 owners of Steel shares, not allowing for those who are owners of both classes of stock. There are more than 50,000 shareholders who have ten shares or less each, and only a little more than 1,500 holding over 1,000 shares each. Some 50,000 shares are held by bankers and brokers for individual owners, mostly foreign.

Even more interesting are the figures showing how the earnings of the corporation have been distributed. From the date when the corporation began its operations in 1901 to Dec. 31, 1912, it had paid out $1,659,944,622 in wages. It had also paid $66,579,789 in taxes. The return to capital is represented by $357,109,448 in interest on bonds of the corporation and its subsidiaries, and $459,196,490 in dividends on the common and preferred shares. It thus appears that in these eleven years the corporation paid very nearly twice as much to wage earners as to owners; capital's share of the returns was one-half of labor's wages. This illustrates the principle, very often ignored, that capital does not work altogether for its own advantage. The operation of any great industrial concern puts more money into the pockets of the community than into the pockets of those who furnish the capital. In other words, the man who builds up a fortune for himself supplies to many others incomes much greater in the aggregate than that he receives. Our Socialist friends usually find it convenient to ignore this somewhat substantial fact.

The advantages enjoyed by the beneficiaries of a "trust" stand, perhaps, in some measurable relation to the good or harm done to the public. If the question be one of plain violation of law, economic considerations, of course, cannot be taken into account. Under the earlier decisions not the slightest attention was paid to them. They receive attention now only incidentally as they enable the court to infer intent. But if the acts of a "trust" are oppressive, if they are unlawful, no degree of benefit done to the public could or should shield it from the penalties. One of the most convincing arguments in favor of the proposed trade commission is that such a commission could take account of economic conditions, could reach the conclusion whether a combination actual or proposed could show or would probably show that the public benefits were very great, injury only incidental and negligible. If the matter then came before the court, the commission's report would be of distinct value in applying the rule of reason; since the operations of a combination that resulted only in benefit to the public could not reasonably be considered as obnoxious to the law. The plain purpose of the law is to punish injury, not benefit. Any other construction of its provisions is manifestly unreasonable. A trade commission, made up of men of business experience and sound judgment, capable of passing upon the policies and the acts of a combination accused of being in restraint of trade, would be able to render service of undoubted value to the country.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Carefully Evaded the Demand. There isn't an objectionable word in the bill board ordinance introduced by Alderman Curran. Of course it is highly desirable that every one of these appeals to the public eye should be so erected and maintained that it cannot fall down, and equally desirable is it, too, that none of them should prevent firemen from entering buildings or from conducting their beneficent activities from roofs. These provisions, however, seem to be in the nature of what are called "counsels of perfection."

Strict enforcement in accord with the letter of the law as worded would seemingly do what the various bodies which united in drafting it explicitly say they did not intend to do—prevent the erection of any signs at all of this kind. For it would hardly be possible to put one of them on a roof without in some degree or way decreasing the roof's utility as a point from which to fight fire, and the boyish apothegm, "What goes up must come down," applies to every bill board; no matter how strong in the beginning, time will bring it down at last.

This is hypercriticism, perhaps, but that fault cannot be found with the statement that however carefully the ordinance may be read, one does not discover in it anything to limit the size or decrease the number of these obnoxious products of misdirected enterprise and injudicious expenditure. Both of these effects could be produced, and, indeed, have been, elsewhere, by the imposition of a tax proportioned on a rising scale to area of surface exposed. This is what is demanded by that part of the public, already large and steadily growing, which resents the constant intrusion into sight and mind of vehement appeals to buy this man's wares, to take that man's medicine, and to see a third man's show.

The various committees that drew the ordinance proudly assert that they had in view only safety and sanitation. Those are fine things, no doubt, but why did the committee utterly ignore the fact that not a few of us would rather see architecture in the city and scenery in the country than to have both replaced, as both soon will wholly be, apparently, unless something is done to stop it, by huge boardings that affront the night with vision-tiring illuminations and the day with the ugliest combinations of glaring colors that ruthless ingenuity can devise.

Adding to Public Convenience. Though the conduct of our postal affairs still illustrates in many details the common departmental habit of subordinating public interest and convenience to those of the public's servants, the guardians and carriers of our mails have shown a change of heart in several instances of late and have justified the hope that in time the true purpose of a Post Office will be fully realized. That purpose is, of course, not to make trouble and expense for us, but to save us as much of both as possible.

The most recent evidence of a weakening of "institutionalism" in the Post Office Department—of a new discrimination between means and ends—is to be found in the announcement that as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made postal money orders will become payable just about as a bank draft is. The utility of these substitutes for currency has hitherto been seriously diminished by the fact that they could be cashed only by the Postmaster in the town on which they were drawn. Hereafter, upon indorsement by the recipient, they will be payable at any Post Office and become, in effect and for many purposes, a real and very convenient addition to our circulating currency.

This is what postal orders long have been in most of the European countries, where their wide availability for mailing in any amount has widely extended what may be called the purchasing area of every buyer. The previous limitations were based on an exaggerated cautiousness to protect from loss all concerned in the transaction of sending money by mail, but a protection that extends to the remotest possibilities is always burdensome and costs more than it is worth. It is now promised that we shall soon have a system combining the best points in all the foreign plans. That is a little alarming, for it hints at complexity, and the need is for simplicity.

With simplicity attained, more than the conveniences of a checking account in a New York bank will be within the reach of all, and after that perhaps nothing in this particular direction can reasonably be demanded, unless it be a reduction of the present fees for money orders. These are decidedly high, considering the nature and cheapness for the Government of the service rendered, and while it is quite right that this branch of Post Office work should be self-supporting, there is something wrong in making up from its profits the deficits incurred in other ways.

Our Shaking Was Due to Shrinking. To understand the shock which this part of the country received on Tuesday one must realize that "Logan's fault"—the line of weakness in the underlying rocks that extends from Canada well down toward the Gulf of Mexico—plays much the same rôle as do the carefully provided solutions of continuity which every observing person who crosses the Brooklyn Bridge has noticed. These points of overlapping permit the structure to expand on hot days and to contract on cold ones without breaking any of its parts.

Nature, being a clumsy engineer, has made for this section of the cooling earth a much less nearly perfect provision for contraction in the crack which Sir William E. Logan of the Canadian Geological Survey was the first to discover and describe. The earth joint works just as does that in the bridge, but it works stiffly and only at long intervals, when the strain has become enormous enough to break down what a surgeon might call "adhesions." The result is that the readjustment of the earth surface to a smaller circumference, instead of being continuous, is by widely spaced jumps or jerks. Upon their extent depends the severity of the consequent "quake." That of this week was remarkable for the Eastern seaboard, but it would have passed for trivial on the other side of the continent.

The Charleston earthquake and those which have several times wrecked Kingston, Jamaica, were of a wholly different sort—the moving down a mountain slope of an alluvial plain.

BAITING THE CORPORATIONS.

Hostile Regulation Has Reduced Profits of Public Utilities.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let me call your attention to the last annual report of the Public Service Commission, Second District, which has just been issued. Figures quoted therein are decidedly significant when read in connection with The Times's editorial remark that "public utilities * * * are treated as though they were public enemies, and as though their bankruptcy were desirable."

During 1912, according to the commission's annual report, there were 364 electric railroads and light, heat, and power and gas corporations under the New York State Public Service Commission, Second District, and of that number 237 corporations paid no dividends to their stockholders, leaving only 127 corporations that did pay dividends. Two hundred and forty-three corporations paid no dividends on common stock amounting to $69,817,195 and preferred stock amounting to $15,715,250, or a total investment of $85,532,445 on which the investors received no return. Only 119 of the corporations referred to paid dividends on their common stock and twenty-one paid dividends on their preferred issues. Taking the year 1908 for a basis, in this report, which embraces the calendar year 1911, the gross revenues of forty-two electrical corporations have increased 52.3 per cent., operating expenses 51.7 per cent., taxes 50.5 per cent., and operating income 53.3 per cent.

Surely these figures furnish no argument for any very great development of like business undertakings, in the near future at least. The Public Service Commission report states that fourteen new corporations were given permission during 1912 to furnish gas or electric service in New York State. The report in this connection says:

> No general inspection has been made throughout the State as to the need for future development. A knowledge of general conditions, however, seems to indicate that in the future there will be a comparatively small number of permissions given for independent corporations.

Is not the report I have quoted from the best evidence that there should be no legislative interference with our business interests? INFORMED.

BICHLORIDE POISONING.

Antidotes Which May Help to Eliminate It from the System.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In connection with the numerous cases of bichloride of mercury poisoning I have noticed very few suggestions of antidotes. The chemistry of mercury seems to have been overlooked. Lime water, milk and eggs, and the knife have been offered with a minimum of favorable results. Mercuric chloride makes an insoluble precipitate with albumen, but no one knows whether it is digestible, and whether the mercuric chloride is rendered active again in the stomach. I would suggest the administration of one of the following as antidotes, as soon as possible after a case of poisoning by bichloride:

Any soluble sulphide, such as sulphide of soda, potassa, or calcium, which will precipitate insoluble sulphide of mercury.

A very dilute solution of ammonia, which will give white precipitate.

A solution of iodide of potassium, which will form iodide of mercury, soluble in excess of iodide of potassium, but not a corrosive poison. The iodide of potassium will absorb and follow the mercuric chloride and change it to mercury iodide, which should be eliminated by its solubility in the excess of potassium iodide for final elimination from the system.

Also sulphurous acid in the form of sodium sulphite, or even hyposulphite, which will reduce the bichloride to calomel, the insoluble mercurous chloride.

Inconsiderate Savings Banks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of H. P. Robbins regarding the discourtesy of the average savings bank to its patrons is so well timed and so true that I cannot refrain from adding my protest to his. The large institution where I have deposited for the last twenty years, which takes deposits from a dime upward, has often caused me almost uncontrollable indignation in the insolence of its employes, in its almost total lack of service, and the mean advantage taken of those who help to maintain it.

What right, for instance, has so rich an institution to have an old man still in service at the depositors' window, his hands palsied with age, and at least thirty busy women waiting in line at least four times as long as the right service would keep them? Surely in the twenty years I have seen this employe he deserves his pension. R. Y. G.

New York, Feb. 9, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Morse's "Test for Fast Speakers" is good, but in its entirety it is better. "She stood on the steps of Burgess's fish sauce shop in the Strand welcoming him in" is almost as good as "Theophilus Thwaites was a thistle sifter. He sifted a peck of unsifted thistles and unsifted a peck of sifted thistles, did Theophilus Thwaites, the thistle sifter."

PERIODICAL READERS

Better Served in Boston's Public Library Than in New York's.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I speak about the reading of periodicals in the public libraries of New York and Boston? The Boston Public Library has a system of recording the number of readers in its general periodical room every two hours. There is no accurate register of readers, for the open-stack system is used, but the two-hour record presents a fair average. That record gives a total of 122,755 readers for the last year. In the periodical reading room of the New York Public Library there were 99,548 readers for 1912. Fortunately, according to the librarian in charge, that number has increased to 125,763, placing us proudly in the lead of Boston by some 3,000 readers. But our pride must be somewhat tempered by the fact that only 1,150 periodicals are filed in the general room of the Boston library. New York's library has a magnificent collection of 4,800.

Is it a case of the operation of Weber's law—beyond a certain number extra periodicals attract no more readers? Not a bit of it. The reason lies here. The Boston library's periodicals are on open tables, to be used by any one without the formality of call slip or registering. The New York library's periodicals, over 4,000 of them, are hidden from the public, filed on closed stacks behind a cage, obtained only by written slip and only ninety-four are filed on an open stack. The Boston librarian writes apologetically: "We duplicate 71 different periodicals only, the duplicate copies numbering 199 in all." At the New York library there are no duplicate periodicals, even of the most popular weeklies and monthlies, which are perpetually in demand. There are two conclusions: (1) that we have at hand one of the most complete collections of current periodicals in the country; (2) that we keep the public from using it.

The periodical room is where the library catches the readers for whom libraries are built—not the academic and the erudite, who know how to use a card catalogue, but the shifting, desultory folk who most need the book habit. One of these strays into a room where there are magazines. He doesn't know what he wants. He just looks in. He finds a magazine to read. He comes again. Finally he gets to the point of investigating the library. He calls for books, and there you are! The reading habit is fairly formed and the shifting one's education is in via. But suppose that same individual, skirting the card catalogue, which is as Ethiopian to him, wanders unmolested to a magazine rack where there are empty spaces and a copy each of The Revue des Deux Mondes and The Bankers' Magazine. He wanders right out, and there is another reader lost.

The eight unused wall spaces in the two reading rooms of the New York Public Library could display at least a thousand periodicals to lure the timid reader; magazine racks could be erected on all the tables. It is not a question of space. Of course, the library would lose some periodicals, and valuable ones at that. But it might better lose magazines than readers. The Boston library in no way restricts the use of its periodicals, and yet it seems to weather the resultant loss comfortably enough. At least, it has never been put to it to require readers to consult even its most precious periodicals inside a cage, at a special desk, and under the supervision of an attendant—all this after giving name and address.

Not that the periodical room of the Boston Public Library is perfect. It has neither elegance nor good ventilation nor 4,800 periodicals. But it was intended essentially for the assistance of people who have not the habit of reading, and as such it fulfills its mission. The intention of those who direct the New York library cannot be radically different. Why not carry it out?

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS.

"Double-Session" Plan Would Not Be Good for Them.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

New York City already has one high school which is running on the double-session plan. It is rumored, on apparently good authority, that in a short time all high schools for girls in Manhattan will have to be on a double-session plan—that is, a school capable of harboring from 2,000 to 3,000 students will be obliged to harbor from 4,000 to 6,000 students. The idea of the double session is that two sets of pupils may occupy the building from 8:30 to 5 P. M., thus making possible two sessions which net about four hours each, as there must be, or should be, some time for them to get in and out. The proposition has been advocated on the score of economy, the argument advanced being that the city would be saved the expense of additional high schools, for which there is at present great need.

I have a daughter who is a student of Wadleigh, and am strenuously opposed to the "double-session" idea. First and foremost, it is impossible for the teachers to spend the same amount of time with pupils under this plan as is devoted to them at the present time. Teachers now arrive at school about 8:30 A. M. and usually remain until 4 o'clock or later—an interval of seven and a half hours. How can you achieve the same results in four hours of work that now occupies seven?

The students who would attend the afternoon session would waste the best hours of the day—the morning hours, when they are fully rested and their minds active and receptive. If their mornings are spent in work or play, full justice cannot be done by or to them in an afternoon session.

Slow and plodding students require the individual attention of the teacher. How can that be given in a two-session day?

A KITCHEN TRAGEDY.

The black coal scuttle hugged the stove
One freezing Winter's night.
(For cook had banked the kitchen fire,
And closed its dampers tight.)
"Dear suz!" it groaned, with famished air,
"My stomach's empty, quite!

"I've doled out fuel all day long,
With never a complaint;
You're nourished with my chestnut coal,
While I am lean and faint.
It must be grand to feel so full."
The stove vouchsafed: "It ain't!

"My indigestion's something fierce!
'Tis better far to be
A trifle empty, than to have
Your innards stuffed like me!"
The scuttle hugged its aching void.
"You make me tired!" snapped he.

"My draughts are clogged," the stove complained.
It wheezed, then snored full deep.
The scuttle, like the Spartan boy,
Endeavored not to weep;
Dreaming sweet dreams of luscious coal,
Toward morn, it fell asleep!

FAVOR HAGUE CONFERENCE.

Citizens' Committee Named to Aid Administration's Plans.

A meeting of a Citizens' National Committee to support the movement for a third Hague conference was held at the Hotel Astor yesterday, and ended in the appointment of a committee of seventeen men of national reputation to aid the Wilson administration in furthering the movement.

The passing of resolutions indorsing the steps thus far taken by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan followed the reading of a letter from Andrew D. White, which contained a warning to those peace workers who might grow over-confident in their feeling that the cause of international peace was secure.

"All the great powers of the world are now planning or building airships with reference to future wars," wrote Mr. White. "But proper limitations of aviation in war are at present in abeyance. No final decision has been reached upon any important point in that matter. The question is rapidly coming upon us whether the new science of aerial navigation shall be limited to the obtaining of military information or intended to attacks upon fortified or invested places, or whether it shall be given full power to spread devastation over peaceful States and blot out great unfortified centres of peaceful trade and commerce.

"We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that in spite of a great tendency of opinion toward peace in the world, war is becoming more hellish in its inventions than ever before. Portable magazines, containing high explosives, can be so dropped from flying machines as to wipe from the map some of the largest cities in the world. It seems perfectly within the possibilities and indeed within the probabilities that, if any power should in the future begin a war in a manner as doubtfully regular as that in which Japan began her recent war with Russia, the nation claiming to be aggrieved may easily insist on being absolved from those poor restraints at present relied upon, and go to any extreme in using aerial navigation as a means of projecting explosives into the defenseless cities of her enemy and blotting out some of the greatest achievements of civilization."

The committee of seventeen is made up as follows: Andrew D. White, Joseph H. Choate, Seth Low, Alfred Thayer Mahan, John W. Foster, Gen. Horace Porter, George Gray, Oscar S. Straus, Nicholas Murray Butler, Frederic R. Coudert, John Franklin Cromwell, John Bates Clark, George C. Holt, Alton B. Parker, Francis Lynde Stetson, Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut, and Charles H. Sherrill.

CITY BUILDING OFFICES.

More Space Given to Public Service Commission.

The Sinking Fund Commission decided yesterday that the Public Service Commission must take the quarters provided for it in the new Municipal Building. The commission had complained that the space allotted to it was not suitable, and asked that a building be erected for its use in Centre Street. The commission will occupy two floors in the Municipal Building. The Sinking Fund Commission has given it 7,000 more feet.

The Dock Department will stay at Pier A, and the space that was originally allotted to it will be divided up among other departments which need more space. The commission decided also that the executive offices of the Fire Department, now housed in East Sixty-seventh Street, should have space in the new building, but the Tax Department will keep its present quarters in the Hall of Records.

Fire Commissioner Adamson appeared before the commission, and said that he was in favor of the city selling the building now known as Fire Headquarters, together with the site, and placing the engine and truck company now housed in the building in a building further to the east. The Commissioner estimated the plot on which the headquarters now stands to be worth about $250,000, and he thought a saving would be effected if the site was sold.

ALUMNI DAY AT COLUMBIA.

Graduates Dating Back to to '80s Will Be Entertained There.

Graduates from classes all the way back to the early eighties will return to Columbia to-day to celebrate Alumni Day on the campus. A host of undergraduates will be on hand to assist in entertaining them.

Following fraternity luncheons and the annual Phi Beta Kappa honorary society luncheon in the Commons, the alumni will gather at a meeting of the new Alumni Federation. Willard V. King, '89, University Trustee, will speak on the meaning of the federation for the university. Albert W. Putnam, '97, '00 L, for the alumni and T. B. Stearns for the alumni clubs. Then the graduates will take part in the crowning feature of the afternoon, the "stunts." Each class for years back will stage an act of whatever nature it chooses and the most original offering will draw a prize offered by the "Early Eighties."

Prof. Walter Henry Hall will give a special organ recital in St. Paul's Chapel later in tht afternoon. Following this a reception will be held in Furnald Hall, the new dormitory. Throughout the day the alumni will have a chance to visit the class rooms, as the undergraduates will have no holiday, and the students will later go through their athletic training under the coaches in the various sports. The Pennsylvania-Columbia game in the evening will end the programme.

TO REPAIR CONSTELLATION.

Old Frigate to be Shown at Fort McHenry and Stationed on Potomac.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The House Naval Committee voted to-day to recommend that the historic frigate Constellation be repaired and restored at a cost of $50,000, so that the vessel may be taken to Baltimore for exhibition next September during the "Star Spangled Banner" centennial at Fort McHenry, and afterwards stationed permanently in the Potomac River, near the Washington Monument and the proposed Lincoln Memorial.

The frigate is now stationed at the naval training station at Newport, R. I., and is the oldest vessel in the American Navy. It ranks with the famous frigate Constitution, which was restored several years ago and placed at the Boston Navy Yard for exhibition.

Maryland members of Congress were desirous of having the Constellation stationed permanently at Baltimore. This has been vigorously opposed by citizens of Newport and Providence. The House Committee was unwilling to favor the project of anchoring the Constellation permanently at Baltimore, and preferred to follow the recommendation of Secretary Daniels of the Navy and of Rear Admiral Victor Blue for stationing the frigate at Washington, where it could be viewed by tourists.

NATION'S DEATH RATE LOW.

Averaged 13.8 Per 1,000 of Estimated Population in 1913.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A very satisfactory condition of the public health in 1913 is indicated by the general death rate of 13.8 per 1,000 of estimated population in the registration States and cities, statistics for which the Census Bureau announced to-day. The rate for the same territory in 1912 was 13.6 and in 1911 was 13.9 per 1,000.

Of the eighteen registration States, Maryland with 16.3 per 1,000 showed the highest rate; Minnesota with 10.7, the lowest. Other States' rates were: California, 13.4; Colorado, 11.9; Connecticut, 14.4; Indiana, 12.6; Kentucky, 13.4; Massachusetts, 14.7; Michigan, 13.1; Missouri, 12.4; Montana, 13.0; New Hampshire, 14.1; New Jersey, 14.7; New York, 15.2; Ohio, 13.1; Utah, 11.6; Vermont, 12.6; Wisconsin, 10.9.

Of the forty-five registration cities, Portland, Ore., with 11.0 per 1,000 showed the lowest rate; Memphis with 22.9, the highest. The New York rate was 16.2.

Who Tells of Pennsylvania's Success—Wainwright Favors a County Force.

Whether a State constabulary is necessary for the protection of life and property in Westchester County was the subject of a discussion in the assembly room of the Colony Club, Madison Avenue and Thirtieth Street, yesterday. The Assistant Superintendent of the club, supported by one of her assistants, was vigilant in barring reporters from the discussion.

Oswald G. Villard, who lives in Westchester County, acted as temporary chairman of the meeting. William C. Le Gendre was permanent chairman, and Elliott Bacon, Secretary of the meeting.

Supt. George F. Shrady of the Aqueduct police, and a former Coroner, was present in khaki uniform and brown puttees, to read a paper on the history of his force, which was created in 1905 by an act of the Legislature. He compared his men favorably to the Pennsylvania State police and the Northwestern mounted police. He said that with the completion of various pieces of work on the Catskill Aqueduct several of his precincts had been discontinued, and suggested that with the final completion of the Aqueduct work Westchester County should take over the remaining water supply police.

Major J. C. Groome of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary expressed himself in favor of a State police for New York. He said that it was important that the duties of the State constabulary be closely defined to prevent any conflict with the local authorities. He asserted that the principal efficiency of his force had been in the suppression of riots, and that since 1902 it had not been necessary for Pennsylvania to call out its State militia in industrial disturbances. In that year he said $995,000 was spent to pay for the use of the militia in such disturbances, enough to support his force of 220 men and eight officers for three years. The efficiency of any police he said was not determined by the number of arrests, but by the number of convictions following arrests. His force, he said had an average of ninety convictions to every 100 arrests. He said the principal opposition to suitable appropriations for the support of his force came from the lowest and most unscrupulous class of short-sighted labor leaders.

Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright favored a county constabulary instead of a State force. He said that outside of Westchester County there was no demand for such a force, and that it would be better to create a force to meet special conditions in Westchester County.

Others present were Police Commissioner Douglas I. McKay, Correction Commissioner Katherine B. Davis, Col. William Jay, Henry Maynard and Frederick H. Allen.

SEVEN MORE ON HERO ROLL.

Brave Policemen Will Have Their Names in Bronze.

On the bronze memorial tablets at the entrance to Police Headquarters will be placed the names of seven more policemen who lost their lives in the pursuit of their duty. The Board of Honor, which consisted of Vincent Astor, R. A. C. Smith, and Philip Rhinelander, was dissolved yesterday and a board to consist of First Deputy Police Commissioner McClintock, the Borough Inspector for Brooklyn, and the Chief Clerk of the Department was announced. The tablets now contain the names of thirty-two policemen. The addition of seven names will bring the total up to thirty-nine.

The names which will go upon the tablets are these: Michael Lynch, who in arresting John W. Collins, on July 1, 1911, was shot and killed in West Thirty-seventh Street; Thomas E. O'Connell, of the East Fifty-first Street Station, who contracted pneumonia as a result of jumping into the East River on Jan. 3, 1912, to rescue a would-be suicide; Charles Teare of the Mulberry Street Station, and W. B. Heeney, a probationary patrolman, of the same precenict, who were shot and killed on May 9, 1913, while arresting Oristo Schillitoni, who had killed an Italian; Bernard O'Rourke of the Bergen Street Station, who died as the result of injuries received in stopping a runaway team on Aug. 1, 1913; Probationary Patrolman Patrick Cotter, of the Fifth Street Station, who on Aug. 4, 1913, was shot and killed by Charles Martini, in the Bronx, and Sergeant Joseph McNierny, of the East Fifty-first Street Station, who was stabbed on Sept. 28 by Frank Gondoni, on an elevated train while protecting two young girls from insult.

"HORSES OF MARLEY" SOLD.

Two Bronze Groups by Coustou Bring $120 at Hatfield Sale.

Two bronze groups, "The Horses of Marley," by Guillaume Coustou, brought one of the higher prices of the last session of the Taylor-Hatfield sale at the Anderson Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to J. Hartog for $120. These were reduced copies of the colossal groups in the Place de la Concorde, Paris. A Venetian mirror, oval, with glass frame, the top crested with ornamental mirror leaves and moldings, 49 inches high by 46 wide, went to J. Regensburg for $107, and a mahogany cabinet went to Di Salvo for $80.

An interesting piece of the sale was an old pewter plate used in the communion service in the Baptist Church of Newton, N. H., during the eighteenth century. There was a crudely drawn design upon it—Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden and in Hebrew characters the word "Eden." It brought $18.

The returns for the afternoon were $3,186, and for the sale $6,441.

GREET THEIR GUESTS AT FLORAL GARDEN

WALLS HUNG WITH ROSES

200 Dance in Ritz Ballroom, Containing Two Pergolas Entwined with Thousands of Flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim of 998 Fifth Avenue gave a dance and supper last night at the Ritz-Carlton. There were 200 guests present.

The decorations of the ballroom, the grand staircase, and the banquet hall were elaborate. The staircase was massed with cedar trees, some of them towering as high as 30 feet, the guests passing through a veritable forest of these trees up to the entrance of the ballroom, where the scene was transformed into a garden of flowers.

The walls of the ballrooms were hung with immense plaques of orchids, pink roses and azaleas, and at each end were two large pergolas, entwined with thousands of pink roses. Four red camelia trees flanked the pergolas, each tree containing hundreds of these flowers. Two Empire baskets in plastic effect, rising about fifteen feet, decorated four panels of the ballroom, the baskets being filled with masses of tiger lilies.

The boxes, both in the ballroom and in the mezzanine galleries of the grand staircase, were banked with red azaleas, the latter in striking color contrast to the cedar trees.

Large bay trees flanked the entrance to the banquet hall, where the guests were seated at small tables, with large silver centrepieces. The centre of the hall was reserved for special dancing, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle giving an exhibition of the latest steps during supper.

The guests began arriving shortly after 11 o'clock, and supper was served at 12:30. Mr. and Mrs. Guggenheim received the guests at the head of the staircase.

'HELP WANTED' SEEN AT MAXINE ELLIOTT

It Shows "What Happened to Gertie" When She Got a Job as Private Secretary.

ALSO, MOTHER'S VIEWPOINT

Charles Richman, Lois Meredith, and Others in a Good Cast of Jack Lait's Play.

HELP WANTED, a play in three acts and four scenes, by Jack Lait. At Maxine Elliott's Theatre.

Crane, a bookkeeper	Charles A. Abbe
Jack Scott	Charles Ruggles
Gertrude Meyer	Lois Meredith
Jerrold R. Scott	Charles Richman
Sarah Smith	Rosamond O'Kane
Katherine Wiggins	Desmond Kelley
Dorothy Williams	Edna Mayo
George Stuart, attorney	John Miltern
Mrs. Smalley	Vivian Rushmore
Mrs. Meyer	Jessie Ralph
Rollins, a butler	M. S. Goldaine
Mrs. Jerrold R. Scott	Katherine Emmet
Josephine Scott	Lorraine Huling

Her Goitie done her a "rotten trick" when she screamed, according to the poverty-stricken German mother in Jack Lait's "Help Wanted." And when the fact is disclosed that Gertie screamed because her rakish old employer kissed her and took her in her arms it will be understood that even in the tenements expediency and point of view may count for something. Said the same old German lady, who was a laundress and had two children in the orphan asylum, "I bet if the young fellow had kissed you you wouldn't have screamed." Thereby showing that a mother is often wiser than she seems.

As a matter of fact that is exactly what did happen. For the young man's father, having an office where no business was transacted—such at any rate, being the impression created at the Maxine Elliott last night—had to do something. It cost him $5,000 in the case of one blonde typist, but apparently that was a little thing in his life. For when "Help Wanted" began he was looking for another private secretary. That's where Gertie came in. Then he insults her. His son loves her. And they—the parties of the last part—marry in the end.

The way to all this is along the multicolored path of comedy drama, with emphasis on the ways of wicked business men who pay absurdedly large wages to incompetent young lady stenographers and "take them out to luncheon"; through the familiar prelude to seduction; and ultimating in the "strong scene" in which Virtue rising to defend itself, but happily with phrases not hatpins, finds its own reward in the honest devotion of the son and heir.

What boots it that father smashes a glass on the office door thereby removing the words "and Son" from the firm's business title; what matters it that mother for a time shrinks from a mésalliance with one of such a lowly station? These things must be if the ultimate joy is to come from the patching up.

There were times last night, notably in Mr. Lait's last act, when the audience seemed somewhat in doubt as to whether sympathy or laughter was being wooed, which, from one point of view, is not the worst way to write a play, since the arrangement promises that desirable consummation dear to the ad writer—"something to please everybody."

But without any pretense at expertness in the particular art, the belief may be expressed that for a man of so much experience the gray-haired rake's work was "rough" and suggestive throughout of the sort of naïveté which alone could inspire his later reference to Paris as "a splendid place for honeymoons." Somehow after that it was impossible to believe that he was really as black as he was painted.

Some commendable acting was revealed in the progress of this somewhat unconvincing "play of the present," with Charles Richman as the wicked employer of innocent virtue in distress, and Miss Lois Meredith, a very pretty and sensitive young actress, doing admirably as the victim of his wiles.

A bit was amusingly colored by Edna Mayo, and Desmond Kelly provided an excellent figure. Then there were Jesse Ralph, Katherine Emmett, Charles Abbe, and John Miltern to bring valuable authoritative experienced touches; Vivian Rushmore to add a note of vibrant beauty, and, among the lesser knowns, Charles Ruggles, to do the juvenile neatly, and Lorraine Huling to provide a bit of vivacity and charm where the addition had some value.

No Protection for Movie Scenarios.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Deciding that a motion picture scenario has no value and that, therefore, a person who converted the photo play script of another to his own use, committed no crime, Judge Warren Williams to-day dismissed a Police Court case against Hampton Del Ruth, charged with stealing the idea on which a photo play submitted to him was based. In giving his decision, Judge Williams said: "I have been given to understand that scenarios cannot be copyrighted. After looking into the question of scenarios I have decided they are of no value, and therefore dismiss this case."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Henry Miller's production of "Daddy Long-Legs" will take place on Feb. 19 at Atlantic City. The play was made by Jean Webster, niece of the late Mark Twain, from her own book of the same name. Ruth Chatterton is to play the leading role of Judy.

Mrs. William H. Sams, whose husband plays a leading part in "The Misleading Lady" at the Fulton Theatre, died last Monday morning and was buried yesterday afternoon. During Mr. Sams's absence from the cast his part was played by Paul Dickey, one of the authors of "The Misleading Lady."

Charles Frohman will produce "The Land of Promise" in London next month with Irene Vanbrugh in the role being played here by Billie Burke at the Lyceum Theatre. About the same time Miss Burke will start on a tour with the play, which will take her to California and through the British Northwest, where the scenes of the play are laid.

Just before the matinee performance of "Maria Rosa" at the Longacre Theatre yesterday afternoon Lou Tellegen, the leading man of the company, fell and dislocated his right shoulder. He played his part, however, with his arm in a sling. His physicians said last night that the actor would have to continue acting in that condition for at least ten days.

May Tully, the vaudeville performer, is directing a vaudeville production of "Cavalleria Rusticana," which will be sung by a company of twenty-five persons. It will be produced next week for the first time at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre.

VINCENT ASTOR WILL BUILD.

Plans to Construct an Apartment House to Cost Over $1,000,000.

Vincent Astor plans to construct a twelve-story apartment house on the block front on the east side of Broadway between Eighty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets at an expense of more than $1,000,000. This is one of the few blocks in the choice residential part of Manhattan Island that never has been improved fully. With the exception of a few old structures on the Amsterdam Avenue side, the remainder of the block has nothing except wooden shanties. It is one of two or three blocks in the immediate neighborhood owned for many years by the Astors which have not been improved.

It is not likely that the Astor estate has made any unearned increment profit out of the property, for the taxes and carrying charges in the last few years have been more than enough to offset the enhanced value of the land over that of 50 years ago, when the Astors first became its possessors.

The new apartment is being designed by Charles A. Platt. He said yesterday that work would begin early in the Spring. It will be one of the largest apartment houses in the city, covering a Broadway frontage of 201 feet and 150 feet on each street. It will only be exceeded in size by the Belnord and the Apthorpe, each of which covers an entire square block. The Apthorpe was constructed several years ago by the late Col. John Jacob Astor on the site of the Vandenheuvel country house, which in old Bloomingdale days became the celebrated road house known as Burnham's.

AMERICAN BALL PLAYERS AT VATICAN--NEW YORK A. C. GAMES--INDOOR POLO--HOCKEY

THE POPE BLESSES BASEBALL PARTY

Cordially Greets Giants and White Sox and Praises Athletic Sports.

Manager New York Giants.

ROME, Feb. 11.—The American world's touring baseball party, comprising the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox, with a number of friends, had a private audience with the Pope at the Vatican at 11 o'clock A. M. to-day. It was an impressive affair, all the men being in full dress and the ladies attired in black. They assembled in the throne room and were escorted to the private chapel, where all knelt.

Then the Pope entered, smiled beneficently, and pronounced a blessing on all present and their families. The Pope thanked the Americans for their visit, and in a short address praised the practice of athletic sports for the strengthening of the body and at the same time the practice of religion to strengthen the soul. After imparting the Apostolic Benediction, the Pope placed his hand on the heads of the children of James Callahan and then left the room.

Dr. Charles O. Hern of the American College interpreted for the Pope. After the audience the party was escorted to the chamber of state, where they met Cardinal Merry del Val, who spoke knowingly of baseball. He expressed the opinion that it was more interesting and spectacular than cricket, and said he was pleased at meeting the stars of the American teams. The Cardinal wished all a pleasant stay in Rome and a safe return. The party was then escorted to the Sistine Chapel and the Vatican Museum.

No game was played to-day on account of rain. The teams play to-morrow and Friday.

Immediately after the audience at the Vatican, Mr. Comiskey, accompanied by Dr. John E. Jones, went to his hotel, where he was met by Prof. Giuseppe Bastianelli. Afterward with the two physicians, Mr. Comiskey proceeded to a medical institute, where he was examined by Prof. Ulderico de Luca with the aid of the X-rays. The examination indicated that there was nothing serious in the condition of Mr. Comiskey, and Prof. Bastianelli told him that he would quickly recover if he avoided drinking ice water. This was good news for the party.

The tourists inspected many places of interest to-day, and in the evening visited the grand opera.

Class AA Leagues' Request for Amendment Rejected by Commission

The National Commission at its meeting yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria rejected the request of the International League for the annulment of the draft rule. The International League made the claim jointly with the American Association. President Barrow of the International and President Chivington of the American Association both argued the matter with the commission. Chairman Herrmann pointed out that if the major leagues were deprived of the privilege of drafting a player from the Class AA clubs each year, the players would have no opportunity of advancement, and such a radical change would prove a detriment to ambitious ball players.

The commission in its new capacity as a "war committee" against the Federals, discussed the outlaws for some time, but refused to state what plan of action had been decided upon.

The commission will hold another meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when President Dave Fulz of the Players' Fraternity will again request the commission to take some action in relation to the waiver rule.

The only concession the commission made to the Class AA leagues was that in the future a purchased player will not be allowed to leave the club with which he is playing until the end of the league season.

Jersey City Club Not to Move.

The International League is still in the ring. It held another short meeting yesterday and adjourned until to-day. The Internationals are just staying around to see what the Federals are going to do. The proposition to transfer the Jersey City Club to Brooklyn was finally abandoned at yesterday's meeting, as President Fogarty of the Jersey City Club would not agree to the conditions imposed in the transfer by the Brooklyn Club for the use of Ebbet's Field.

Davy Jones a Federal Leaguer.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—Davy Jones, former outfielder of the Detroit American League team, and later with the Toledo team of the American Association, announced here this afternoon that he had signed a two-year contract with the Pittsburgh Club in the Federal League. "I have got what I asked for," said Jones.

Four Phillies Sign Contracts.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—The signed contracts of Rixey and Gaddy, pitchers; Burns, catcher, and Becker, an outfielder, were received by the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club to-day. There are only a few more players to be heard from and officials of the club feel confident that they will fall in line in the near future.

To Register Blows in Boxing.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 11.—In a boxing contest to-morrow each of the judges will hold in his hand a machine to register the number of blows struck. At the end of the contest the boxer who has scored the greatest number of blows will be given the decision. It is said this will be the first time in the history of boxing that a device of this kind has been used in determining the winner in limited rounds of boxing matches.

NATIONAL'S BUSY DAY.

Joint Occupancy of Ball Parks Opposed—War Committee Dissolved.

The National League at its meeting yesterday passed a resolution against any of its clubs sharing their ball parks with clubs of the American League, such as the joint occupancy of the Polo Grounds by the Giants and Yankees. The club owners believe that such a practice tends to decrease rivalry, and lessens the individuality of the clubs. The resolution follows:

"Rosolved, That it is the sense of the National League that there shall be no joint occupancy of major league grounds by major league clubs, except in cases of extreme emergency, and then only with the consent and approval of the clubs interested as well as a majority of the clubs of both the National and American Leagues."

The league also rescinded its vote of Tuesday creating a "War Committee," composed of President Tener, Garry Herrmann, and John C. Toole. Instead of this committee the league voted to leave the matter of handling the Federal situation to the National Commission. It is stated that when Ban Johnson learned that the National League had appointed a committee to confer jointly with an American League committee, he was very much against the idea. Johnson advocated that the National Commission, being the highest authority in the game, could ably handle the matter, so the National League accepted this suggestion.

The Constitution of the National League was amended so as to give the President additional powers in matters of arbitration. Hereafter when a dispute occurs between clubs over the price of a player the President shall arbitrate the matter, and his decision shall be final. Another new amendment provides that in the future all amendments suggested must be submitted to the Secretary and the club owners fifteen days before they come up for consideration.

President Tener again displayed his aggressivness when he insisted that the league settle the claim of Umpire Charles Rigler against the Philadelphia Club, which has been hanging fire for a couple of seasons. Rigler wanted $2,200 for signing Pitcher Eppa Rixey for the Phillies. He made the deal with Horace Fogel, then President of the club. At President Tener's suggestion the league voted to allow Rigler $1,500, this amount to be paid by the former owners of the club. The obligation therefore falls upon Fogel and the other stockholders of the club. Charles P. Taft was one of the stockholders at the time the deal was made.

The New York Club was again defeated in its effort to keep the 25 per cent. share of the world's series receipts which the league voted to itself two seasons ago. The New York Club has maintained that this rule was unfair, and although the club paid the National League 25 per cent. of the 1912 receipts after opposing the matter for some time. They again objected to paying over a share of last year's world's series money, and the amount, which was about $20,000, was held by the National Commission pending final action by the league. It was voted yesterday that the money be paid over to Secretary-Treasurer Heydler, and put in the league's money bag.

Secretary Heydler was appointed a member of the Rules Committee in place of Henry O'Day, the new Chicago manager. The league will resume its meeting at 11 o'clock to-day.

AMERICAN'S QUIET MEETING

Adopts Schedule—Places Other Matters in Johnson's Hands.

Yesterday's meeting of the American League at the Hotel Biltmore was one of the quietest on record. The schedule for the coming season was adopted without change and all other matters were placed in the hands of President Ban Johnson to adjust.

The league voted against the annulment of the Class AA league draft and, at President Johnson's suggestion, decided not to appoint a "war committee," as suggested by the National League. Mr. Johnson decided that he was a "war committee" enough to handle the welfare of the league against the Federal invasion.

Those present at the meeting were Harry Grabiner, Chicago; Robert Hedges, St. Louis; F. J. Navin and William Yawkee, Detroit; Charles Somers, Cleveland; Ben S. Minor and Clarke Griffith, Washington; Frank J. Farrell, New York; Joseph J. Lannin and John I. Taylor, Boston.

After the meeting President Johnson again remarked that the American League was not worrying about the Federals. He said that his league would not fight the Federal in the courts, but that the real battle would be at the ticket offices at the gate. He believes that if the outlaws ever start, the competition will kill them off quickly.

"OUTLAWS" IN BRONX.

Federal Leaguers Said to Have Looked for Ball Park Site.

The Federal League officials, who are in the city, put in a day of nervous activity yesterday. They jumped in and out of taxicabs, rushed in and out of telephone booths, sent bundles of telegrams, then called it a day's work and had a quiet little dinner at the Hotel Knickerbocker.

President Gilmore again stated emphatically that he was not here with the idea of placing a club in New York or vicinity. However, it is stated that one of the taxicab trips took the Federals up to the Bronx on a quiet hunt for a suitable site for a baseball park.

The Federals promise to make a sensational announcement to-day, but refused to give an outline of it. They also refused to give out the names of the 142 ball players they have signed.

The Federals have received no attention in an official way from the major leaguers. With the arrival of Tinker to-day and also Otto Stifel, the St. Louis brewer, the Federals expect to accomplish something momentous in baseball history.

BOSTON GETS EVERS; REBUKE FOR MURPHY

Chicago Club Must Fulfill Its Contract with Deposed Manager.

President John K. Tener of the National League took a decided stand against Charles W. Murphy of Chicago at the meeting of the National League at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, and made it known to the Cubs' owner that he would have to live up to the terms of his contract with Johnny Evers. Tener asserted that Evers must receive the $40,000 for four years as player and manager, as called for in his Chicago contract. The club owners stood unanimously behind President Tener in the rebuke to Murphy.

Just after the league had decided to stand by Evers and see that he got just treatment under his contract, James E. Gaffney had a conference with Murphy and traded pitcher "Hub" Perdue and Second Baseman Bill Sweeney for Evers. Gaffney has promised to give Evers the same salary he received as manager of the Cubs, which is $10,000 a year for four years.

While the trade has been ratified by the National League, it does not please Evers. He insists that he will not be a part of any deal which will in any way benefit Murphy. He wants the league to declare him a free agent and let him sign with the club which will give him the largest bonus, so that he can profit by it. Evers wants to be put on the auction block of the National League and go to the highest bidder. He stated last night that he would not go to Boston under the terms of the deal made by Gaffney and Murphy.

President Charles Weeghman of the Chicago club yesterday had two long conferences with Johnny Evers and is anxious to sign him. Evers said last night that his negotiations with the Federals were not yet ended and this is taken as an intimation that Evers, notwithstanding his contracts, which have been turned over to the Boston club by Chicago, is ready to accept the big offer the Federals have made him. Evers last night had a talk with President Gaffney of the Boston club and again refused to approve the trade. He said he was willing to trade himself for Perdue and Sweeney and take the money which they would bring in the baseball market, but he absolutely refused to let them go. President Gaffney then offered Evers a bonus, equal, it is stated, to the price of Perdue and Sweeney, but again Evers refused.

Evers's contract calls for $10,000 for four years, and it is stated that the Federal League is willing to give him $10,000 more, a total of $50,000, and give him half that amount in cash when he signs.

The league spent most of the afternoon and evening subduing Murphy. He insisted that Evers had resigned. He showed the Board of Directors a letter from Evers in which he stated that if Murphy did not give him a new managers' contract which was more equitable he would not play with Chicago, and didn't care whether he ever played ball again. This was construed by Murphy as Evers's resignation. Murphy admitted, however, that he did not give Evers the ten days' notice as required by every baseball contract, so the league ruled against Murphy. The Chicago President put up a hard fight, and was noticeably disappointed when President Tener announced that Evers's contracts must be fulfilled.

After the Board of Directors had heard the arguments of both parties, all the club owners were called in and discussed the case. They all agreed with President Tener's attitude that Murphy was wrong. He had no right to drop Evers in the unceremonious manner in which the manager was deposed.

The squabble in which Murphy has pitched the National League over Evers is not by any means settled. After the former manager stated his case to the club owners he said that he had been led to believe that he would be declared a free agent, with the league responsible for the fulfillment of his contracts. He wanted to be free to sign where he liked, and with the club which would give him the biggest bonus.

As the case now stands, Evers is under contract to the Boston club, and is not free to negotiate with the Federal League, which was hot on his trail all day yesterday. Evers admitted that the terms which the outlaws have offered him would make him comfortable for life. The Federals have promised to turn loose a big sensation to-day, and it is believed that the announcement will be the acquisition of Evers, calling for the most generous terms ever offered a player.

Gaffney of Boston, Herrmann of Cincinnati, and Ebbets of Brooklyn were in spirited competition with Murphy all day yesterday for Evers. First, Gaffney offered Murphy $25,000 for the player Murphy said he would not sell him. He did not want the money, but was willing to make a trade. Gaffney had a conference with his manager, George Stallings, and offered Perdue and Bill Sweeney for Evers. Murphy after some argument decided on the trade without even consulting Evers. When Johnny heard of the deal he got just as excited as if an umpire had chased him out of a game.

CHANCE WANTS EVERS.

Will Pay More Than Federal League to Get Chicago Player.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 11.—Frank Chance, manager of the New York American League team, said to-day he was in the field to get Johnny Evers, the Chicago Cub manager, who was deposed yesterday by Charles W. Murphy, President of the Cubs.

"I don't care what the Federal League offers," he said. "I will pay more. Evers is a great ball player. I played with him and know, and I am sure he will play good ball for the New York Americans."

Chance made it plain, however, that his determination to get Evers depended on whether the National Baseball Commission declared the ex-Cub manager a free agent, and thus able to negotiate for another place.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Joseph Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federal League Club, was summoned to New York today by President Weeghman. The message was not unexpected, and gave color to numerous reports that the Chicago Federals are seeking to obtain the services of John J. Evers, deposed manager of the Chicago Nationals.

Weeghman is reported to have intimated that he would outbid by $5,000 any offer made by another club for the Cub second baseman.

NEW RULES FOR RACING.

Harness Horses Acquire Records Only by Winning Races.

Radical changes in the rules affecting harness horse racing were made yesterday at the biennial congress of the National Trotting Association, held at the Murray Hill Hotel. The rules and amendments adopted were those recommended by the Joint Rule Committee of the National and American Trotting Associations which convened in December last at Chicago in pursuance of an order adopted by the Board of Review.

The most radical of the changes agreed upon at yesterday's meeting is that relating to the record of a horse. In the past a horse secured a mark by winning any heat of a race, even though it was not the ultimate winner. According to a rule adopted yesterday "only the records made by the winners of races shall be considered in determining the eligibility of horses to compete in public. Records made in performances against time and in public races by non-winners shall not be considered a bar to eligibility to races."

A committee from the Grand Circuit made up of Secretary Homer J. Kline of Cleveland, Ed A. Tipton, President of the Lexington track, and E. J. Tranter of this city had recommended the rejection of the rule in vogue in regard to those races in which a portion of the purse is offered for each heat. The committee desired that no record or bar be acquired by any horse except the winner of the greatest amount of money in such an event, but the congress rejected their request. The vote rejecting the proposal was 298 to 40, many of the association members being represented by proxies. As each heat in these contests is regarded as a race the same rule was made to apply as in those races consisting of three or more heats, all together constituting a race.

A notable change was made in the rules regarding time allowances whereby a horse with a record made on a mile track will be allowed four seconds when entering on a half-mile track. The provision is made, however, that "the class to which he would be eligible under this allowance is not slower than his record on a half-mile track." Many of the delegates favored an allowance of only three seconds under these conditions, but the four-second change was finally carried. Another amendment in the time allowance rules, as adopted at this meeting, provides that a horse with a record shall be allowed one second for each year if raced, in which he fails to equal or reduce his record or win a race, if the same is claimed by the nominator when making the entry. Other allowances may be granted if so stated in the published conditions.

The subject of hopples also came up for considerable discussion and a change was made. The former rule provided that hopples should not be used in races exclusively for two, three, or four year olds. The rule adopted yesterday is as follows:

"Hopples shall not be used in races or performances against time on three-year-olds or under. Any person or member of this association violating or permitting the violation of this rule shall be fined not less than $100, suspended, or expelled."

An important amendment was added relating to the fines collected from drivers. This money is to be deposited in a special fund for the benefit of disabled or needy drivers, the payments from the same to be made by order of the Board of Review.

The distances at which horses are out of the race in mile heat events on both mile and half-mile tracks were lowered, the changes being from twenty to fifty yards.

NOYES BEATS VANDERPOEL.

Squash Club Final Round Decided in Straight Games.

D. R. Noyes defeated W. H. Vanderpoel in the final found of the handicap squash tennis tournament yesterday on the club courts, Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street. Noyes, who was handicapped five aces below Vanderpoel won in straight games, by the score of 15—12, 15—3, 15—8. Only in the first game did Vanderpoel show any evidence of play. He made good use of the handicap and kept in the lead until Noyes drew up on even terms with the score 10-all. The back mark player added three aces in his next hand, and then ran out 15—12. The second game was quickly decided, Vanderpoel being unable to resist the aggressive attack of his opponent. Several lively rallies marked the third game, but Noyes always held the upper hand. The summary:

Squash Club Handicap Tournament.—Final Round—D. R. Noyes, (minus 5,) defeated W. H. Vanderpoel, (scratch,) 15—12, 15—3, 15—8.

Columbia Men Must Box, Too.

Boxing has been put on the "prescribed" list of courses at Columbia, and from now on the freshmen and sophomores will have to take their turn at mastering it. Under the new system of physical education, by which the students all have to participate in actual athletics instead of setting up drills and work on the gymnastic apparatus of the gymnasium, boxing will take its place with rowing, swimming, and track work, and the students will receive expert instruction in the game. Gerald Weeman, one of the gymnasium instructors, who conducts private boxing classes, will give the students pointers.

Morristown, 33; MacKenzie, 29.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Feb. 11.—In a closely contested basket ball game here this afternoon Morristown School defeated the MacKenzie School by the score of 33 to 29. It was only in the last few minutes of play that the local five obtained their winning lead. This is Morristown's tenth straight victory for the season.

CANADIAN RUNNERS LOSE TO AMERICANS

Kiviat Defeated by Gordon in Baxter Mile Race at New York A. C. Games.

United States runners vanquished the foot-pacing quartet from Canada last night in such easy fashion as to leave no doubt of the superiority of the wearers of the shield at relay racing, the style with which was the vogue at the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden, and which was witnessed by an enthusiastic crowd which filled the amphitheatre.

Despite the comfortable fashion in which the event, a scratch affair at one mile, was won, the time was particularly fast, when Uncle Sam's four men covered the route in 3 minutes 26 3-5 seconds, with the two last men to race apparently sauntering over the course because of practically no opposition from the visitors from over the border.

This was not the only surprise of the races, which were replete with competition as keen as any witnessed during this season. One of the boomerangs of the night proved to be the famous Baxter mile, a scratch race at eight furlongs, which attracted, among others, Abel Kiviat, the most recent winner of the Hunter mile in Boston; Jack Tait of Canada, William F. Gordon of Yonkers, M. A. Duvanney, Irish-American A. C., and R. P. Greene of the Boston A. A.

The event had been considered a gift for Kiviat, who is the holder of the indoor record for the distance, but after making the pace to suit himself for the last half mile of the journey he had to give way at the end to Gordon, who beat him to the finish by several yards in 4:32 4-5.

The Boston Athletic Association relay team, with Tom Halpin as anchor man, disposed of the Winged Foot team of the New York A. C. in their match relay at one mile, in 3 minutes 36 2-5 seconds.

While George H. Goulding, the world's champion heel and toe walker, who won his title at the Olympic Games, did not gather wining honors in his favorite event at one mile, the race being a handicap, all of the honors of the contest were his if any line could be drawn through the ovation he received during and after the race.

The Canadian's style of progression was so far superior to that of all of his opponents, with the exception of Dick Remer of the Irish-American A. C., that many in the large crowd yelled to have most of the field disqualified. R. B. Gifford of McCaddin Lyceum, the indoor American champion, who was in receipt of fifteen seconds from the wonderful Canadian, was disqualified for unfair walking three-tenths of a mile from the finish, but he refused to leave the track, finally finishing in front of the field. Jacob W. Stumpf, Chairman of the Registration Committee, immediately got busy and handed Gifford a note to the effect that he was suspended pending investigation of his case.

The outstanding event in public interest was the international race. The United States team was made up of Ted Meredith, the Olympic champion at 800 meters; Homer Baker, the national 880-yard title holder; Mel Sheppard, and Tom Halpin of Boston. Canada was represented by Jack Tressider, the Dominion's 440-yard and half-mile champion; Jack Tait, Mel Brock, and Hector Phillips. The men ran in the order named in each case.

With the running of the Baxter Mile the unlooked for happened with the pronounced victory of the Yonkers youth, William F. Gordon, a lad who won his first race as a novice last July in the Scottish Clans games. Five men toed the scratch and at the gun Greene of Boston rushed to the front, with the rest of the field trailing and leading Kiviat, the favorite.

The latter seemed content to trail until the half-mile mark, where he apparently tired of the slow pace and made his way to the front. Once there it was Gordon who was his closest attendant, and the manner in which the Yonkers lad hung on boded ill for the champion. Kiviat was in the van at the bell, and it appeared to be all over except the shouting until the backstretch of the last lap was reached, where the Yonkers lad challenged in sterling fashion and with such pace as to be enabled to go to the front, from which position Kiviat was unable to depose him, as Gordon was first at the tape by three yards in 4:32 4-5, with Kiviat run out in his endeavor to reach him. Duvanney, a clubmate of Kiviat, was third.

Hannes Kolehmainen came into his own after a long period of poor form by his annexation of the three-mile handicap race which he won in commanding fashion from scratch, disposing of his opponents in easy style. He was content to trail the field until the last lap, when he uncorked a sprint which made his nearest opponent practically stop and bow to defeat.

The long anticipated relay race between the Xavier A. A. and the Knights of St. Antony, which settled the championship of the Catholic Athletic League, was won in commanding fashion by the first named in 3 minutes and 34 seconds, when Heiland of the Xaviers clearly outran Gough of the losing team. TRAVIS TAKES GOLF MEDAL.

Qualifies with Score of 70 in South Florida Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11.—Walter J. Travis of Garden City to-day won the low score golf medal offered in the qualifying round of the South Florida championship with a card of 70, which is par golf. The field was low and one of the largest that ever played here. H. P. Farrington, Woodland, came in second with a 76 that showed remarkable playing in the first ten holes. Travis played to the same point in 35 strokes and from there on to the fifteenth green it was nip and tuck between them, Farrington going to pieces somewhat on the last four holes.

Navy Y. M. C. A. Wins in Tank.

The swimming team of the Naval Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association defeated the representatives of the East Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in a dual competition held last night in the tank of the former branch in Brooklyn by 33 points to 9. The feature was the relay race, which was closely contested from the start, and was won by Thompson of the Navy Branch, beating Meister of the East Side Branch to the tape in 1:07. Thompson was the individual star of the meet, finishing first in the 25, 50 and 100 yard swims.

Boxing at Garden A. C. To-night.

Three ten-round bouts will be put on to-night at the Garden A. C. show, the feature event bringing together Frankie Burns of Jersey City, one of the best bantamweights in the United States, and Joe Fox of England. Fox has won several bouts since coming to America, and has not yet suffered a defeat here. The Briton has not boxed anyone of Burns's experience and ability, and it is expected that the little Jerseyite will extend the visitor to the limit. George McDonald, manager of Fox, has announced that in the event of a victory over Burns he will post $5,000 for a bout with Johnny Coulon or Kid Williams. Tom Gibbons, who was to have boxed Charley Weinert of Orange, N. J., in the ten-round semi-final, notified Manager Billy Gibson yesterday that he had injured his hand and could not appear. A substitute will be found to oppose Weinert or another bout arranged to-day. In the opening ten-round bout the contestants will be Young Otto and Mike Mazie.

Fast Teams in Hockey To-night.

The Crescent A. C. and St. Nicholas hockey teams will play to-night at the St. Nicholas Rink in their first game under the six-men rule. This game will be a better test of the new idea of things than any that have yet been played, for both teams are noted for their fast skaters, and speed is the most essential requisite for a hockey player to have under the present rules. This game will be preliminary to the big Harvard-Princeton contest at the St. Nicholas Rink on Saturday night, which will decide the intercollegiate championship if Harvard wins, whereas a victory for the Tigers will cause a tie and necessitate a third and deciding game.

Conway Loses Billiard Game.

Charles P. Conway failed in his endeavor to concede a fifty-point handicap to Frank W. Boyd last night in the amateur handicap 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at Keeney's Academy in Brooklyn, and the contest resulted in a victory for the latter by the score of 200 to 220. Boyd was handicapped at 200 points, while his opponent had to tally 250 to win.

De La Salle's Championship.

The De La Salle basket ball team won its tenth consecutive victory yesterday by defeating Manhattan Prep by the score of 21 to 16 on the former's court. By this victory De La Salle claims the championship of Catholic and private high schools.

WEST POINT WINS INDOOR POLO GAME

Army Officers Defeat Durland's Team in Extra Period Game, 7 Goals to 6.

Army officers from West Point easily defeated Durland's crack indoor polo team last night at Durland's Academy, Sixty-sixth Street, west of Central Park, by the score of 7 to 6. The contest was the first of two home-and-home matches, and in spite of the fact that the soldier polo players were handicapped by strange ponies and unfamiliar surroundings, they outplayed their opponents, but not until an extra period was ordered owing to a tie score.

While the limited space did not permit of long runs, it served to show the superb horsemanship of the West Point officers. They handled the ponies in a most approved manner, and showed surprising control while in actual competition. They also displayed a keen knowledge of the fine points of indoor polo. Their shots were hard, well timed, and straight, while their dodging won for them round after round of applause from a big gallery.

In the jumping class, which was the feature of the weekly horse show programme, George Chipchase won the first prize with his old champion Sapolio, which made a clean record over the bars in each trip around the tanbark ring.

The breeding class for polo ponies was divided into two sections, owing to the number of entries. In the light-weight division Fred Wettach's brown mare Polo won from a strong field. The winner was ridden by Fred Wettach, Jr., a ten-year-old son of the owner, whose clever work in the saddle won for him liberal applause. Godfrey Preece secured second and third ribbons with Packey McFarland and Mosses' Pride, respectively. The latter was cleverly ridden by young Terrence Preece. It was a pretty riding duel between the youngsters, but conformation earned a number of points for Polo.

Godfrey Preece sent two splendid, well-behaved, and good-mannered ponies in the heavyweight division. He rode Splinters, a Kentucky thoroughbred bay gelding, and showed his mount to such excellent advantage that the result was never in doubt. Splinters, in addition to showing handiness in control, is a handsome pony. Chaser, the Preece second entry, received the second award, while A. Kenny's bay gelding Brandy was placed third. The summary:

Polo Ponies, Breeding Class, 50 per cent. conformation and 50 per cent. performance.—Won by Fred Wettach's br. m. Polo; Godfrey Preece's b. g. Packy McFarland, second; Godfrey Preece's Mosses' Pride, third; S. L. Frank's Chop Chaser, fourth.

Polo Ponies, Breeding Class, heavyweight division.—Won by Godfrey Preece's b. p. Splinters; Godfrey Preece's ch. p. Chaser, second; A. Kinney's b. g. Brandy, third.

Jumping Class, performance only to count.—Won by George Chipchase's b. g. Sapolio; E. Rowland's b. g. Cricket, second; J. Hanssen's ch. g. Reeve d'Or, third; E. Rowland's br. m. Matchless, fourth.

MEN RIDERS ROUTED.

Masqueraders at Durland's Tried to Compete in Women's Class.

A ladies' jumping class, arranged as the special attraction following the regular weekly music ride last night at the Central Park Riding Academy with three contestants, for a time threatened not to materialize. The trouble came when as a ruse two male enthusiasts masqueraded in women's attire and attempted to wrest from them the laurels. With three ribbons at stake and not caring to lose any glory, the impersonators were ruled out when about to take the jumps and the event went on with a rather good exhibition of timber-topping by the trio.

Mrs. C. M. Allaire, on a brown hunter, carried off the blue ribbon, taking the jumps at distances of 4 feet 6 inches and 5 feet 1 inch. Miss Dorothy Spooner, a little girl on Blue Bells, showed herself capable of handling her mount over the jumps, and although she looked like a winner had to be content with the red rosette, while Miss F. V. Galvin, on J. Ranger's buck pony, Yellow Kid, was third.

Presence of mind saved Miss J. R. Runyon from what threatened serious injury at the beginning of the music ride, when she was thrown from her horse. When the procession was forming in line for the first figure the mount of Miss Runyon was seen to stumble at the far end of the ring and send its rider headforemost to the tanbark. She freed herself of the saddle, being mounted astride, and rolled out of the range of the riders following. She regained her feet quickly, and after a short rest resumed her place in the ride.

MINIMUM WAGE LAWS DISCUSSED

PATERNALISM NOT WANTED

Employers Give the Results of Some of Their Experiences with Their Helpers.

About a hundred members of the National Retail Dry Goods Association were present yesterday at the opening of the third annual convention of that body at the Hotel Astor. After the business session in the morning, papers on various trade subjects were read and discussed, the principal attention being given to minimum wage legislation. Several States have already passed laws governing the smallest wage that may be paid to workers in certain industries, and there was a feeling expressed yesterday that it would not be long before all of the leading communities would take similar steps.

Simon Lazarus of F. & R. Lazarus & Co. of Columbus, Ohio, opened the discussion with a paper on "The Minimum Wage in the Department Store." Mr. Lazarus regarded minimum wage legislation as beneficial to department stores for five reasons, which he cited as follows: Approval of the public; contented employes; increased service from employes by employers' efforts; raising the standard of department store positions, and equality of minimum salaries among competing stores or institutions.

Following Mr. Lazarus's paper there was a prolonged discussion on minimum wage, in which Arthur Letts, who is proprietor of two department stores in Los Angeles, took part. Mr. Letts advised the merchants present against fighting minimum wage legislation, and suggested that they take the "sting" out of it by getting ahead of the politicians in the matter, or by agreeing to a measure that was reasonable without a struggle when such a measure was brought up in their particular States. Mr. Letts said:

"Minimum wage legislation is coming to every leading community. This is the day of legislation favoring the working man, and the politicians in all States are going after the business man as hard as they can every time they see a chance of capturing the labor vote as a result of their activities."

Mr. Letts went on to tell how he had had a minimum wage in his stores for some time, and when questioned on this point answered that he paid no girl who had to support herself less than $10 a week. Girls under 16 years of age he took on at a minimum wage of $5 a week. Girls over 16 got $6, he said; girls over 17 got $7, girls over 18 got $8 and so on. All of these girls must live at home. Girls who have other persons dependent on them get a minimum wage of $12.

The afternoon session was featured by a sort of debate on the minimum wage question between Borough President Marks and Norman Hapgood, who spoke, respectively, on 'Relations between the employer and the employed" and "The minimum wage." In opposing minimum wage, Mr. Marks roughly divided the great body of workers into three groups—the sub-average, the average, and the super-average. The sub-average workers, he said, would be discriminated against under the minimum wage law, and would be forced out of their jobs by their sheer lack of ability to earn the wage which the law says must be the smallest amount paid to them. The average worker, Mr. Marks said, did not need such a law, as the wage itself was based on the earnings of the average worker. The best workers would be hurt by a minimum wage law, he contended, because it would keep down their earnings when they were worth more to their employers, because the employers would in that way have to even up what they lost on the poor workers. He further said that the minimum wage often became a maximum rate of payment for the reason heretofore laid down. Mr. Marks warned the merchants against paternalism in their welfare work, saying that the workers must be given what is due them, but that they must be given their due in a businesslike, rather than a charitable way.

Mr. Hapgood was strongly in favor of the theory and practicability of the minimum wage, pointing out that such a law is needed most by the least intelligent persons, those to whom the prosperous owed the greatest debt. The chief purpose of such laws, he said, was to give the average worker the chance to make a decent living. He advanced the contention that industries or businesses which could not afford to pay their workers a representative living wage should have no place in the industrial and commercial life of the country. He cited the results of the minimum wage law in Australia and New Zealand, where such laws have been in effect for some time, to show that such legislation is feasible, and that it works to the best interests of all concerned. H. E. Miles, Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, also spoke, his topic being "Vocational Training for Employes." Incidentally Mr. Miles opposed the minimum wage idea.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Arthur Letts, Los Angeles; First Vice President, Charles A. Stix, St. Louis; Second Vice President, S. W. Woodward, Washington; Third Vice President, Alexander Sanger of Dallas, Texas. The new Board of Directors consists of the officers and the following: A. B. Koch, Toledo, Ohio; W. S. Rhoads, Richmond, Va.; W. W. Loomis, Troy, N. Y.; W. R. Owen, Denver, Col.; A. L. Aldred, Providence, R. I.; M. Rothschild, Pittsburgh; Frank McDermott, Seattle, Wash.; J. Hammel, Mobile, Ala.; F. E. IN THE CASE OF FRAUD.

The Customs Collector's Powers in Reliquidation.

The authority conferred by law on Collectors of Customs to reliquidate entries after the expiration of one year in a case where fraud is discovered was not affirmed yesterday by the United States Court of Customs Appeals, but, in effect, the decision goes to the extent of holding that the action of a Collector, based upon a finding of fraud, amounts to a decision by him that there was fraud, and not an allegation merely. The decision further emphasizes the point that the law authorizes and requires the Collector to make decision upon every matter upon which liquidation depends.

In the case before the court, the Collector at New York reliquidated the entries of Vitelli & Sons, importers, at 71 Nassau Street, more than one year after entry. This action was taken after an investigation which disclosed that cheese imports had been entered on false weights in such a way that the full amount of duty was not paid to the Collector. The balance of the accruing duties, as shown by the reliquidation, was demanded of the importer and paid.

At the trial of the case before the Board of General Appraisers, Albert M. Yuzzolino, attorney for the importers, argued that fraud could not be presumed and that, unless the Government went ahead and proved to the board there was fraud in the entry, then the reliquidation was barred by the lapse of time. This was controverted by William L. Wemple, Assistant Attorney General, who maintained that the Collector's finding of fraud was sufficient evidence and that the Government was under no necessity to prove such an act. The board, however, sustained the contention of the importers, holding in effect that fraud was never presumed and that it was incumbent on the Government to submit proof of an unlawful act.

The court, in its decision, reversing the board, upholds the contention of the Assistant Attorney General, and rules that if the actions of the Collectors are challenged by protest, the protesting party must bear the burden of showing by proof wherein the Collector's action was wrong. Another point in the decision is the affirmance of the power of the Collector to reliquidate an entry for fraud precisely as he is empowered to liquidate an entry in the first instance. Judge Barber goes on to say that it will not be presumed that the Collector will exercise his power to reliquidate without investigation, or "wantonly or without cause."

In commenting on the decision Mr. Wemple said:

"It is not to be understood that this decision announces any principle which will cast upon the person accused of fraud the burden of proving that there was no fraud where the fact of fraud is the direct issue in the case, but, as the court well says, in this case the existence of the fraud is only incidentally involved. The real merit of the dispute is not whether there was fraud in the entry, but whether the correct amount of duties was at the time of the first liquidation paid to the Government. If that question should be answered in the affirmative, then the Collector's reliquidation in this case would fall no matter whether there was fraud or not."

TO HELP GERMAN TRADE.

A New Organization to Promote Reciprocity and Good-Will.

Simon L. Bernheimer of the firm of Gebrueder Mosse of this city and Berlin, Germany, will sail on the steamship Kaiserin Augusta Victoria this morning on a mission involving the increase of reciprocal trade between this country and Germany. In pursuance of this purpose, the Chamber of German-American Commerce has just been incorporated under the laws of this State. Mr. Bernheimer, who is a Director of the American Association of Commerce and Trade in Berlin, was the prime mover in forming the new organization here, whose members include both importers and exporters.

The aims of the new chamber, as declared in the charter, are to promote and develop commercial relations and trade exchanges between the two countries mentioned; to organize all the importers, exporters, financiers, shippers, steamship lines and forwarders doing business with Germany, so that they may protect their interests collectively; to correct trade abuses and circulate accurate and reliable information; to settle disputes and grievances by arbitration; to foster friendly relations among its members; to help adjust tariff and custom house difficulties; to assist in negotiating reciprocity and other commercial treaties; to gather statistics, ascertain the conditions of the markets and create a German-American commercial reference library; to facilitate the introduction of goods of one country to another; to publish trade opportunities and cognate matter in a periodical; to educate public opinion in this country and Germany on commercial subjects of interest; to improve and harmonize the patent, trademark, designs and copyright laws and arrangements and to "prevent all misunderstanding, friction and grievances between the two nations."

A movement of a similar character is now in progress in Germany, where an effort is being made to organize the German exporters into the "Deutsche Gesellschaft fuer Welthandel."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Duties Assessed on Children's Rattles, Lace Pins, and Towels.

Failure on the part of W. C. Horn Brothers & Co., New York, to make the correct claim for lower duty on children's sets composed of powder puffs, rattles and other articles, resulted in the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruling the firm's protest with the exception of one contention relating to the rattles. The articles were in printed surface coated boxes, which were returned for duty under the Tariff act of 1909, at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 418, as entireties.

The board sustained the contention for duty on the rattles at 65 cents a pound and 30 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures in chief value of celluloid.

Weiller & Sons, New York, succeeded in a contention for a reduction in the assessment made on lace pins with steel stems and tops of plain glass and metal. The goods were assessed at 60 per cent. ad valorem under the Tariff act of 1897, as jewelry. It was decided that the tax should have been at the rate of 45 per cent. as manufactures of glass or metal, according to the components of chief value.

The board sustained a protest by A. C. Sherrard & Co., Chicago, and held that cotton towels in the piece are properly dutiable as printed cotton cloth, at the rate of 2¾ cents per square yard. The Collector classified the articles as manufactures of cotton at 45 per cent. ad valorem under the old law.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Thomas H. Wilson of the Thomas H. Wilson Mills, Philadelphia, Penn., was a visitor in the local woolen market yesterday.

J. Engler, upholstery goods buyer for the Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company of Rochester, sails for Europe to-day on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria.

The new tariff law was said yesterday at the Appraiser's warehouse to be responsible for unusually heavy imports in the Fourth Division, of which Frederick Kuenzli is Assistant Appraiser. The lines represented in the present activity include silk and woolen fabrics, carpets, and rugs. The fabrics in most instances are intended for the Spring trade. Mr. Kuenzli said that the present inward movement of carpets and rugs far exceeds last year's entries for the same period.

The quotation is for six months' notes.

To Show Unfinished Worsteds.

Cox & Schreiber, 325 Fourth Avenue, will open to-morrow complete lines of men's wear unfinished worsteds for Fall. The lines referred to are the products of the Jefferson Mills, are 14 to 15 ounce fabrics, and will be priced at $1.60 a yard regular.

American Woolen Co.'s Opening.

The American Woolen Company opened yesterday Department 7, consisting of the better grades of fancy worsteds (men's wear) for the coming heavyweight season. The prices ranged from $1.25 to $2.75 a yard. It was said at the company's offices late yesterday afternoon that the trade had shown more interest in Department 7, and that there had been more showings yesterday than on any previous opening day of that particular department.

The Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade and Transportation yesterday adopted a report against the proposed new Port Commission and recommending going ahead with the Harbor and Terminal plans of the former Board of Estimate. The Bacon-Bartlett bill, now in Congress, favoring labor unions and agricultural bodies, was condemned, and an amendment was suggested to the Workmen's Compensation act. This amendment would relieve employers and put the whole budren of compensation on the State. The Schaap-Salant bill for halving the tax on buildings was also opposed, while a resolution was adopted for improving Ambrose Channel, the Harlem Ship Canal, and other harbor betterments.

Claflin Sale Attracting Attention.

The second day of the sale of seconds, shorts, remnants, and irregulars now being held by the H. B. Claflin Company was productive of excellent business. One of the features of the sale yesterday was the number of Southern buyers in attendance, among whom were Dan Greif of Levi & Greif, Memphis; Adolph Mathis, who is general merchandise manager for the Miller Brothers Company of Chattanooga, Tenn.; R. M. Varnon of the J. W. Bullard Company, Charlotte, N. C.; M. Parsons of the Parsons, Souders Company, Clarksburg, West Va., and Abe Joel of Athens, Ga. The sale will be continued throughout the week, but the store will be closed at 1 o'clock to-day on account of the holiday. The entry and shipping rooms will be open all day, however, to get out the mass of merchandise that has been sold to the purchasers.

Jewelers Meet at the Astor.

The first annual convention of the National Jewelers' Board of Trade opened yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Astor with an address of welcome by Borough President Marcus M. Marks. Arthur Henius, President of the Board, followed Mr. Marks with a welcoming speech of more technical import. Reports were read by Secretary E. N. Stone, C. P. A., and Treasurer Albert L. Stearns. Late in the session committees on resolutions and recommendations were appointed. The convention will continue at the Astor to-day and Friday, this morning's session opening at 10:30. At this session Robert W. Adams, Chairman of the Good and Welfare Committee of the Board, will report on the committee's work for the year, and T. W. Foster, Chairman of the New England Board, will make an address on "The Needs of the Manufacturer of New England."

Steffens Auction Ends.

The remainder of the stock of the August Steffens Dry Goods Company of Davenport, Iowa, which firm is retiring from business, was disposed of yesterday at auction by Van Praag & Co., 15 Greene Street. On Tuesday the auctioneers closed out the concern's stock of men's and women's furnishings and notions, at prices averaging from 50 to 60 cents on the dollar. Yesterday silks, domestics, embroideries, laces, flannels and blankets were dealt with, and the prices obtained averaged 60 cents on the dollar. The auctioneers sold 2,300 lots of the Steffens stock in the two days mentioned. In addition to the firms reported at Tuesday's sale, the following concerns were represented at yesterday's auction: The New York Store, Hartselle, Ala.; the W. V. Snyder Company, Newark, N. J.; the Goerke Company, Newark; I. Lindenbaum of this city; Hughes, Dove & Turner, Baltimore, and Plaut Brothers, Jamaica, N. Y.

Will Amend Anti-Piracy Bill.

It was learned on good authority yesterday that an amendment will be made shortly to the bill recently introduced in Congress to guard against the piracy of commercial designs. This amendment will deal primarily with the number of designs that may be registered at one time for a single fee of $1. It is understood that it will permit registration in series of 20 to 100 at the charge named. Such designs will be registered under a single certificate for a period of one year, but any design in a series may be registered separately, if desired, while the series registration is in effect. It was learned that the only way in which it will be possible for the manufacturers who employ designers to get around the provision which permits the author or assignee to do the registering is for them to contract with the designers to the effect that the manufacturer shall be the lawful owner of the designs turned out during the life of the contract, thereby doing away with the expense and annoyance of continued assignments. The bill will also do away with the publicity feature disapproved of by some members of the trade by allowing registered designs to be made public only when needed as evidence in litigation.

To Sell Daily Consular Reports.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Superintendent of Documents has consented to receive subscriptions to The Daily Consular and Trade Reports at $2.50 a year. This publication contains current reports from United States Consuls throughout the world and a list of foreign trade opportunities for manufacturers and exporters. It never has been sold, but has been distributed gratis up to the legal limit of 20,000 copies. There are now more than 1,000 requests on the waiting list.

MAY EXPORT TEXTILES.

Present Tendency from High Values Offered by Manufacturers.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Sales of wool in Boston for the last week have been 4,360,000 pounds.

"In the woolen and worsted cloth market the fact that exceptional values have been offered by certain concerns has made it difficult for other distributors to obtain any large amount of business. Under these conditions it is becoming a firm conviction that the industry is more likely to export woolens and worsteds than to import them.

"A very unsettled condition exists in overcoatings, with the possible exception of mackinaws, balmacaans, and chinchillas. An exceptional business has been done in the fabrics last mentioned, but buyers have been upset by the remarkably low prices on chinchillas. The situation in serges is becoming somewhat easier, inasmuch as the sellers who offered large values are now well supplied with orders and are advancing prices.

"Tops and yarns have already advanced 2 to 2½ cents for half bloods, while the finer grades are now quoted at least 3 cents higher than the asking price during the early days of this month.

"The easier tendency in raw cotton may afford cotton manufacturers a better margin than they had anticipated, accompanied by an improvement in demand, because buyers of fabrics have postponed purchasing too long in many instances.

"Buyers of fabrics must use more care or they will find difficulty in obtaining satisfactory deliveries. Some converters of cotton goods are trying to induce the return of fine yarn materials, and some sales of high count goods have been made weighing over 17½ yards per pound.

"The knit goods market has had a satisfactory season. The raw silk trade has witnessed a greater amount of buying for European and American consumers, and quotations for various kinds of silks have been rapidly advancing."

TITUS SEEKS TO RETIRE.

Police Inspector Has an Injury to His Knee.

Police Inspector George P. Titus, commanding the Sixth Inspection District in Harlem, has made application for retirement, on account of an injury to his knee, which, he says, prevents him from active work. The Board of Surgeons took X-ray photographs of the injured knee yesterday and submitted them to the Commissioner. They show that several ligaments are out of place.

Inspector Titus has an excellent record in the Police Department. He is 54 years old, married, and lives at 545 West 111th Street. He joined the force as patrolman on Feb. 1, 1886, and was made a Detective Sergeant a year later. In 1895 he was reduced in rank by Police Commissioner Roosevelt, but was later reinstated. He was made a Lieutenant in 1896, a Captain in 1897, and an Inspector in 1903.

Titus was in charge of the Bureau of Repairs and Supplies up to two years ago, and was then ordered as Inspector to the Sixth Inspection District. He and the late Inspector McClusky were called the Beau Brummells of the Detective Bureau, because to them was often assigned the task of guarding the guests of wealthy society people at large functions. They appeared in evening clothes.

Increases are shown in excise taxes, corporation tax, and the direct State tax. The figures are as follows:

	1914.	1913.

Present Opportunities in Good Bonds

Eight years ago the cost of a certain $1,000 first mortgage 4% railroad bond was $970. This issue was then protected by $3,525,000 junior securities.

To-day the junior securities, receiving interest and dividends, aggregate $79,000,000. The surplus over charges has increased more than 200%, but the cost of this bond is now only $860.

The bond yields about 5¼%

Stocks Show Net Gains—Volume of Trading Small—Position of Steel Trade.

The upturn which occured Tuesday afternoon was carried further yesterday, and the general level of quotations showed a net gain after six consecutive days of reaction. The hardening of prices was accompanied by a contraction in trading to the smallest figures reported for any full session since Jan. 2. The fact that it was the eve of a holiday was a traditional reason for the greater dullness of trading, and this fact to some extent lessened whatever significance might otherwise have been attributed to the curtailment of business upon the advance in quotations. While the general forward movement was clearly defined, New York Central, New Haven, and some less conspicuous issues showed a dragging tendency. A further recovery in the Rock Island stocks and an upturn in the International Mercantile Marine securities offset more of the sharp declines which in recent days had occurred in those two groups.

In the bond market the underwriting of the proposed Southern Pacific issue which was formally authorized by the company's Directors yesterday was the event of chief interest. Formal announcement of the terms of this new issue was accompanied by a further decline in the outstanding convertible bonds of this road, part of which, at least, was due to selling by those who were shifting from the old to the new Southern Pacific convertibles. This was prompted by the more favorable conversion terms granted to the holders of the new bonds. The suit against the Southern Pacific to compel it to surrender control of the Central Pacific which was filed by the Government yesterday had been so definitely foreshadowed that the news caused not the slightest surprise, and exerted very little market effect.

From the steel trade came yesterday the encouraging report recorded by The Iron Age, that during the first week of this month the orders received by the Steel Corporation averaged 50,000 tons a day or about 10,000 tons more than the daily orders received during January, which were sufficient to bring about an increase of 330,000 tons in unfilled orders during that month. This same journal said that the signs of betterment in the iron and steel markets are now read with very little difficulty, and that the larger steel manufacturers see the basis of a fair operation of their plants for from two to four months. It adds that any misgivings as to the maintenance of the buying volume of recent weeks grow out of the limiting of railway purchases, and of the indications that the metal working industries are still far from a healthy rate of operation. There is in such a review of the steel trade as this ground for caution lest too much be expected of the upturn which has been under way since the first of the year. There is sound basis for encouragement, however, in the fact that the improvement has been persistent, and that even after the opening of the second month of the year the volume of incoming orders increased.

CANADIAN SHIP MERGER.

Lake, River, and West India Lines Put in a $21,000,000 Corporation.

A merger of all the principal inland steamship companies of Canada into a new company, the Canadian Steamship Lines, Limited, has been completed, and bankers of the Dominion and England are taking steps to finance the undertaking. The companies amalgamated are the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, Inland Lines, Northern Navigation Company, Niagara Navigation Company, Merchants' Montreal Line, St. Lawrence River Steamboat Company, Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company of the United States, Thousand Island Steamboat Company, Ontario and Quebec Navigation Company, Canada Interlake Line, Quebec Steamship Company, and the steamship Haddington.

These companies together operate more than 100 steamers and control between them by far the most important part of the passenger and freight transportation between Canadian ports on the Great Lakes and Montreal and Quebec on the River St. Lawrence, while the Quebec Steamship Company, Limited, runs lines from Quebec to ports on the lower St. Lawrence and to New York, and from New York to the Bermudas and the West Indies.

The assets of the merged companies have been valued at $21,235,000. In order to provide working capital $6,500,000 consolidated first mortgage debenture stock is being offered by The Canadian Securities Corporation, Limited, on this side of the water and by Brown, Shipley & Co. and the London County and Westminster Bank in London.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Meeting the Investment Demand.

It appears that the outpouring of new security issues which has been going on since the offering of $51,000,000 of new State bonds would assume much larger proportions were all of the corporations which have new financing in mind in a position to put out new issues at this time. Most of the railroads are subject to the jurisdiction of two or more State commissions, to whom applications for permission to sell bonds or notes must be submitted, and the industrials are in many cases hampered by requirements that they submit proposed new issues to their stockholders for approval. The bond market underwent such a sudden change for the better toward the middle of January that some of the big corporations with early maturing issues of short-term notes to care for were taken by surprise.

Another Merger Suit.

The financial district was not a little disappointed at Mr. McReynolds's refusal to accede to the suggestion of the various commercial organizations on the Pacific Coast that he delay suit against the Southern Pacific until the proposed new legislation bearing on trusts could be passed. Probably most of the Southern Pacific's shareholders are familiar with their company's lines only as they are indicated on the railroad maps, and they are unanimously of the opinion that there is no restraint of competition as a result of the Southern Pacific's ownership of the Central Pacific line. At any rate, the filing of the suit in Salt Lake City yesterday, entailing months of uncertain waiting for a decision, was reflected by a drop of only one-quarter point in the price of Southern Pacific.

Odd-Lot Business Grows Heavier.

So far this year dealers in odd lots of stocks and bonds of low denominations have had nothing but satisfactory comments on their business. Brokers making the needs of investors of small means a specialty say that demand has been extensive and that buyers show a decided preference for securities which give a moderate return. In other words, they take up stocks whose prices and dividend records reflect a high standing in the investment field. It was learned yesterday that at least one prominent odd-lot house is preparing for heavier business than in the past. Arrangements have been partially completed for moving into more commodious quarters and the staff of clerks is being steadily enlarged.

No Dividend from Earnings.

The Adams Express Company put into operation yesterday the reduced dividend rate which was forecast in a letter to stockholders last December. By ordering a payment of $1.50 a share in place of the $3 disbursement made for each previous quarter since 1909 the Trustees not only cut the former rate in half, but indicated that the company's income from operation had not been large enough to admit of any return at all from this source. The dividend was specified as a payment from revenue derived from investments. In announcing former quarterly distributions it was stated that part came from profits of the express business and part from investments. The companies are not prepared yet to make public the results of operation under the reduced rates put in force at the beginning of the month, but an inference drawn from remarks made at the offices is that the rather indifferent state of general business, combined with the lower charges, has tended to keep earnings down.

Traders Hesitate to Act.

A stock market which backs and fills within a narrow range is one which exasperates traders both large and small. There have been many attendants in commission houses this week who did no more than rock back and forth all day long in their chairs, striving vainly to decide whether to buy or sell. Some of them were incipient bulls without sufficient courage to test the value of their half-formed convictions, but stood ready to be persuaded by a really lively upturn that a profit waited for them on the buying side. In the same way hesitating bears waited for a demonstration of weakness to place their selling orders. Neither class found their desire gratified yesterday or the day before, or the day before that. It may not be said, however, that the market is devoid of opportunity, for profitable "turns" have been made by many. It is chiefly the bulls and the bears who failed to accept other chances that sit undecided as the prices change on the boards before them.

Little Reflection of the Holiday.

While the approaching holiday was spoken of in the Street yesterday as a factor in reducing business in stocks, not so much account was made of it as in sessions preceding holidays last year. Generally trading was so light then that a day's contraction was far more noticeable than in a period marked by daily totals of 500,000 shares or better.

Shareholders to Back R. R. Appeal.

A movement has been started by a number of holders of Pennsylvania Railroad stock to form an organization to support the appeal of Eastern railroads for a 5 per cent. increase in freight rates. Walter B. Atterbury, an attorney of 290 Broadway, has issued a call for a meeting of Pennsylvania Railroad security owners at the Hotel Touraine in Brooklyn at 8 A. M. to-morrow to consider the matter.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Oil Stocks Much Quieter and Price Movements Are Less Violent.

The oil stocks were irregular on the outside security markets yesterday and quiet in tone as compared with the earlier days of the week. Atlantic Refining continued to move over a wide range, with a difference of twenty points between the higher and lower prices. At the close the quotation was unchanged from the previous day's final figures, although at one time it was off 15 points. Later it sold up to 700 from which it receded to 695. Changes elsewhere throughout the list were lighter and about evenly divided between advances and declines.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Volume of Business Smaller in London—Shipping Shares Steady in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 12.—The Times says in its City article:

"The rate for daily money was unchanged, but terms for short fixtures were a trifle easier. The discount market was firm, bills being rather freely offered and three months' paper quoted slightly higher.

"The volume of business on the Stock Exchange continued to fall away; but although prices as a rule were rather lower at the close, the general tone of the markets was satisfactory. In many departments there were fewer movements of prices than had been the case for some time past. Investors resumed buying scrips of recent issues, and prices recovered the previous day's fall. Consols, however, closed dull on the news that the City of Pretoria was now in the market. Canadian Pacific Railway shares rallied after a dull opening. Wall Street lent little support to American shares at the close. The foreign market was idle and inclined to be dull, and the same remark applies to the foreign railway market."

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 86 francs 97½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—Shipping shares were steady, but weaker prices ruled in the other sections of the Boerse to-day.

Bank of France's Metal Holdings.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France, when issued to-morrow, will show an increase in gold in hand of 23,521,000 francs and a decrease of 940,000 francs in silver.

EXCHANGE TO RENEW BUCKETSHOP WAR

New Contract with Western Union Expected to Deprive Them of Board's Quotations.

WIRE COMPANY HESITATES

Not Yet Satisfied That It Will Be Able to Prevent "Leaks"—Shops Flourishing Up State.

In an effort to wipe out the bucketshop systems of the country, the New York Stock Exchange is taking steps to guard more carefully than ever before the transmission of stock and bond quotations between cities. A committee of members was appointed some time ago to draw up a new contract with the Western Union Telegraph Company, which handles quotations made on the Exchange, to replace one that has been in force for many years, and the attorneys of the telegraph company are at present studying the document as prepared. If its provisions are accepted by the telegraph authorities it will be practically impossible for bucketshop managers to get a wire service, because the Stock Exchange will exercise a censorship on all lines leading into security brokerage offices.

The contract was completed and submitted to the Western Union about a month ago. The committee that drew it up and the telegraph company's officers were unwilling to discuss the matter yesterday, but it is known that several clauses in the contract are not acceptable to the company as they now stand. It is believed in Wall Street that these clauses have to do with increasing the responsibility of the Western Union in distributing quotations, and that the company is not willing to shoulder the burden until a thorough examination has been made of the present service to brokerage houses to discover where "leaks" have been occurring.

The attention of the Stock Exchange was directed to the bucketshop situation last Summer by William C. Van Antwerp, one of the Board of Governors, and plans to destroy the illicit brokerage business were at once got under way. Mr. Van Antwerp had made a tour of up-State cities, during which he became convinced that bucketshop men in those places were reaping a harvest. He reported that in some bucketshops he had found in operation a bona fide telegraph service which delivered quotations within a few minutes after they had been made on the board room floor in New York. Some of the proprietors were willing to talk about their facilities, he said, and frankly told of the devious methods employed to obtain quotations by Western Union wires.

Under the present contract the Western Union engages to discontinue any service to an office which is proved to them to be a bucketshop. The Stock Exchange authorities have the right to report to the company any irregularities that are discovered and demand that they be corrected. The burden of proof lies on the Exchange, and the telegraph company is not obliged to take extraordinary precautions to prevent the running of lines into quarters which may harbor illegal brokerage business.

From what could be learned yesterday the new contract provides that the telegraph company must inform the Exchange of applications for wires which evidently are to be used by brokers. The Exchange wants the names and places of business of new firms applying for private lines, so that they may be investigated before the service is begun. The plan to be followed, it is said, closely resembles the methods of the Chicago Board of Trade in controlling the sale of its quotations.

The Stock Exchange sells its quotations to the Western Union, which distributes them through several sub-organizations to all parts of the country. The present contract stipulates that the Exchange can on twenty-four hours' notice terminate the agreement, the evident intention being to hold this possibility over the company to restrict the transmission of security prices to proper destinations. For years there have been occasional evidences of friction between the Exchange and telegraph officials over defects in the system, but laws have not been framed to cover the exact relations of telegraph companies to their clients and the Exchange has clung to the old order.

The Hughes Commission which investigated the Stock Exchange recommended that Federal statutes be enacted to fix the obligations of telegraph companies to the Exchange on an exact basis. The commission suggested that a law be passed providing that if a telegraph company had reasonable grounds for believing that it was supplying quotations to a bucket shop it should be held criminally liable equally with the proprietor of the bucket shop. Furthermore it was proposed to authorize these companies to refuse, upon mere suspicion that they were being sought for an unlawful business, to furnish quotations, and to compel them to refuse such service wherever there was reasonable ground for thinking that they were wanted for bucket-shop purposes.

In the absence of legislation the Stock Exchange set out to arrange with the telegraph company methods of its own for safeguarding its prices. The new contract does not, in its present form, contain the provision that relations between the company and the Exchange may be rescinded on twenty-four hours' notice.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Prices on the 9:30 o'clock call on the Consolidated Exchange showed irregularity, but with more advances than declines from Tuesday's final figures. There was a transaction on the call in American Beet Sugar at 25, the only market for that stock in Wall Street during the day. In the subsequent trading the market continued to advance, although the special weakness of New York Central at one caused some hesitation in the upward movements.

New England Commercial Barred Interlocking Directorates.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 11.—Stockholders of the New England Commercial Bank to-day voted to approve the recommendation of the trustees to liquidate and to accept the Newport Trust Company as liquidating agent, subject to the approval of the State Bank Examiners.

The bank was organized in 1818 and has done a flourishing business. Recently two of its leading officials died—William J. Vanderwood, for many years its cashier, and Capt. Joseph Cotton, a trustee. The institution is solvent, and the shares are at $50. The book value of shares is $53.

Article 12 of the bank's by-laws provides that no Director of any other bank shall be a Director of the New England Commercial. No stockholder was allowed to hold more than 100 shares.

Ohio Ouster Suits Charged to Plot on Part of Eastern Lines.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 11.—Charges that Eastern railroads were backing the prosecution of ouster suits against the New York Central, Hocking Valley, Toledo & Ohio Central, and Kanawha & Michigan Railroads were made at a hearing to-day before Gov. Cox, Attorney General Hogan, and members of the Ohio Utilities Commission.

Counsel for the defendant companies insisted that the decision of the Federal Court ordering the companies to dissolve their inter-ownership had done away with any possible necessity for prosecution of the cases in the State courts. The ouster proceeding was entered under the Valentine Anti-Trust act.

O. E. Harrison of Columbus was specifically mentioned as "representing outside parties." C. T. Lewis, counsel for the Lake Shore and Toledo & Ohio Central, made the charge.

Lawrence Maxwell, counsel for the Chesapeake & Ohio, said Godfrey M. Hymes of Boston, a Director of the Virginian Railroaad, had given great sums of money to "a Columbus attorney employed also by the State" to press the suits, because the Virginian Road wanted to gain an outlet to the lakes. No action was taken by the State officials to-day.

STEEL TRADE IMPROVED.

But Rate of Operation Is Still Far Under Capacity.

While further increase of buying is noted in the steel trade this week, there is doubt that the rate of increase will be steadily continued. Purchases of heavy products on a larger scale than has so far developed are needed to put the industry in a thoroughly healthy condition.

The Iron Age says:

> The signs of betterment in iron and steel markets are now read with little difficulty, and the larger steel manufacturers see the basis of a fair operation of their plants for from two to four months. Any misgivings as to the maintenance of the buying volume of recent weeks grows out of the stringent limiting of railroad purchases and the indications that the metal-working industries are still far from a healthy rate of operations. Most of the latter, having come to the steel mills to renew exhausted stocks, will not need to repeat these orders for some time.
>
> The Steel Corporation's statement of unfilled orders as of Jan. 31 more than met expectations in showing a gain of 331,000 tons in the month, after a year of losses. The January bookings were about 40,000 tons a day, and the shipments about 28,000 tons, or something less than a two-thirds operation. For the first week of February the new orders are reported to have averaged 50,000 tons a day.
>
> Thus far the business in the lighter forms of steel has exceeded that for the heavier products, and there must be much greater buying of rails, plates, and structural shapes to insure sustained operations at any close approach to capacity.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> New business in finished steel thus far in February seems to be holding its own very well with the enlarged volume of the market last month. In some directions further expansion is observed. Bookings with the United States Steel Corporation so far this month, it is understood, exceeded the January rate, when more than 300,000 tons were gained over shipments. This week the operations of the largest steel producer have been increased to almost 80 per cent. of steel capacity. Manufacturers are noting a better movement of plates and shapes, which have been somewhat behind other lines, and this better buying is ascribed principally to the covering of requirements for recent equipment orders.

Fall River Strike Settled.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 11.—Announcement of a settlement of the strike of the folders at the American Print Works was made to-day. The folders struck for increased pay six weeks ago and 1,400 operatives in other departments were made idle. The terms of settlement do not provide for increased pay, but the working schedule will be altered.

INCOME TAX MODIFICATION.

No Return of Income Derived from Dividends Now Required.

The Treasury Department will issue to-day a compilation, with index, of the income tax regulations heretofore put out from time to time. The volume is known as United States Internal Revenue Regulations No. 33, and also includes a copy of the income tax law.

It is dated Jan. 5, 1914, and at least one of the regulations has been reversed since it went to press. This is in regard to the much-mooted question whether a person having an aggregate net income of $3,000, part of which is from dividends, is required to make a return, although his income, apart from dividends, is less than $3,000. The Treasury Department stoutly maintained that he must do so until a few days ago, when the following new regulation was issued to Collectors of Internal Revenue:

> To Collectors of Internal Revenue:
>
> Referring to that provision of the income tax law which reads as follows:
>
> Provided, further, that persons liable for the normal income tax only, on their own account or in behalf of another, shall not be required to make return of the income derived from dividends on the capital stock or from the net earnings of corporations, joint stock companies or associations, and insurance companies taxable upon their net income as hereinafter provided, > you are informed that returns of individuals, when such individuals are subject to the normal tax only, need not include the income derived from the dividends or net earnings referred to above. When individuals are subject to the additional tax, such income derived from said dividends or net earnings must be shown on the return.
>
>
> Persons having an annual net income of $3,000 or more, including the income derived from dividends or net earnings of corporations, &c., but whose total net income is less than $20,000, and whose net income, exclusive of the income derived from dividends or net earnings of such coroporations, &c., is less than $3,000 for the taxable year, ($2,500 for the year 1913,) shall not be required to make a return of annual net income
>
> Returns which have been or may be received from persons subject to the normal tax only, in which such dividends are included, need not be changed to meet the provisions of these regulations
>
> All previous rulings of the department, including the general regulations now in press, are amended accordingly

The regulations as to the incomes of husband and wife, which are almost universally regarded by legal experts as contrary to the law, have been left unchanged in the compilation.

The regulations also provide for the deduction of all interest paid within the year on personal indebtedness of the taxpayer "incurred in the conduct of business," although the law says "all interest paid within the year by a taxable person on indebtedness" without such limitation.

Southern Pacific Company

Treasurer's Office, 165 Broadway
A. K. VAN DEVENTER, Treasurer

New York, N. Y., February 10, 1914.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY:

Pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Directors, adopted February 5, 1914, but subject to the increase of the authorized capital stock of the Company by the stockholders at the special meeting which has been called to convene April 8, 1914, or at any adjournment thereof, and subject also to the timely completion of such further corporate or other proceedings as the Company may deem advisable, the privilege will be given to the holders of the stock of the Company to subscribe, at par, with an adjustment of accrued interest, upon the terms and conditions hereinafter stated, on or before April 22, 1914, for an amount of the Convertible Bonds hereinafter described, equal to twenty per cent. (20%) of their respective holdings of the stock of the Company as registered on its books at 3 o'clock P. M., March 9, 1914. The bonds referred to will be Five Per Cent. Twenty-Year Convertible Gold Bonds of an authorized issue not exceeding $55,000,000. The bonds will be convertible (except as hereinafter provided) at the option of the holder at any time after issue and on or before June 1, 1924, into paid-up shares of the Common Stock of the Company at $100 per share, with an adjustment of accrued interest and current dividend. The entire issue, but not a part thereof, may be called for redemption by the Company on June 1, 1919, or on any semi-annual interest day thereafter, on ninety days' notice, at 105 per cent. of the face value thereof and accrued interest, but if so called during the conversion period, the bonds may be converted up to thirty days prior to the redemption date named in any such notice.

The bonds will be payable on June 1, 1934, and will bear interest from June 1, 1914, at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on June 1st and December 1st. Both principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of the United States of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any tax or taxes (other than Federal Income Tax) which the Company may be required to pay thereon or to retain therefrom under any present or future law of the United States of America, or of any State, county or municipality therein. They will be issued as coupon bonds in denominations of $500 and of $1,000, with the privilege of registration as to principal and exchangeable for registered bonds without coupons, each for the principal sum of $500 or any multiple thereof that may be authorized by the Board of Directors. The registered bonds will be exchangeable for coupon bonds.

Warrants signed by the Treasurer or an Assistant Treasurer will be issued to each stockholder as soon as possible after the closing of the books on March 9, 1914, specifying the amount of bonds in respect of which the stockholder is entitled to a subscription privilege. Warrants entitling the holder to subscribe as hereinafter stated will be issued only for amounts of $500 or multiples thereof. For each fraction of a $500 bond in respect of which a holder is entitled to a subscription privilege, a fractional warrant will be issued. After April 18, 1914, all fractional warrants will be void and of no effect. No subscription may be made on a fractional warrant, but if surrendered on or before April 18, 1914, to the Treasurer, with other fractional warrants aggregating in amount at least $500, a subscription warrant for a $500 bond will be issued in exchange, and if the surrendered fractional warrants include a fraction in excess of $500, a new fractional warrant will be issued for such fraction. Fractional warrants desired by stockholders to complete full bonds, or fractional warrants which the stockholders desire to dispose of, must be bought or sold in the market, as the Company will not sell or purchase such fractions.

On the back of these warrants will be two forms. In case it is desired to subscribe, the first form is to be filled out and signed by the stockholders or by their assigns; but, in case it is desired to dispose of the subscription privilege, the second form, which is an assignment, is to be filled out and signed by the stockholders.

Where a warrant authorizes a subscription to two or more bonds, stockholders who may wish to subscribe for a portion of the bonds covered by the warrant and dispose of the balance, or who may wish to dispose of a portion of the bonds covered by a warrant to one person and the balance to another, should return their warrants to this office on or before April 18, 1914, to be exchanged for other warrants, specifying in writing the number of warrants desired in exchange and the number of bonds to be covered by each. In no case, however, on such exchange will a fractional warrant be issued.

The price of subscription to each $1,000 bond, payable in New York funds, in instalments, is as follows:

At the time of making subscription on or before April 22, 1914	$333.32
On or before June 1, 1914	333.32
On or before July 10, 1914	333.36

These payments include adjustment of accrued interest.

Subscriptions may be paid in full at the time of making the subscriptions on or before April 22, 1914, in which case the amount payable will be $994.58 per $1,000 bond, which includes adjustment of accrued interest; or, after the payment of the first instalment on or before April 22, 1914, as above provided, the remainder of the subscription may be paid in full on or before June 1, 1914, by paying $664.88 per $1,000 bond, which includes adjustment of accrued interest.

The price of subscription to each $500 bond will be one-half of the price of subscription to the $1,000 bond and will be payable in the same manner.

The warrants must be returned to this office by the stockholders, or by the persons to whom assigned, on or before April 22, 1914, accompanied by the payment of the first instalment or the full amount payable; and all warrants not so returned, with such payment, on or before said date, shall be void and of no value.

Failure to pay the second or third instalment when and as payable will operate as a forfeiture of all rights in respect of the subscription and the instalments previously paid.

The Treasurer will, on surrender of the warrants and payment of the first instalment, issue receipts, which shall be transferable by delivery merely, and which, unless previously paid in full, must be returned on or before June 1, 1914, accompanied by the payment of the second instalment, or, at the option of the holder, accompanied by the payment of the full amount remaining payable, for endorsement thereon, as the case may be, of the payment of the second instalment, or of the payment of the full amount remaining payable; and such receipts, unless previously paid in full, must again be returned on or before July 10, 1914, accompanied by the payment of the third instalment.

Full paid receipts for bonds will be exchangeable for the engraved bonds as soon as the latter are ready for delivery.

No subscription or assignment of this privilege will be recognized unless made on the forms of the Company.

No holder of stock of the Company shall be entitled to any of the above-mentioned bonds, unless the terms of subscription herein specified are fully complied with.

The subscription and respective instalment payments must be made at the dates and in accordance with the provisions stated above. Checks or drafts in payment of subscriptions must be drawn in favor of Southern Pacific Company, in New York funds, and for the exact amounts covering the respective instalments.

By order of the Board of Directors.

A. K. VAN DEVENTER, Treasurer.

STRICT REGULATION FOR PRIVATE BANKS

Law Proposed by Van Tuyl Commission Provides New Safeguards for Depositors.

LARGER BANKS EXEMPTED

Supervision Transferred to State Superintendent of Banks and Higher Reserves Demanded.

The Van Tuyl Commission to revise the State banking laws had under consideration yesterday at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce a draft prepared by its counsel of proposed changes in the law. The draft is to be further revised before final adoption, for which the commission will meet on Feb. 20, but it is not expected that any material cahnges will be made in its provisions.

The principal provisions under consideration yesterday were those relating to private bankers and savings banks. The regulation of private bankers has been brought sharply to public attention recently by the Siegel failure. The proposed amendments transfer the supervision of private bankers from the State Controller to the Superintendent of Banks and make it more stringent. It is intended to affect chiefly the bankers who deal with foreigners and the poorer classes.

Such firms as J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are exempted by general provisions which stipulate that it shall not apply to private bankers in cities of the first class "if such banker has kept permanently invested in this State in his banking business for a period of twelve months a capital of at least $200,000 over and above all his liabilities as such private banker; that he will not pay interest on a deposit balance of less than $1,000, and that the average of the separate deposits received during the twelve months preceding is $500 or more." In second-class cities the requirement is $100,000 capital, and in third-class cities $50,000.

Private bankers so exempted are required to keep reserves to the amount of 20 per cent. of their deposits in first-class cities and 10 per cent. elsewhere, of which 1 per cent. must be kept in vault and 9 per cent. may be kept on deposit, subject to call. They must deposit with the Superintendent of Banks securities legal for savings bank investment equal to 20 per cent. of their deposits and in any case to the value of $5,000, which shall be registered in the name of the Superintendent as trustee for the depositors. Each banker must obtain from the Superintendent a certificate entitling him to carry on the business.

In case of failure or suspension of any such banker, depositors shall have preferred claims against the proceeds of the securities deposited with the Superintendent and any assets derived from the investment of the deposits or the capital. They shall also share pro rata with general creditors in any other assets of the private banker.

In the draft relating to savings banks the contentious point of the establishment of large surpluses is compromised on a basis that is said to be satisfactory to all the interests involved. The surplus is called a guarantee fund, and all banks are required to accumulate gradually such a fund equal to at least 10 per cent. of the deposits.

If at the close of any dividend period the guarantee fund of any savings bank is less than 10 per cent. of the deposits there shall be deducted from its net earnings for such period and credited to its guarantee fund 5 per cent. of its net earnings during 1914, 6 per cent. during 1915, 7 per cent. during 1916, 8 per cent. during 1917, 9 per cent. during 1918, 10 per cent. during 1919, and 10 per cent. each year thereafter. Dividends paid to depositors are to be regulated accordingly, but no bank shall be required to reduce its dividends below 3½ per cent.

The maximum guarantee fund (surplus) which a bank may hold without declaring an extra dividend is increased from 15 per cent. in the present law to 25 per cent. In all cases surpluses must be calculated on the market prices of securities held.

The draft also defines the powers and duties of the Superintendent of Banks, and makes recommendations regarding banks of discount and deposit, trust companies, investment companies, safe deposit companies, personal loan companies and loan brokers, savings and loan associations, land banks, and credit unions.

Subscription List will open on February 11th, 1914, and close on or before February 14th, 1914.

M'REYNOLDS SUES SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Attorney General Files Action to End the Road's Control of the Central Pacific Lines.

CITES TWO LAWS IN CASE

Merger Attacked as Violation of Old Pacific Railroad Act as Well as the Anti-Trust Statute.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 11.—Attorney General McReynolds filed a suit here to-day to end the Southern Pacific's control of the Central Pacific Railway and its subsidiary Pacific Coast States lines. Cancellation of the Southern Pacific's ninety-nine-year lease and a perpetual injunction were asked for.

In addition to the two railroads, other defendants named are Union Trust Company of New York, trustee for the Southern Pacific under a mortgage and holder of the stock of the Central Pacific; William Sproule, Julius Kruttschnitt, Robert Goelet, Cornelius N. Bliss, Walter P. Bliss, Henry W. de Forest, J. Horace Harding, Charles W. Harkness, Henry E. Huntington, James N. Jarvie, Ogden Mills, and L. F. Loree.

The petition alleges that the two roads are operated under the same management and that they descriminate in favor of each other in violation of the Sherman law. It also charges that the alleged combination exists in violation of the so-called Pacific Railroad laws, which, it sets forth, were designed by Congress to provide a continuous, connected line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Coast, with equal advantages to all other roads.

It further asserted that the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific are competitive lines, and that the Central Pacific forms a natural through connection at Ogden for the Union Pacific, and that a restoration of competitive conditions will give the Union Pacific a through route for transcontinental traffic and for traffic to the Orient by steamship connections at San Francisco.

"Through its control of the Central Pacific Railway Company," says the petition, "the Southern Pacific Company prevents joint traffic or pro-rating arrangements between the former and the Union Pacific, naturally its most important transcontinental and interstate connection. The Southern Pacific Company adjusts its freight rates and passenger fares on traffic originating in the Central Pacific territory north of San Francisco, so as to discriminate against transportation eastward over the joint transcontinental route of the Central and Union Pacific Railroads and other Eastern connections, thereby preveting competition and denying equal advantages and facilities as to rates, time, and transportation."

S. P. TO SELL $55,000,000 BONDS.

To be Convertible Into Stock at Par if Shareholders So Decide.

Directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad formally approved plans yesterday for offering to stockholders at par an issue of $55,000,000 of 5 per cent. twenty-year bonds, which will be convertible into stock at par at any time during the life of the issue.

To provide stock to meet the possible conversion the board voted to ask the approval of stockholders to an increase of $20,000,000 in the amount authorized. This, with the stock now authorized, but never issued, will make up the $55,000,000 needed to care for the new bonds. Stockholders have been summoned to vote on the stock increase at a special meeting to be held in Beechmont, Ky., on April 8. The privilege of subscribing to the new bonds does not expire until April 22.

So certain were bond dealers that the entire $55,000,000 would be quickly sold that Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who formed a syndicate to underwrite the issue, were almost overwhelmed by applications for membership. The bonds were quoted "when issued" on the Curb at 103⅛@104 yesterday, at which figure the subscription rights accrueing to the stock have a marketable value.

Although the terms under which this issue was to be underwritten were agreed upon by the railroad and the bankers many months ago, it was learned yesterday that the recent improvement in the security markets had resulted in a reduction in the commission to be paid on part of the bonds that will save to the Southern Pacific $175,000. When the Southern Pacific put out its $20,000,000 of notes last year the members of the underwriting syndicate were promised an opportunity to participate to the same extent in the first large bond offering at 2 per cent. below the public offering price. On $20,000,000 of the $55,000,000, accordingly, the underwriting profit will be 2 per cent. On the balance the bankers have fixed the commission at 1½ per cent., although the contract made by the railroad last year called for an allowance of 2 per cent.

It is understood that members of the note syndicate will be favored in the allotment of the participation in the new bond offering, which will make it necessary to reduce the subscriptions of other applicants to a very small proportion of the amount asked for. The response to an invitation extended to foreign bankers was particularly heavy, applications for more than the entire amount offered having resulted by cable immediately.

The funds to be raised by the new bond issue will be used as follows:

To pay one-year notes due June 15 and other current indebtedness	$30,500,000
Due for new equipment bought	3,000,000
Additions and betterments	21,500,000
Total	$55,000,000

Shareholders of Southern Pacific are to be allowed to buy the new bonds up to 20 per cent. of their stock holdings. The Pennsylvania is the largest single holder of Southern Pacific, having acquired from the Union Pacific $38,250,000 recently in exchange for its holdings in Baltimore & Ohio. It is thought that the Pennsylvania will not exercise its right to subscribe to upward of $8,000,000 of the new issue, but will sell its stock rights.

ATTACHMENT IN B. & M. SUIT

Writ Is Served on J. P. Morgan & Co. as the Road's Fiscal Agents.

The efforts of the Boston & Maine to take care of its $10,000,000 of short term notes that matured on Feb. 3 by obtaining the unanimous consent of the holders to an extension of time are threatened with defeat by an attachment for $10,000 granted by Supreme Court Justice Giegerich yesterday. The attachment was served by the Sheriff's office on J. P. Morgan & Co., as the fiscal agent in this city of the Boston & Maine, at the request of attorneys for the estate of Mrs. R. S. Blumenthal.

It has been said by representatives of the Boston & Maine that unless all of the holders of the $10,000,000 of notes which fell due on Feb. 3 would agree to accept an extension to June 1 the company would not be able to provide for any of the holders. It is reported that 85 per cent. of the outstanding notes have been turned in to the bankers to be extended, and that others have been promised conditionally. promised conditionally.

A representative of the Blumenthal estate said that suit had been brought to recover the amount of the note on the theory that the executors had no right to agree to an extension. No application for a receivership, which needs the signature of three creditors, has been made.

OBJECTS TO KNOX PLAN.

Stockholder Asks Injunction Against Use of Trade Mark.

Justice Blackmar of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, reserved decision yesterday after a hearing in the suit of Charles E. Metzger for an injunction to restrain Col. Edward M. Knox and the stockholders of the Knox Hat Manufacturing Company from ratifying an agreement with the E. M. Knox Retail Hat Company, purporting to give the retail company the right to put the Knox trade mark or label in all hats imported and bought from other manufacturers.

Metzger is a minority stockholder in the manufacturing company. A year ago he tried to have the Supreme Court appoint a receiver for the two Knox companies to prevent the ratification of the disputed agreement. Justice Crane denied the application. The plaintiff asserts that the agreement does not protect the interests of the manufacturing company.

HOOSIER AUTO CLUB URGES SAFE DRIVING

Issues an Appeal to "All Good Motorists"—Ferry Lines Still Running Near By.

One of the automobile clubs which is active at present in a campaign to bring about safer conditions of the streets is that of Indianapolis. It has just issued the following announcement under the head of "An appeal to all good motorists":

"The Hoosier Motor Club wants to call your attention to street traffic. There are certain laws and rules laid down to protect the public; there are more people afoot than in cars or vehicles. Their rights are as sacred as yours. The traffic officers are for your protection as well as theirs. Obey them. At street crossings downtown stop just before reaching the property line, indicate the direction you wish to go, watch the officer and obey his signals. In this you assist the general traffic and incidentally yourself. Keep your muffler closed. See that your lights are lit in time. Watch your speedometer; the limit is fifteen miles per hour. The club is trying to conduct a campaign of education, and it is easier to learn willingly than to have to gain by the hard knocks of experience. Watch that you obey the traffic laws and rules. Report to us disobedience of them. Help us in our wish to make Indianapolis the best regulated city in this respect in the world."

⁂

The following ferry lines in the vicinity of New York have notified the Bureau of Tours of the Automobile Club of America that the were still operating and would continue to do so as long as the weather permitted:

Garrison to West Point, N. Y.; Newburg to Beacon, N. Y.; Rondout to Sleightsburg, N. Y.; Rhinebeck to Kingston, N. Y.; New London to Groton, Conn.; Jamestown to Newport, R. I.

Boats are operating on a schedule of three days a week to New London, Sag Harbor, Shelter Island, and Greenport. Other ferries across the Sound have been discontinued for the Winter.

⁂

The Electric Vehicle Association of America has found its work in connection with the promotion of electric motor cars and trucks so voluminous that it has been necessary to establish the office of permanent Executive Secretary and inaugurate a system which would permit the centring and rapid dispatch of the association's work. Therefore, A. Jackson Marshall, who has had long experience in the lighting and central station fields, has been appointed Executive Secretary, and new permanent headquarters have been established at the United Engineering Society's Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

⁂

The sale of twenty two-ton electric trucks to the Postal Transfer Service, Incorporated, which moves, broadly speaking, all of the United States mail below Forty-second Street, was announced yesterday by one of the truck companies. The endurance of the electric vehicle under peculiarly exacting conditions of service has been shown in the case of the Motor Delivery Company of New York, which has had as many as twenty-eight machines in service since 1909. These machines in 1913 made 336,000 miles in 304 days.

GIRL TOURIST GETS IN.

But Immigration Law Annoyed Stella Kellett's Relatives.

When James A. Stewart, manager of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company at Valparaiso, arrived yesterday morning on the Royal Mail Steam Packet Trent, with his two nieces, Miss Isabelle and Miss Stella Kellett, he was surprised to find that the immigration officials would not allow Miss Stella to land because she was only 14, and he had no papers to show that he had been appointed guardian by her parents. In vain Mr. Stewart showed his passport signed by the British Minister at Santiago, Chile, and his credentials from the Pacific Steam Navigation Company. The Immigration Inspector was inexorable.

"The law is the law," he said, "and must be obeyed. It states clearly that no child under 16 can be admitted into the country unless accompanied by its parents or legal guardian."

Mrs. Mary Thompson of 460 West Forty-ninth Street, the girls' aunt, who met the steamer at the pier with her daughter, offered to give the immigration authorities any security that might be required for the Misses Kellett, who were to spend a week at her home.

Finally the Misses Kellett, Mr. Stewart, and Mrs. Thompson and her daughter, with the assistant purser, went on a special tug to Ellis Island. Meantime, Lloyd B. Sanderson, General Agent for the Pacific Steam Navigation Company in this country, telephoned to Acting Commissioner of Immigration Byron H. Uhl, and also requested Sir Courtenay Bennett, the British Consul General, to see what could be done in the matter. On the arrival of the tug at the Immigration Bureau the Board of Special Inquiry decided that Miss Stella Kellett should be released in the care of her aunt, Mrs. Thompson.

"It seems to me that the whole proceedings were rather absurd," Mr. Stewart said later. "I thought that my passport and papers would be a sufficient introduction. When I told my nieces that I would take them to England via New York, to give them a peep at 'the land of the free,' I had no idea that it would prove to be such a hornet's nest. The view of the harbor as we went to Ellis Island was quite interesting, but cold—very cold."

Capt. W. G. Mason of the Trent said that the changes in temperature were very sudden coming up from Colon. On Tuesday the passengers were walking the decks in flannels. At night there was a snowstorm, and early yesterday morning the temperature was down nearly to zero.

THIRD PANEL DINES

With Foreman Restored by Grifenhagen and at a New Hotel.

More than four hundred members of the third panel of the Sheriff's Jury attended a dinner given by the panel last night at the Hotel Biltmore. The dinner in former years has been held at the Hotel Knickerbocker.

William E. Burke, present foreman of the panel, was removed by Julius Harburger and was reappointed by Sheriff Grifenhagen at the beginning of the year. Harburger denied at the time he removed Burke that his action was due to the part Burke took in transferring the dinner from the Knickerbocker to the Biltmore.

Foreman Burke was seated last night at table 28 with Charles F. Murphy. Others at this table were Edward E. McCall, Ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, Judge Mulqueen, Charles P. Higgins, Thomas F. McAvoy, and Thomas F. Smith.

James E. Gaffney attended the dinner, but District Attorney Whitman who, it was said, had acepted an invitation, did not apear.

Among the speakers were Judge Julius M. Mayer, the Rev. John J. Hughes, Alfred J. Talley, Abraham S. Gilbert, Justice Philbin and Sheriff Grifenhagen.

WOULD TAX AGENCIES.

Klaw & Erlanger Think High Rate Would Drive Out Ticket Speculators

Klaw & Erlanger, in a letter written to Mayor Mitchel, announced last night that they were opposed to the idea of establishing a central agency, as suggested by Assistant District Attorney Train, for the sale of theatre tickets. William A. Brady objects also, and both firms make it plain that they will not support the plan advocated by Mr. Train.

Klaw & Erlanger submitted a new plan to Mayor Mitchel which they said they believed would put an end to all ticket speculation. The theatrical managers propose that a license fee of 50 shall be charged to every theatre for the privilege of selling tickets, and that the same should be imposed upon every ticket agency. In other words, an agency handling the tickets of two theatres would be required to pay $500, while one handling the tickets of ten theatres would pay $2,500. As the agencies now handle some forty or more theatres, it would be impossible for them to pay the new license and operate profitably.

"We are advised," said Marc Klaw last night, "that the taxing power of the State has authority to license any business, the nature of the license and the amount being in the discretion of the Legislature. Every theatre we operate pays a license. Why not have the Legislature direct that any agency selling tickets be licensed for each theatre for which it sells? The Legislature could vest the power in the License Bureau of the city."

"The ticket speculating business never will be disposed of in a satisfactory way by establishing a central agency," said W. A. Brady last night, "for any such proposition involves the fostering of the same old graft, not its elimination. For my own part, I want to sell the tickets for my theatres to the public direct, through the box office, at box office prices. I do not wish to be any part of the means of levying tribute upon the public through any of the existing agencies, or any central agency originating in the mind of an individual representing a single group of managers."

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

West End Avenue Apartment in a $1,250,000 Trade—Vincent Astor to Build Apartment Houses on Broadway Block Front—The Schermerhorn Estate Squares East Side Parcel—Important Harlem Sale Pending.

There was genuine activity in the realty market yesterday and again apartment house transactions were prominent, but instead of being in the upper Washington Heights section, the centre of activity was shifted to the choice residential locality around Eighty-sixth Street. In that vicinity two interesting features developed, one being the sale of a new West End Avenue apartment and the other the announcement that Vincent Astor has decided to improve the Broadway block front on the east side between Eighty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets with a high class apartment.

This is one of the Astor holdings in that part of the city which has never been improved. The proposed building will run back on both Eighty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets 150 feet, making it one of the largest houses of its type in the city.

The apartment sale involved the newly completed twelve-story building at 562 to 568 West End Avenue, 22 feet north of Eighty-seventh Street, on the east side. It was erected and opened last season by the Aeon Realty Company, of which Sumner Gerard is President, covering a plot 78 by 100. It has been purchased by M. Kroenke for investment. In part payment he gave four old four-story dwellings at 40 to 46 East Thirty-first Street, between Madison and Fourth Avenues, covering a plot 75 by 98.9. Mr. Gerard is having plans prepared for erecting on the site a sixteen-story commercial building. The transaction involved about $1,250,000 in the realty exchanged.

The brokers who negotiated the deal were Derschuch & Co.

Purchase by Schermerhorn Estate.

A deal of interest in Twenty-fourth Street, which will involve the improvement of a big Twenty-third Street building in the old shopping block between Fifth and Sixth Avenues has just been made by the estate of William S. Schermerhorn, which has purchased the old four-story building at 26 West Twenty-fourth Street from the estate of Alfred L. Manierre.

Twenty years ago when the Schermerhorn estate erected the eight-story building lately occupied by the Flint furniture firm, an effort was made to buy this Twenty-fourth Street parcel, but the owners would only part with it on a ground lease. The Flint furniture building was then erected covering a frontage of 61.3 on Twenty-third Street and running through to Twenty-fourth Street at 24 and 28, forming two "L's" around the Manierre plot.

The latter fronts 19 feet on Twenty-fourth Street by 80 deep and its possession now gives the Schermerhorn estate a frontage there of 61.3, equal to that on Twenty-third Street. Henry J. Hardenbergh, the architect, who designed the eight-story building is preparing plans to build an eight-story structure on the plot and combine it with the larger structure, which will virtually be rebuilt.

The transaction was closed by the firm of L. J. Carpenter.

Big West Harlem Deal Pending.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of the Oneonta, a six-story apartment house on the northwest corner of 125th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, owned by John O'Brien.

The structure which occupies a plot fronting 100 feet on 125th Street and 99.11 feet on St. Nicholas Avenue is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $230,000, $105,000 on the land and $125,000 on the structure.

Another deal on the same block involving about $90,000 is also pending and will probably be closed this week.

Another Dyckman Deal.

An investing client of William A. White & Sons has purchased from the Post Avenue Construction Company, of which John J. Dowling is President, the three five-story apartments, 123, 125, and 127 Post Avenue, 25 by 100 each. These houses are close to the 207th Street subway station and in a district that has been very active during the last few weeks.

The adjoining vacant plots were sold last week to a builder by the Manatee Company.

Buyers for Tenement Property.

Morris Gluck has purchased for investment from Mrs. M. Richmond the five-story triple flat occupying a plot 26 by 80 on the northwest corner of Eighty-first Street and Avenue A. M. Kite was the broker in the transaction.

Philip Simon has sold the five-story tenement, 505 West 135th Street, occupying a plot 50 by 99.11, adjoining the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue. The buyer is an investor.

Bronx Borough Sales.

W. E. & W. I. Brown, Incorporated, have sold for Mrs. Minnie Kenny the store and dwelling at 455 East 167th Street, north side, 152 feet east of Park Avenue, size 20 by 140.

$300,000 for Brooklyn Apartments.

W. Myron Reynolds, investment broker and manager of the Reynolds Estates, is having designs prepared for a twelve-story high-class fireproof apartment house, to occupy the block bounded by Bridge Street, High Street, and Mack Place, fronting on the plaza of the Brooklyn approach to the Manhattan Bridge.

The plot is 100 feet front by 100 feet deep, and the first story will contain a photo-play theatre and stores, with arcade, the eleven upper stories being laid out in one and two-room suites. Horace Greeley Knapp, the architect, estimates the cost at $250,000.

Shampan & Shampan have completed plans for an apartment house to be erected on the north side of St. James Street, 253 feet west of Gates Avenue, for the G. & M. Improvement Company as owners. The structure will cost about $50,000.

Staten Island.

Louis I. Harris has purchased from the Staten Island Beach Land and Improvement Company the Miller Hotel property at South Beach. The plot, which comprises about 250 by 260 on land and the same amount under water, has been held at about $60,000. Extensive improvements will be made to the hotel and on the water front by the buyer.

New Jersey.

Frederick A. Farley sold at the Farley Estate, Short Hills, to P. Carter Bell, one and one-tenth acres; to John A. Kalb, two-fifths acre, and to H. W. Murray and A. S. Hegeman, one-half acre each.

Theodore C. Coe of Newark has purchased from Harry Bernstein the five six-family apartments at 230 to 238 Nineteenth Street, East Orange, for about $60,000. Joseph Isaacs negotiated the sale.

Westchester County.

O'Connor & McCann sold for L. V. Ensinger to a client his new house on Hamilton Avenue, Rochelle Heights. The property was held at $20,000.

Mortgage Loans.

Smith & Phelps have placed a first mortgage loan of $7,000 on the four-story flat with store, size 20 by 80, known as 152 St. Ann's Avenue, and sold the second mortgage of $9,500, covering the five-story, fifty-foot apartment, situated on the south side of 161st Street, beginning 25 feet west of Jackson Avenue.

Gotham Bank to Move.

The Gotham National Bank, now located at 990 Eighth Avenue, has leased the two-story building, facing Columbus Circle, at 1,819 and 1,821 Broadway, which will be extensively altered to meet the lessee's purpose. Cross & Brown negotiated the lease.

To Change Name of Third Ave.

Alderman Robitzek introduced the following resolution at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Aldermen: "Resolved, That the name of Third Avenue from 175th Street to Tremont Avenue be changed to Municipal Square West; that the name of Tremont Avenue from Third Avenue to Arthur Avenue be changed to Municipal Square North; that the name of Arthur Avenue from Tremont Avenue to East 175th Street be changed to Municipal Square East, and that the name of East 175th Street from Arthur Avenue to Third Avenue be changed to Municipal Square South." All of the above-mentioned streets and avenues are located in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York.

2,761 Deeds Filed in Queens.

There is every prospect of an active speculative market in the Borough of Queens this Spring if the figures of the County Clerk's office can be taken as an indication. During the first month of the year, 2,761 deeds were recorded.

This record has only been exceeded twice before, first during the boom in Long Island real estate in January, 1907, when the total reached 3,088 and last year, when there was a revival in realty sales following a long period of inactivity and the total was 2,829. With the year beginning under such encouraging conditions the realty experts believe that there is no question that 1914 will establish a new record.

Commercial Leases.

Jacob Finkelstein has leased for the estate of Martin Shrenkeisen the store and basement for a long term of years in the building on the northwest corner of Canal and Elizabeth Streets, to H. H. Silverman for his wholesale hardware business. The store and basement consist of 7,000 square feet.

Schindler & Liebler have leased for the estate of A. Dugro, the store at 61 East 125th Street, for a term of years to the Michigan Condensed Milk Company.

Spear & Co. have leased for Howard Vogel, of Vogel Brothers, 12,500 square feet in 304-306 West Forty-second Street, to E. Leins for a term of years; for the Union Square Realty Company, the store and basement in 18 East Sixteenth Street to Walker & Helsler and H. Terr & Co.

James Kyle & Sons have rented the four-story and basement building 725 Lexington Avenue for a term of years; extensive alterations are to be made for new tenant.

J. G. White and Company have leased for Vincent Astor the store, basement and sub-basement, 550 Broadway to H. P. Friedman & Co., for ten years.

Realty Notes.

A meeting of the West Side Taxpayers Association has been called for Friday evening at Heinebund Hall, 267 West Thirty-fourth Street.

J. C. Hough & Co., were the brokers in the sale of 503 and 505 West 124th Street.

Moore, Schutte & Co., negotiated the trade involving 2,266 Amsterdam Avenue.

The annual entertainment and reception of the United Real Estate Owners Association will take place this evening at Terrace Garden.

SPOONER ASSAILS NEW WILSON BILLS

Ex-Senator Calls Administration's Business Measures "The Five Pups."

LIKENS THEM TO MANACLES

Tells Silk Manufacturers That If They Pass Merchants Will Be in a Straitjacket.

Ex-United States Senator John C. Spooner of Wisconsin last night bitterly attacked the policies of the Wilson Administration regarding so-called "Big Business." Mr Spooner was the chief speaker at the forty-second annual dinner of the Silk Association of America at the Hotel Astor. More than 700 members and guests of the association were present.

Charles Cheney, President of the association, acted as toastmaster. In the course of his remarks he alluded to the many difficulties encountered in the past year by the silk manufacturers of the country. He told of the efforts made by the association to obtain a fair hearing at Washington while tariff matters were under consideration, and also alluded to the labor troubles in Paterson and other silk centres.

Mr. Spooner, in the course of his speech, said that he had voted for the Sherman anti-trust law, but that when he did so he did not know as much about it as he did at present.

"The purpose," said the speaker, "was to benefit the entire country and its trade and commerce, but the law was singularly misconstrued from the time it was passed until the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases."

Mr. Spooner explained that the Sherman bill as it came to the Senate from the committee room of Senator Sherman was utterly unlike the bil which later passed the Senate and the House. He said that the original measure made practical combinations in restraint of trade illegal, and the words "trade" and "commerce" were not in it at all. Mr. Spooner decried the agitation for free and unrestricted competition and exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, such competition is the death of trade and commerce. Every one of the great trusts, so often referred to, is built upon the graves of smaller, once prosperous concerns, which were done to death by free and unrestricted competition."

Mr. Spooner then referred to the five measures of the Wilson Administration regulating business, which commonly are called the "five brothers."

"Five brothers—I call them five pups," said the speaker amid laughter and aplause. "If they are made into law, what will be the situation? The business of the United States—yours and everybody else's—will be in a straitjacket. Business will be manacled. It can not be otherwise. It is of the utmost consequence to the people of the United States that industrial liberty, in its rue sense, shall be occorded to the business of the Unietd States.

"Here is an industrial trade commission bill. You know I am afraid of commissions. The daughters of the horse leech have become celebrated in history as eternally crying: 'Give, give, give,' but they are not a circumstance to the Federal commissions in their demand on business for 'More, more, more,' always seeking more power, and they generally get it.

"Just think of this commission as it has been characterized in an interview by the President himself, a 'smelling commission.' It is to smell out the rat, and following, like the dog, the odor, is to lie in wait for the rat and catch it."

Mr. Spooner then said that under the proposed bill all business corporations in the United States would be obliged from time to time to furnish to the commission such information, statements, and records of their organization, business, and conduct to such a degree and extent as might be prescribed by the commission and that the latter body would have access to all records, books, and accounts of such corporations.

The speaker pointed out that failure to comply with the orders of the commission was made a misdemeanor, punishable upon conviction by a fine of not more than $1,000 for every day of such failure or neglect.

"I always supposed," said the speaker, "that the records of private corporations, so far as the Constitution was concerned, were private. This is a bill to abolish all privacy in the conduct of business, large or small, in the United States, and the like of it you will not find on the statute books of any country under the bending sky. It is the Inquisition come back again, in what you have been proud to consider the broadest, freest Government in the world."

The speaker then took up the labor question.

"I proclaim to-night," continued Mr. Spooner, "the principle of the open shop. It is an invasion of the rights of the employer for any body of outsiders, however strong or however vicious, to attempt to dictate to him."

William H. Berry, Collector of Customs at Philadelphia, the next speaker, took exception to Mr. Spooner's criticism of the Wilson Administration. He insisted that the object of the bills regulating business was not to oppress any legitimate business interest or to check any legitimate activity, but simply to see that the weak were protected from injustice, and that little business was not crushed by unfair competition.

Among the other speakers were Justice Victor J. Dowling of the Appellate Division and United States Senator Hughes of New Jersey.

RUBBER MAKES SMOKY FIRE.

Little Blaze in Times Building Quickly Was Drowned Out.

A little fire in the sub-basement of the Times Building at 8:20 o'clock last night brought Fire Chief Kenlon to Times Square with five engines, two trucks, a water tower, and about 100 firemen. The display of apparatus, with the noise of clanging bells, called out a big crowd of spectators. Theatregoers who came downtown by the Subway saw some of the smoke, but that was all. The actual fire was confined to a small area between fire-proofed walls and was extinguished in a few minutes.

The drug clerks and soda clerks in the basement division of the Riker-Hegeman drug store were sent upstairs by the firemen and the fumes of burning rubber caused some of the clerks in the ground floor store to go to the street. Smelling salts were handed out over the counter to girl clerks who did not desire to leave the building.

Capt. Thomas Smith of Engine No. 2 and two other firemen went within the counter of the soda fountain on the ground floor and forced a line of hose through the dumb-waiter shaft by which ice creams and syrups are conveyed from the sub-basement to the fountain. Then the blaze was extinguished. The damage was trifling and was confined to the rubber goods department of the drug store.

Jack Johnson Bribery Charges Fail.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The Federal Grand Jury investigation of charges connecting Government officials with the flight of Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, to France, concluded to-day with the announcement from the Assistant District Attorney in charge of the jury that the charges had not been substantiated. "The Grand Jury voted a no bill against all officials mentioned in the inquiry," said David Stansbury, the Assistant District Attorney in charge of the investigation, "and will make no report."

HACKENSACK.—The improvements to the Broadway Public School have been completed, and this morning the public has been invited to make an inspection of the innovation—an open-air classroom. The new class has been organized and open-air uniforms assigned.

NEW BRUNSWICK.—John Cselle lost a $20,000 suit against his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Rizsak of Port Reading, yesterday. His bride of three months left him last year and he sued for alienation of her affections.

NEWTON.—After having been at large for forty-eight hours, Alexander Michalavuk, who shot and killed his roommate, Isidore Kowalewski, on Sunday afternoon at Franklin, was captured Tuesday night at Delaware, Warren County.

NEW PROVIDENCE.—The father and mother and two brothers of Walter Kuntz of Berkeley Heights, who with his father and two brothers were burned by a gasoline explosion about two months ago, will give several inches of their skin to be grafted on the boy who was most severely burned.

LONG BRANCH.—The Lincroft Inn, built more than 100 years ago, was partially destroyed by fire to-day. The inn was well-known to motorists and for years catered to the drivers of speed horses and others who used the famous old Rumson Road.

LONG BRANCH.—Benjamin Woolley, a carpenter, whose reputation up to this time has been excellent, is under arrest, and it is thought several burglaries may be cleared up as a result. Woolley was captured early yesterday morning, the police say, in the Summer residence of Walter Content of New York on North Bath Avenue.

TRENTON.—Gov. Fielder said yesterday that if Prof. Winthrop M. Daniels resigns as a member of the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners to become a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, ex-Judge John J. Treacy of the Court of Errors and Appeals will be appointed to the vacancy.

BURLESQUE BRYAN AT TRAFFIC FEAST

1,100 Guests Applaud Heartily Skit Depicting the Secretary as a Chautauqua Lecturer.

A WARNING FOR RAILROADS

Senator Poindexter Says by Evading the Law They Are Hastening Day of Government Ownership.

Eleven hundred guests attended the eighth annual dinner of the Traffic Club at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, one of the speakers, said that New York was the only city in the world in which such a gathering of men representing transportation and shipping interests could be brought together, and he said further that he was amazed to find that the shippers and the railroad men could mix so well and sit together in such a friendly atmosphere.

Before the speaking there were several burlesques on a platform in the centre of the hall. A brass band marched through the hall leading a professional strong man in circus attire. He ascended the platform and was about to lift some prodigious weight, when Chairman Ralph H. Wallick, President of the Traffic Club, shouted:

"What are you doing here?"

"Oh, that's all right," was the reply. "I am holding your attention till the big show comes."

The "big show," which came in a few minutes, was an impersonation of the Secretary of State. He began to deliver a burlesque on one of the Chautauqua lectures, but switched off into politics. The President admonished him that his fee was for his lecture. For a minute or two the speaker then went on with the lecture, but was twice cautioned by the President for launching into silver and other issues before the lecture was completed.

Following it, the tariff, a ragged and battered figure, told something of what it had been through to two dapper young men who represented the income tax and the parcel post. The next number was a meeting of the Reserve Board, which deliberated over the case presented by a farmer of the Middle West, who wished to hypothecate a pair of cows and finally sent out a commission to make a closer study of the proposal.

Senator Poindexter, who was the first speaker, said that there was no need of more law on the subject of railroads. This was applauded heartily. There was not so much applause, though, for his statement that the law appeared to have failed when it was invoked to regulate railroads, because the railroad lawyers were smarter than the legislators and had succeeded in nullifying most of the statutes affecting their companies.

"Not one of the leading measures which has been enacted recently for the regulation of the railroads would have proved otherwise than a benefit if the railroads had enacted them for the regulation of their own business," he said. "In constantly evading and baffling the law the railroads are leading the way rapidly and inevitably to complete Government control and possibly Government ownership."

Congressman Martin W. Littleton took a directly opposite attitude. He opposed Government ownership, and absolute control on the ground that its tendency was to keep out of the field of railroad building men of genius and enterprise.

John Temple Graves, the last speaker, argued that Government ownership of railroads was inevitable and that men in the railroad business might just as well prepare for it. One of the great economies of Government operation of railroads, he said, would be the reduction of exorbitant salaries to men in high places.

SCHMIDT IN SING SING.

Justice Davis Sentences Priest to Die in Week of March 23.

Hans Schmidt, who was convicted of murder in the first degree last Thursday for killing his sweetheart, Anna Aumuller, was sentenced yesterday by Justice Vernon M. Davis in the Criminal Term of the Supreme Court to die in the electric chair in the week beginning March 23. Schmidt received the sentence with the same calmness amounting almost to indifference, which has characterized his attitude through two long trials.

When Clerk Penney asked Schmidt if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, the prisoner nodded his head indifferently.

When Justice Davis had finished speaking Schmidt nodded to his attorneys and then held out his hands to the Sheriff for the handcuffs. With his head high and, looking neither to right or to left, he walked quickly out of the courtroom.

Later, Schmidt refused to see reporters at the Tombs but sent a note down by Warden Hanley. In the note was this verse:

There is a life above,
Unmeasured by the flight of years,
And all that life is love.

Schmidt was taken to Sing Sing on the 11:55 A. M. train.

With $1,000,000 in the Vaults, It Pays Depositors on Demand.

The run on the Howard Savings Institution of Newark continued yesterday. Several hundred depositors, mostly of foreign birth, were about the bank building all day. It was necessary for the officers of the bank to call the police to control the crowd. Many of the depositors had heard an entirely unfounded report that the bank was in trouble and they sought their savings.

The bank met all demands. The Howard Savings Institution is one of the strongest banks in New Jersey, and men of prominence in financial affairs asserted yesterday that it was one of the soundest banks in the country.

According to a statement issued by Samuel S. Dennis, President of the bank, cash in the vaults amounts to $1,000,000, and $5,000,000 more can be obtained immediately if there is need. Mr. Dennis said that the assets of the bank amounted to $25,000,000 at least.

As to-day is Lincoln's Birthday, and a legal holiday, the bank will be closed, and there will be a temporary cessation of the run. The bank officials hope by to-morrow that the depositors will learn that the bank is not in trouble and the run will stop.
